EDITORIAL.

1903.

Happy New Year to all—1903 is here on schedule time. Old 1902 has gone the way of all years, never to return, but will carry a creditable epitaph upon its tombstone. The advances, progress, achievements, and strides forward in the year that closed yesterday, kept pace with the most noted of years of the past half century, in all these respects. The religious world has grown and its cause is firmer, stronger than ever. In art and science we have beheld new and great things that will for all time challenge the admiration of men. Freedom is spreading her outstretched arms to the oppressed and smoothing down the iron yoke of tyranny in lands heretofore shackled by the despot. Intelligence is more widespread, dispelling darkness with marvelous strides over the habitable globe. Heathenism and its idolatrous ways are being dispelled by the spread of the Truth as frostwork before the warming influences of the rising sun. Monarchs have been led to do obeisance to the Goddess of Liberty, and it only remains for the lap of future years to gather in the harvest that "all men are created free and equal and endowed with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

New-born 1903 will win laurels, great achievements that will equal, perhaps exceed, the great achievements of any year that has passed. Onward! will be the record of each succeeding year; what is still dark to us in biblical pages, or hidden for science to unfold, will be revealed in due time when the Almighty sees that his children have reached the stage to fully comprehend—there is a day ahead when darkness in all things will be dispelled. Light will be universal and as an X-ray to things still hidden.

A Happy New Year, to every reader of THE CENTRE DEMOCRAT.

THE PITTSBURG POST, one of the most reliable and enterprising inland dailies, has added a new feature to its Sunday edition, it being some very fine art colored illustrations of a high order. The Post is always growing better.

THE fellow who makes a great many New Year resolutions is the chap who seldom keeps any. Be good all the time, resolve each day to do your best and you will live a nobler life. Swearing off on New Year and "turning a new leaf" seldom accomplishes anything worthy of mention.

ACCORDING to a little telegram a few days ago, the Methodists of the New York and the New York East conferences are chagrined because the figures of the Methodist Year Book show a loss of over 2,000 members within the territory covered by these conferences during the year.

THE Philadelphia Record Almanac, for 1903, is on our table. It contains much useful information in compact and convenient form. Its election and other statistics are always in demand, and along with its other valuable tables of information, render it a handy book that will be consulted from January until December, by business men and other classes.

Collar Bone Broken.

On Thursday, 22nd, while Mary, the 13 year old daughter of Ammon Gramley was entering the school house at Jacksonville, she was accidentally thrown against the door of the hall, sustaining a severe fracture of her collar bone. We are pleased to note the young lady is improving, although the fractured bone had to be re-set several times.

Mercantile Appraiser Appointed.

Monday the County Commissioners selected Sol. Smith, of Phillipsburg borough, for Mercantile Appraiser, to serve the coming year. Mr. Smith is a prominent business man of that place and well qualified. There were over a dozen applicants for the place, which has a small salary attached to it.

Now in Session

the Poet-laureate of the children, and no author ever had more truly the heart of a child. His Chicago home, filled with curios, was the home, so to speak, of many children other than his own. The monument, erected to his memory, by children of the public schools, fitly represents a little child as being his inspiration.

Fred High, the entertainer of Tuesday evening, came before the audience to entertain for a few minutes at the close of the session. By his story-telling, his humorous hits and recitations, he kept the audience in the state of good humor in which Dr. Hulley had left it. Fred High has pleased the Centre county institute and the teachers have the most pleasant memory of his entertainment. Before the close of the session Prof. Reynolds was introduced and he exhibited to the audience his liquid air.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The Court House was completely filled to hear the lecture and see the experiments with liquid air. The lecture was at once interesting and instructive. By a series of successful experiments Prof. Reynolds showed some of the properties of this liquid which is the achievement of modern science.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE ACCEPTED.

President Monroe, on Dec. 2, 1823, in a message to Congress, laid down these principles of American foreign policy:

1. That the American continents * * * are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for colonization by an European power.

