

KITCHEN HELPS.

Kettles should never be allowed to boil dry and then be filled with cold water, thus cracking the enamel.

To remove fruit stains from knives cut a raw potato in two parts and run each knife repeatedly between the pieces.

When washing greasy dishes, if a little soda is placed in the water it will assist materially in cleaning the china-ware.

To clean japanned trays rub with a cloth on which a few drops of oil have been sprinkled and then polish with a soft, clean piece of flannel.

To prevent your steel knives from rusting dip them after washing into a solution of thin paste of baking soda and water, then wipe clean and dry.

Cut glass should have the greatest care in handling. A wooden tub should be used for washing, and the water in which it is cleaned should never be too warm for the hands.

When polishing knives, it is a good plan to preface the work by holding the board to the fire for a few minutes, for knives will polish better and quicker on a warm than on a cold board.

Clothes Make the Woman.

The woman who does not care for clothes, whose heart does not beat the quicker or eyes sparkle at the sight of the daintiness, the prettiness, of fine linen, the deep softness of satins, the thousand and one trifles that go to make up the blissful sensation of being right "all through" so dear to the feminine heart, must have something radically wrong with her and can never be an ornament to her own sex or a torment and delight to the other.

The slovenly woman who trusts to the power of her intellect and warmth of her heart to make her attractive to men will too often find herself left to her own reflections when some well-gowned and neat looking young woman appears on the scene. It is the duty of every woman to make herself as prepossessing as possible for the benefit of the casual observer as well as those to whom she would be near and dear, for whoever contributes something to the pleasure of the passerby has directly increased the store of beauty in the world and made somebody better and happier for that passing glance.

Indiscreet and a Sundry Presence.

If you had asked her about her accomplishments, she would have told you that she had none and would have been quite sincere in her answer. She did not know how to play a piano, and she had never tried her hand at water colors or crayon sketching. She had never found time for embroidery. She got out of the key when she tried to sing. In fact, one might run through the list of what are called accomplishments without naming one at which she was an expert. Yet this sunny faced, sweet rosy cheeked girl had one accomplishment which outweighed all those she lacked. Whenever she went down town she grew cheerful, she was a happiness shaker. Children stopped frothing when she came near; old people came back from their dreams of the past and found the present sweet. Without being wise or witty or beautiful there was an atmosphere of peace about her like the fragrance of a flower. Her smile had the comforting warmth of sunshine. The songs of her glad young voice stirred the heart like a song.

The Girl Who is Loved.

Her features may or may not be good; her complexion perhaps leaves something to be desired, but her sweet, trusting and her kindly heart make her friends forget any physical shortcomings that she may have, and wherever she goes she is as welcome as the sunshine.

Woman's Life.

But without the bath they are utterly useless. Not every woman is able to take a rub bath every day, but every woman is strong enough to take a sponge bath daily and two or three tub-baths a week. The sponge baths may be made by pouring a little alcohol, toilet cologne or perfume into the water.

Little Painted Newsdays.

It is an anxious fact of general remark and observed by physicians only, that fainting is less common than it used to be. It is rare that one sees a woman carried out of church or a theater, yet they were ago when a fainter of some common occurrence, as barely to excite remark. This is due to very great pressure to the outside life, young women lead in their days, not serene and soft and other things. The heart and circulation are strengthened by exercise in the open air, and it takes a greater shock to disorder the blood balance in the body of the modern woman than it did in that of her grandmother. Youth's Companion.

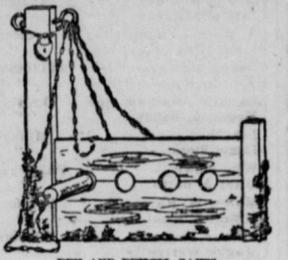

For Leather Chairs.

The following polish improves leather chairs wonderfully. Roll half a pint of linseed oil in a leaden tin, nearly cold and then stir in a pint of vinegar. Stir thoroughly mixed and bottle for use. When needed, shake the bottle well, pour a very little on a soft brush, rub thoroughly into the leather, turning the furniture if it gets dirty, and rub with soft cloths until the polish is thoroughly restored.

FOR THE WRITING TABLE.

Convenience For Keeping Pens and Pencils From Disappearing. This is a novel idea for use on a writing table which is common property for the whole family and from where pens and pencils have a habit of disappearing.

It is intended to represent the old village stocks and is made of very thin wood stained brown or even of painted cardboard. If you want to be very realistic, gum some lichen or moss on the side pieces.

PEN AND PENCIL SIZES

to the side pieces. If you make the stocks of cardboard, you must have the side pieces at least of wood.

Into the top of the highest side piece screw two little picture rings, from which must hang four lengths of thin chain, and a tiny padlock must likewise have a place. The chains are attached in their turn to four more tiny picture rings which are screwed into the tops of four pencils or pens, which are put through the four holes drilled in the front of the stocks.

The chains must be long enough to permit writing comfortably, and the whole front is glued on to a wooden stand on which at each end are fastened two fairly large lead dress weights to give it firmness. This scheme will do away with any possibility of pencils or pens being "lost, stolen or strayed."

To Avoid Careless Habits.

Many a young girl who gave promise of being a "joy forever" to her family and friends has fallen into little careless habits in her home life while pursuing her study of accomplishments that have developed into disagreeable traits as time rolled on and made her a very unlovely woman. Not every one is endowed with the ability to play, sing or paint well enough to give pleasure to her friends, but the following "accomplishments" that never fail to be found attractive may be cultivated by all:

Shut the door, and shut it softly.

