

EDWARD VII CROWNED

Impressive Ceremonies Held in Westminster Abbey.

SERVICES WERE SHORTENED

Coronation Procession Was a Beautiful Spectacle.

CHEERS FOR KING AND QUEEN

Their Majesties, Drawn By Eight Cream-Colored Horses, Presented a Splendid Appearance and Were Enthusiastically Applauded—After the King Was Crowned the Archbishop of York Crowned the Queen, But With Less Elaborate Ritual.

London, Aug. 9.—King Edward VII. of England was crowned at 12.39 o'clock today, and shortly after, at 12.56 p. m. Queen Alexandra's crown was placed upon her head.

The coronation route was beautifully decorated for the fete. Constitution Hill is flanked by a continuous line of stands fronting upon Green Park. Piccadilly, from Hyde Park corner to St. James street, is lined on each side with red poles tipped with gilt, and connected up and down and across the roadway with festoons, flags and streamers of all colors. Private residences, hotels and shops are heavily decorated with crimson, blue and purple hangings, bordered with gold.

The procession to the Abbey started from Buckingham Palace at 10.30 a.m. First came a group of mounted officers of the headquarters staff in red and gold uniforms, stars and medals sparkling on their breasts.

The gift is made in the following message to his people, addressed to Prime Minister Balfour. For reasons apparent in the document itself, his majesty makes his intention public: 'Buckingham Palace, Coronation Day, 1902.—Under the will of the king's much lamented mother, the Osborne House estate is, as Mr. Balfour is aware, the private estate of the sovereign.

Next came coaches containing members of the king's household, ladies and gentlemen with noble titles, who were supposed to look after the royal robes, the king's stables, etc., duties which done for anybody else would be considered menial, but here a great honor.

The crowd was hardly through shouting with admiration when more waving plumes of the household cavalry betokened the king's approach. Drawn by eight cream-colored horses, with their outriders and escort, the cavalcade presented a splendid appearance.

After these came the Duke of Buccleugh, captain general of the Royal Company of Archers; Earl Waldegrave, captain of the Yeomen of the Guard, and the Duke of Portland, master of the horse, followed by the equerries in waiting and the royal grooms. The rear division consisted of an escort of the Royal Horse Guards and the reserve squadron of the Second Life Guards.

As the royal party approached the middle of the abbey and the fanfare of the heralds' trumpets died away into silence the organ pealed, and the choir of the sweetest boy voices in England began the anthem 'I was glad when they said unto me, We will go to the house of the Lord.'

The archbishop of Canterbury in his episcopal robes, preceded by the Garter King of arms and accompanied by the lord great chamberlain, the lord chancellor the lord high constable and the earl marshal, stepped to the front of the dais and a clear voice said: 'Sirs, I here present unto you King Edward, the undoubted king of this realm. Wherefore all of you who are come this day to do your homage, are you willing to do the same?'

The king was given the imperial orb and with the injunction that 'when you see this orb set under the cross, remember that the whole is subject to the empire of Christ.' A ring was placed on the fourth finger of the king's right hand, after which a rich glove was put on the hand and the sceptre and cross placed in it.

The king, standing before the altar, took the crown in his hands and prayed God to crown the king with all princely virtues. The king, who had knelt during this prayer, seated himself again in the chair, and the archbishop, attended by other bishops and the dean, advanced to where the king sat, and the archbishop very slowly placed the crown on the king's head.

The archbishop, standing before the altar, took the crown in his hands and prayed God to crown the king with all princely virtues. The king, who had knelt during this prayer, seated himself again in the chair, and the archbishop, attended by other bishops and the dean, advanced to where the king sat, and the archbishop very slowly placed the crown on the king's head.

The two chairs or thrones on which their majesties were seated during the greater part of the ceremony are very fine. The one for the queen has been specially made. They are big and roomy, are upholstered in ruby velvet, with a small, tasteful design of the rose, shamrock and thistle.

The coronation of the queen in much the same manner in which the king had been crowned, but with a less elaborate ritual. As the crown was placed on her head all the peeresses put on their coronets. In passing to her throne, which she took without further ceremony, the queen bowed low before the king.

EDWARD VII'S GIFT TO NATION

Presented Osborne House to England as Coronation Memorial. London, Aug. 11.—King Edward has signified his coronation in a memorable manner by the munificent gift to the nation of Osborne House, one of the favorite residences of the late Queen Victoria.

The gift is made in the following message to his people, addressed to Prime Minister Balfour. For reasons apparent in the document itself, his majesty makes his intention public: 'Buckingham Palace, Coronation Day, 1902.—Under the will of the king's much lamented mother, the Osborne House estate is, as Mr. Balfour is aware, the private estate of the sovereign. Having to spend a considerable part of the year in the capital of this kingdom and in its neighborhood, at Windsor, and having also strong home ties in the county of Norfolk, which have existed now for nearly 40 years, the king feels he will be unable to make adequate use of Osborne House as a royal residence, and he, accordingly, has determined to offer the property in the Isle of Wight as a gift to the nation.

'If, in order to give full legal effect to the king's wishes, it is found that application to parliament be necessary, the king trusts that Mr. Balfour will see that the necessary steps are in due course taken.'

It's Worse for a Woman

To suffer with skin disease than it is for a man, for a smooth skin and a clear complexion are essential elements of female beauty. So-called skin diseases are in general blood diseases, because they are commonly the result of an impure condition of the blood. What light is to the landscape painter, and the hues of his palette transform a dull world into a fairyland. So pure blood touches the lips with cherry and the cheek with rose, gives the ears a tint like the sea shell's, brightens the eyes and whitens the hands, until it transforms homeliness into actual beauty. Often a fair face will be marred by eruptions, pimples or some disfiguring rash, resulting from a scrofulous taint of the blood. When the taint of scrofula is in the blood it will be sure to show itself soon or late; and its manifestations may be as repulsive as they are painful.

Many people have been cured of scrofula in its most malignant forms by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This remedy is remarkable for its power to purify the blood. It absolutely eliminates the corrupting elements. It makes the blood clean and rich. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and so increases the quantity of pure blood supplied to the body. It is a true beautifier, giving a hue to the complexion and a sparkle to the eye, which can only come when there is a bountiful supply of pure, rich blood.

There is no alcohol in 'Golden Medical Discovery,' neither does it contain opium, cocaine or any other narcotic. 'There is nothing "just as good" for blood diseases as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, therefore do not be imposed upon by a substitute medicine, sold only for the sake of making an excessive profit out of you. If you want the "Discovery" insist on getting it.'

Chronic Scrofula Cured. 'I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery,' writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Fonda, Pocahontas Co., Iowa. 'It has cured me of chronic scrofula, of twelve years' standing. I had doctored for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped.'

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, is a work for every woman. It is sent FREE, on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to pay cost of mailing ONLY), for paper edition. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