2. That we should consider any attempt to extend a European sovereignty on this hemisphere, or to oppress or control the destiny of any other independent American nation, "as dangerous to our peace and safety."

This is the Monroe doctrine. And Great Britain, by whose then Foreign Minister, George Canning, its declaration was first proposed to President Monroe, has officially pledged herself to respect it.

IT IS FRIGHTFUL.

The unusual advance in the price of coal is working great hardships among the masses. In addition to the scarcity of anthracite the advance of bituminous coal has so largely increased living expenses as to be a great hardship. The coal barons are sharing the public in masterly style and complaining only seems to aggravate their greed.

—There, at very first clip, this morning, we made it "1903" on a receipt for S. E. Troy. Who can beat it?

—Precisely at 12 o'clock last night the great fire alarm whistle went off, denoting a firing out of the old year, and ushering in of the new. It was something like this, "T-o-o-o-o-o-o-o," only half-mile longer. Translated into English, it meant, "Happy New Year to All."

Died at Milroy, Dec. 15, 1902, John Brown, aged 70 years.

E. H. Reighard and Miss Sybilla Grenoble were married at the Lutheran parsonage, Loganton, on 23 ult.

John Cooper and Samuel Matter, the veteran Sugarvalley bear trappers, killed two more large black bears last week.

Daniel Eisenhower died on 24, at the home of his son, Samuel at Mt. Pleasant. He was one of the oldest men in Sugar valley. Had he lived until February he would have been 90 years old. Death was due to paralysis and he was only ill since last Friday.

SPECULATION on boro politics is becoming popular, while the fight for tax collector is assuming nice proportions, between Cassidy and Blanchard. For burgess there is little interest shown. The democrats are urging W. Harrison Walker, who came within nine votes the last time, to give the thing another trial. Walker is a hustler, and would make a good burgess.

An edict has gone forth from Harrisburg that all the troops of the National Guard ordered on duty in the coal fields by Governor Stone during the strike will be furnished with new uniforms, to be paid for out of the special fund for the suppression of industrial disturbances and not charged to the annual allowance account. Every enlisted man in the guard will be furnished with a blue flannel blouse, kersey trousers, campaign hat, blue shirt, leggings and a rubber poncho.

RECENT DEATHS

WM. E. MEER—Died at Rock Springs the 20th, ult. He had been ill for several weeks with uremic trouble. He was born in Ferguson twp., and was the oldest son of Geo. Hot Air in Boston.

Little Emerson—Mamma, I find no marginal note in elucidation of this expression, which I observe frequently to occur in my volume of "Fairy Tale Classics"—"with bated breath." What is the proper interpretation of the phrase?

Mamma—"With bated breath," my son, commonly occurs in fairy tales. Your father often returns from piscatorial excursions with bated breath. The phrase in such instances, however, has no significance as applying to the bait employed to allure the fish, but is merely an elastic term of dubious meaning and suspicious origin, utilized, as I have already intimated, simply because of the sanction which it has gained by customary usage in fairy tales generally. Do you comprehend, Emerson?

Little Emerson—Perfectly, mamma.—Judge.

MUSSER'S INSURANCE AGENCY.

Owing to the uncertainties of political life there are a number of persons about the court house who are now seeking new situations. Coms. Clerk Boyd A. Musser goes out and Ambrose Sleteman is the successor. The following circular letter was issued by Mr. Musser which will be of interest to his numerous friends:

Bellefonte, Pa., December 27th 1902.
MY DEAR SIR: I take this method to inform you that after January 1st, 1903, I will be located in the Bush Arcade, Bellefonte, Pa., in the general insurance business, as successor to Mr. John C. Miller.

I will handle in this business only first-class, perfectly reliable, old line companies. This will be my permanent future occupation, and my sole aim is to so conduct the affairs of my office as will merit the confidence and patronage of the public.

A social or business call from any of my friends will be appreciated.
Very respectfully,
BOYD A. MUSSER.

Mr. Musser informs us that during the month of January he will assist in the Commissioners office until the annual statement is issued and after that will devote his energies to the insurance business.

