Howard.

On Thursday afternoon, at about 2 o'clock the people of Howard were start-led at hearing the fire alarm sounded. The fire was located in the Strickland home, just outside the borough limits. It was a very windy day and the water is not piped out that way, so the men discovered that the fire had gained such a headway that it was impossible to save the home. They then devoted all their time to saving the household goods, and were successful in saving all but a bed and a stove. The fire originated from a defective flue in the kitchen. It is said the loss is heavy and not covered by insurance.

SOLILOQUY :

I am the Centre Democrat, I am a numerous "kid." I am "Multum in Parvo." I was born in the City of Brotherly Love and mis-government and was brought from that city to Bellefonte in a box car, about a million of me, more or less, and didn't have a spot or blemish on my character or body. I was transferred from the cars in Curt Johnson's mule-obile or horseless wagon and dumped off at the office of the Centre Democrat, from which I derive my name. I must have been born in April as that is a lucky month to be born in, otherwise I might have been a Keystone Gazette or even a Howard Hustler with its abbreviated Subscription list; but, as it is, I thank Curt for dumping me off at the C. D., and am proud of myself, proud of my name, proud of my record, proud of my constantly expanding subscription list, proud of the 10,000 intelligent readers who eagerly scan me over from week to week in search of knowl-edge and information, (and they always got it). Three facts lead me to believe that I am of the feminine gender:

1st : I am a wonderful gossip; I tell everything I know. 2nd; I am dressed in the latest style-of the art preservative. 3d: I am frequently pressed-at east twice a week.

I am a great disseminator of all the latest news. I inform the public where they can buy the best and cheapest boots and shoes-the best fitting and cheapest clothing-the cleanest and freshest groceries, in short, the cheapest and best of anything and everything you want to buy you will find advertised in my pages, and don't you buy from anybody else, or you will surely be cheated. I am a great traveler. I go, every week, into almost every state of the Union. I make weekly visits to almost everybody that has ever moved out of our county, and tell them all the home news through my weekly correspondents. I am truthful and honest.

Hear what an hone t old dutchman says about me : Ic kon dere owe: sauga de Centre Demokrawd is de besht pneumonia. tsiding in de shtaat. De lide do om

Mrs. Matlock Fry and Mrs. William Ramer, of Northumberland, are visiting at Geo. Sones'. Geo. Bullock, of Punxsutawney, is home called by the serious illness of his mother. People who make such ado about a little social dance, do much worse by staying at home gossiping-strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

Estella leaves a large circle of relatives and friends who deeply mourn their loss, for in her were found all the qualities which make the life of a young woman beloved and beautiful. Gentle ness and unselfish generosity gave to her woman's love iness, and her Christ an faith and practice adorned more than ten years of the life of which they were the closing triumph.

Few women were more loved than she. With her own acquaintances she was tied with the warmest feelings of attachment. To ber father and immediate relatives her life was the daily offered sacrifice. Her manner was modest, gentle, and cheerful, wining confidence, bespeaking love; and her face in its sweet and pleasing lines showed the gentle virtues which enriched the soul that throbed within.

But all have passed away, forever, and not one beam from all this brightness and loveliness shall ever fall upon the deep love of the parent, brothers or sisters, to cast out the darkness of their sorrow. But hope will burn, and faith shall feed its flame, to give assurance of the bliss, the peace, the perfect rest her pure spirit has beyond. "E. H. M."

You ought to see the people scramble for me when the mail arrives. Every one wants me first. Why since Jake Runkel moved to Ohio he goes to the office half an hour before mail time; the other day, when the train pulled in, he asked the conductor if he knew whether I was on the train. Aust Hoover's little girl said "Mamma, the train is in may I so and dit de Demme Centetat? I want to see if uncle Bennie Fedicks has dot me a auntie yit." John Cadwallader gets a substitute to take his place while he goes for me. He can't wait till his day's work is done. Ed. Williams scoots out of the office when he hears the train pull in that brings me to his town. And so it goes everywhere ; why right here in Bellefonte people come and take me off the folder. While I am proud of my popularity, I have nevertheless, my trials and tribulations: The Editor swaps me for other newspapers and generally gets cheated. The editiors of other papers cut me full of holes with their scissors and then dump the rest of me into a waste basket. A woman in Unionville cuts a parallelogram out of my side containing the Unionville Items and pastes it in a scrap book; she intends to publish them in book form, A la Boonashtall. Another doubles me all up like a ball, dips me in fat and uses me for a griddle greaser, (here the North American said, "me too"). Another tied me over her applebutter crocks and in several instances I was badly soiled. Hile Griffen, of Stormstown, was "shy" of wrapping paper, so he used me in doing up a pair of ladies' No. 7 shoes; Ira Burket packed a box of groceries for a customer and jammed me into the vacant places to "fill up;" boys tear me in strips to light their cigarettes with; women use me for kindling the morning fire; men who are too stingy to buy me, borrow me and treat me roughly; I some-times have to carry around an item that makes me feel ashamed. For instance, when that joke about the garters was read aloud the clock held its hands before its face, from shame, it was so mad it had a notion to strike. And thus I might go on with lamentations ad infinitum, nevertheless they may ill treat me and mutilate me all they please.

I never scream nor holler, for I know that Charley gets for me a big round silver dollar. At this last effort the North American pushed her off the shelf and she fell to the floor and in a whisper exclaimed "I'm run down."