Keep your own room in tasteful order.

Have an hour for rising, and rise.

Learn to make bread as well as cake.

Never let a button stay off twenty-four hours.

Always know where your things are.

Never let a day pass without doing something to make somebody comfortable.

Never come to breakfast without a collar.

Never go about with your shoes unbuttoned.

Speak clearly enough for everybody to understand.

Never fidget or hum so as to disturb others.

Never fuss, and, above all things, don't be disagreeable.

The Girl Who is Loved.

Her features may or may not be good; her complexion perhaps leaves something to be desired, but her sweet, trusting and her kindly heart make her friends forget any physical shortcomings that she may have, and wherever she goes she is as welcome as the sunshine.

TWO AERONAUTS KILLED

Car Attached to Balloon Broke, Dropping Them to the Earth.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED OVER PARIS

Aeronauts Were Seeking a Place to Descend, When Wires Broke and the Car Crashed to the Ground, Burying Them Beneath It.

Paris, Oct. 14.—M. de Bradsy, the French aeronaut, and a companion named Morin were killed by the falling of De Bradsy's airship yesterday. The pair started in De Bradsy's navigable balloon from the aeronaut station near Vaugirard. The airship made a successful ascension, sailing evidently under perfect control, over the Grand Boulevard, and off in a northerly direction. When the balloon arrived over Stains and was several hundred feet in the air the aeronauts called to some workmen in the fields, asking the direction of Pantin. De Bradsy and Morin were seen moving about the car. Suddenly one of the wire ropes broke, and then another gave way, and the car, weighing 880 pounds, crashed to the ground, burying the aeronauts beneath it. They were crushed, their legs were broken and their faces were bloody, but they were not disfigured. The bodies were taken to St. Denis.

An eye-witness gave the following account of the accident: "I was standing on the steps of my building, when I heard a voice calling. I looked up and saw an airship a hundred yards in the air. M. Morin was leaning out of the car and asked through a megaphone where was a suitable spot to descend. I indicated a place in the neighborhood, and the airship proceeded in the direction I had indicated. A few moments later I saw the balloon turn sharply, and at the same moment I heard a noise like the tearing of cloth. The piano wires attaching the front of the car to the balloon had broken. Other wires followed suit, the car became detached and it fell to the ground 200 yards distant. The balloon itself bounded up into the air and disappeared. I hurried to the spot and found De Bradsy dead and terribly bruised beneath the motor. M. Morin was lying under the remainder of the car. He lived but a few moments."

The catastrophe sent a thrill of horror through Paris, following the disaster to the Brazilian aeronaut, Severo, who was killed May 12 last, and whose balloon started from the same shed in a southern quarter of Paris as did De Bradsy's balloon yesterday. The cylindrical part was longer. The balloon proper contained 2,789 cubic feet. The frame was 70 feet long and was made of steel tubes. It carried a car 16 feet long, suspended 10 feet below the envelope of the balloon, which guarded it against risk of fire from the 16-horse-power petroleum motor.

De Bradsy was a Hungarian baron, 36 years of age, rich and clever, and had been in the diplomatic service. He made his first ascension in 1901. Morin was his engineer. He leaves a widow and three children.

CHAUTAQUA MISMANAGED

Member of "Assembly" Says It is Heavily Indebted.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 13.—A bill in equity was filed Saturday in the office of the clerk of the United States circuit court by Frederick W. McKee, of Pennsylvania, who sues in behalf of himself and other members of the "Chautauqua Assembly," known as the "Chautauqua Institution," against the "Chautauqua Assembly," the "Chautauqua University" and the "Chautauqua School of Theology." Mr. McKee charges that the Assembly has been grossly mismanaged and is now heavily indebted to an extent beyond the ability of its available assets. He asks for the consolidation of societies declared void and for an accounting of the funds.

$35,000 For Broken Neck.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Thirty-five thousand dollars for a broken neck was the verdict in Judge Kavanagh's court Saturday against the Union Traction Company in favor of Frederick Thoeffel, a carpenter, formerly employed by that corporation. About a year and a half ago, while building a shed for the company, Thoeffel fell from a scaffold, his neck being broken. During the progress of the case in court Thoeffel appeared with his head in what is known among surgeons as a "jury mast." He is also compelled to use crutches. The case is one of the few on record where the victims of a broken neck has lived.

Suicide in Church Belfry.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Edward T. Ketcher, aged 65 years, was found dead last night in the belfry of the Trinity Methodist church, corner Fifth and C streets. The man was hanging by a rope around his neck that had been fastened to the belfry of a ladder. The cause of the suicide was not ascertained, but it is believed that he was suffering from some mental ailment.

Curran, the famous Irish advocate, was a master of repartee, but he did not always score, though he enjoyed an encounter none the less if he was fairly beaten. One day, in a gay mood, he stopped and chatted with a certain Father O'Leary. "Ah, father," said the advocate, waiting for an opening, "how I wish when I die that you had the key to heaven." "Why?" said the priest, for he guessed a trap was laid. "Because you could let me in." "Ah," said Father O'Leary, "it would be better for you if I had the key of the other place, for then I could let you out."

Nothing so Good for Coughs and Colds.

Mr. J. N. Pekins, Druggist of Lawton, Okla., who has been in business eleven years, says of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that during all this time he has never had a bottle of this remedy except as not having given satisfaction, proving conclusively that this preparation will do all that is claimed for it. There is nothing so good as this remedy for coughs, colds and croup. It is pleasant to take and as it contains no injurious substance may be given to a child with perfect confidence. For sale by Green's Pharmacy.