The agency secured of Mr. Miller has a strong line of companies, including the following fire: Sun, of London; Union, of Philadelphia; United Firemen's of Philadelphia; Thuringia, of Erfurt, Germany; Glens Falls, of Glens, N. Y.; Allemania, of Pittsburgh; Germania, of New York, N. Y.; United States Fidelity & Guaranty of Baltimore, Md.; Milwaukee Mechanics; Home, of Syracuse, New York.

In addition to the above he will represent some of the leading life and accident insurance companies. People who are in need of insurance, when they consult Mr. Musser will have one assurance, he is honest and reliable.

Here was cheap coal. The trap door of a 45 ton car, loaded with chestnut coal, in a Reading train, came open while passing through Williamsport. There was a trail of coal away a mile long; in half an hour 75 men, women and children, with buckets, bags and wheelbarrows, were engaged in carting the coal away. Every particle was gathered up.

THE BABY GREBE.

A Beautiful Bird That Suffers to Help the Fashions.

When you see a woman with a band of white plumage almost invisibly tinted with blue and green and more strongly with golden brown ornamenting her hat, know that from one to six of these harmless, lovable, sweet voiced little grebes were stripped from chin to vent to supply it. And when you see that other woman wearing a cape the collar of which reaches above her ears and the skirt to her shoulders and it seems to be made up of almost indiscernible sections the size of your hand know that each section stands for the life of one of these charming little chatters. The breast of the grebe is its curse. Its feathers are so tiny and fine as to be almost spineless, so thickly set they stand on end and so delicately colored as to render adequate description impossible. Crested grebes are killed without mercy for this little patch of rare feathering, and the little marsh ones do not escape. There is no bird slaughter for plumage more wanton unless it be that of the egret, which takes the life of the brooding bird for a few beautiful feathers found on the shoulders only at nesting time and leaves the young to die as they may.

Catching Book Titles.

Most readers would be at a loss to discover the source of some book titles and would forget if they ever knew that "The World Well Lost" is borrowed from Dryden, that "A Dream and a Forgetting" is Wordsworth's phrase and that it was Othello who loved "Not Wisely, but Too Well." We might add that in spite of the familiarity of the famous "Elegy" not one reader in ten will trace Mr. Hardy's "Far From the Madding Crowd" to Gray or will connect "One of Three" with the mariner who held the wedding guest with his glittering eye. Mr. Hardy's titles, like Howells', are almost invariably attractive. "A Pair of Blue Eyes," "Two on a Tower" and "The Return of the Native" stimulate curiosity.

Often a proverb or other familiar phrase is as good as a recognized quotation. "Put Yourself in His Place" and "It Is Never Too Late to Mend" were strokes of genius on the part of Charles Reade, and "Second Thoughts," "Dead Men's Shoes" and "The Root of All Evil" are hardly less inviting.—Blackwood's Magazine.

The Physician's Advice.

Once upon a time a very nervous man called on his physician and asked for medical advice.

"Take a tonic and dismiss from your mind all that tends to worry you," said the doctor.

Several months afterward the patient received a bill from the physician asking him to remit $18 and answered it thus:

"Dear Doctor—I have taken a tonic and your advice. Your bill tends to worry me, and so I dismiss it from my mind."

Moral—Advice sometimes defeats its giver.—New York Herald.

Fame.

There are many kinds of celebrity. When Haydon, the painter, visited Stratford, he held forth about Shakespeare to some rustics he met in a wayside inn. They told him that Stratford then contained "another wonderful fellow, one John Cooper."

"Why, what has he done?"

"Why, zur, I'll tell 'ee. He's lived ninety years in this here town, man and boy, and never had the toothache!"—London Standard.

Where the Birds Thrive.

The birds are not forgotten by the Swedish peasantry. At the door of every farmer's house is erected a pole to the top of which is bound a large, full sheaf of grain. There is not a peasant in all Sweden who will sit down with his children to dinner until he has first raised a meal for the birds.
