EDITORIAL,

IT looks as though Quay knew why he selected his cousin for Governor; he no doubt had in mind his press muzzling scheme at the time.

SINCE the Judges salary bill passed it makes Centre county judiciary all the more desireable, just by $1000. Col. Reeder appreciates that the plum has grown in size and flavor; some others are watching the same fruit.

IT turns out that there is much rottenness in the post office department at Washington, which was thought to be uncorrupted, but plundering and criminal doings have been unearthed and are creating a sensation. # UP TO THE PEOPLE.

No one can underestimate the value of our Courts, and especially when they are presided over by men of ability, men of pure and unsullied character, men who are beyond suspicion, men who know the law, men who love justice, men who have the moral courage to voice their convictions despite public clamor or demands of corporate wealth. The great victory achieved in behalt of the public in the great Northern Securities company decision, while reflecting great credit upon Attorney General Knox in prosecuting the case, again displays the importance of having a pure judiciary. The New York World, appropriately remarks:

"Justices have often been named in reward for partisan political services; members of the Supreme Court and even chief justices have been so honored. But Justice Thayer never rendered any partisan service : he loves the law, lives for the law, thinks of the law and has no diversions, passions or pleasures except the intellectual enjoyment of arduous duty uprightly performed. Justice Thayer's surroundings are evidence of his fairness. He is simply a judge, knowing and giving the law. And well it is for the country that there are such men, quiet, silent, reflective, weighing their words, born with the judicial temper, the legal mind indifferent to politics or public clamor, to do justice in accord with the letter and the spirit of the law without prejudice or preference."

What is true of our higher courts is especially appropriate to our local courts. There is where the interests of a community are frequently dependent. sary to maintain order and protection to

NEWSPAPER MEN PROTEST.

Tuesday, several hundred newspaper editors and publishers met in Harrisburg and in a public hearing in the House, before Governor Pennypacker, made a strong protest against the Salus-Grady Press-muzzling bill passed by the legislature and now in the Governor's hands for consideration.

It was are markable demonstration that was significant. To the surprise of all the Governor displayed a hostile spirit to the newspaper men, and while attorneys from Philadelphia upheld the measure, Gov. Pennypacker's two daughters in the rear of the room heartily applauded the points made against the Press.

The impression is that the Governor will endorse this iniquity in a day or two. Quay wants newspapers muzzled, Penrose hates criticism by the Press, ballot-box stuffers despise the papers, boodlers and grafters have no use for publicity and these reasons may have much influence upon His Excellency, who was selected and promoted by them for the position he fills.
