MISS HELEN M. GOULD.

An Unpretentious Woman Who Is Constantly Doing Good Deeds.

One of the most unpretentious women in this country, considering her great wealth and social position, is Miss Helen M. Gould, who has made herself beloved of all classes by her generous philanthropy and unostentatious charity. For i is a very small Item indeed of what Miss Gould gives away in doing good that comes to the notice of the public. Writing of Miss Gould in Everybody's Magazine Juliet Wilbur Tompkins says:

"To know her one must see Miss Gould in her country place, Lyndhurst, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, where she spends half the year. There she is seldom without visitors-not formal house parties, formally entertained, but friends, often self supporting girls, who come for a week or six weeks to visit on the simple basis of companionship. For these there are half a dozen horses in the stable, and a riding master comes up from New York to accompany and teach the less proficient. On summer mornings Miss Gould and her guests will be up at 6:30, fortified with coffee, and off into the country lanes, riding hatless and shirt waisted in the freedom of that early hour. It is not park riding-that is, for her winter months in New York-but good, happy. country galloping, with sometimes a brisk race against a shower by way of excitement. For Miss Gould fears thunder as some women do mice, and there is no tranquil waiting under a tree for her when the cannonade begins.

"Most of us can be reached by a dramatic cry for help, a pitiful, obvious tragedy, flung in front of our windows. But Miss Gould's true claims to the hearts of her countrymen lie in faithful, undramatic. day by day service-

Her husband, who left her a fortune of $3,000,000, held these offices, and when he died she was elected his successor, having since discharged her duties with distinguished ability. One of the banks is in Port Deposit and one in Akron, Ga.

Mrs. Hester Welpton is president of the Exchange bank of Ogallala, Neb. and the town boasts of her financial skill.

St. Louis has two great banking and investment companies which employ women officials to deal with women investors. The women's department of one is in charge of Mrs. Florence M. Laflin; that of the other is conducted by Mrs. Frost, of whose work one of the bank officials says: "Not one of us could stand the strain. The average woman fears to undertake financial transactions, which appear less formidable when carried on with one of her own sex."

Table Linen.

In buying table linen the Irish damask, which is grass bleached, is usually considered the best. The French loses its gloss, and the Scotch is partially bleached with chlorine, which weakens the fiber. A good plan is to get the half bleached, which soon gets white. A poor, sleazy linen is never economical. A good quality looks well to the last, even darns being considered a patent of nobility. An all over design or a running pattern is to be preferred in the medium quality of damask to a cloth that has much plain surface, while the snowdrop and other scattered designs may be selected in the more expensive cloths. The term "double" damask means a heavy linen. It is not, however, necessarily more expensive nor yet better wearing than the single damask.

Plates. This is the age of the plate. The old time dinner set for the people who make the slightest pretense of living fashionably or serving course dinners has passed into innocuous desuctude. Very little if anything is served at the table. My lady must have different style plates for every course, and these, if they are in fine china, will cost her | anywhere from $12 to $300 or $400 a dozen. The higher prices prevail if she is a woman given to the dinner party habit, and she must change her plates as she changes her gowns, something new for every occasion. This means that at least once a year she hies herself to the man of plates and spends anywhere from $300 to $2,000 .-- New York Times.

Starching.

One of the secrets of perfectly laundered garments is in the starching. Always turn garments wrong side out before putting them in the starch, rub and clap the starch well through, but do not let a bit of it run upon the right side. Thin materials should not be starched at all, but should be dipped into gum water made of white gum arabic. Especial care should be taken in sprinkling such garments, as they cannot stand the drenching which the ready help, here for a struggling student, there for a crippled child; the long hours of work on committees by which some public end is achieved; the thousand good deeds of which even her own right hand does not know, so modest is the left."

The Sunday Night Supper.

The Sunday night supper that is informal and impromptu to a degree is gaining favor, and it is not to be wendered at, for these little suppers have much to commend them. For one thing, they save trouble. If servants are kept, Sunday is usually the day out. If the mother prepares the meals, she is reluctant to go into the kitchen in her "Sunday best" and get a hot meal. So the suppers come in handy, and they are delightfully jolly as well, for every one helps to get supper and set the table.

For one thing, there is usually some deviled ham or Holland herring. This, of course, has been bought in a can the day before and only needs to be taken from the refrigerator. Then there is the coffee to be set over a gas jet. the rye bread to cut, olives to set out, pickles, of course, and to finish up some cake made the day before.

A chafing dish, be it ever so cheap, contributes more to the Sunday night supper than anything else, for by its aid some appetizing made.dish can be prepared right at the table. The formal Sunday night supper is a thing of the past, for which the busy house keeper, who has her one breathing spell on Sunday, gives humble thanks, Stirring and Beating.

One of the most successful cooking teachers insists upon the difference between "stirring in" and "beating in" the ingredients of a dish. She says that the two methods should never be confused. To "stir in" is to mix the mate rials thoroughly, and this is the object of the directions. The spoon should be held to the bottom of the dish, and all the materials should be rubbed and pressed together as much as possible, and it is not essential that they should be stirred only one way.

In "beating in" the object is to get all air possible into the ingredients so as to make the mixture lighter. This is best done by continuously lifting it up in the same way. Therefore a beaten mixture must not be stirred round and round but lifted up from bottom to top se that air is imprisoned in it as the materials are added.

"Folding in" is even a lighter sort of mixing. The eggs or what not are beat en in with long single strokes of the spoon or beater, and the whole mass is not touched after the last addition is mixed lightly.
