

AMUSED THE PONY.

Alfred Tennyson Dealt Gently With the Restless Creature.

There is no American boy or girl who does not know of the great poet, Alfred Tennyson, and who will not be glad to hear of his gentleness to animals. One day the poet arrived at Haslemere station carrying a heavy packet of books. His own carriage was not to be seen, so he was glad to accept a lift home. Going up the steep hills to Blackdown, Tennyson, with his usual thoughtfulness for horses, suggested that two men and their books were too heavy a load for one small pony and proposed that he and his friend should get out and walk. They therefore jumped down and walked for some distance in front of the trap, the little horse following. Suddenly, however, they found that the books were gone! They had dropped out on the way. The poet was asked to stand by the pony's head while his companion went back to look for them. They were not found for some time, and the pony, tired of waiting, grew very restless. When his master came back, knowing that the little fellow had a great dislike for strangers, he asked how Tennyson had managed to keep him quiet. He was astonished to find that the poet had done this by holding his watch from time to time to the pony's ear, as you may sometimes see a mother do to amuse her baby.—Detroit Free Press.

FACIAL EXPRESSIONS.

and it may also give them some ideas that they can turn to advantage in making pictures.

M. Frappe, a French artist, says that all facial expressions can be reduced to three typical forms—astonishment, joy and sorrow.

His theory is that as 120 different colors can be reduced to three primary ones—namely, red, blue and yellow—so facial expressions can be similarly reduced.

The illustrations show M. Frappe's working models for each of the three expressions.

How English Boys Train Puppies.

English boys excel all others in the way they train their puppies to grow up and become good dogs. Their methods are the most sagacious, their hunting dogs are the most skillful, their collies "heel" beyond all criticism and their greyhounds are fleet past all believing. When an English boy trains his dog he is very firm with him, but very kind. Young Johnny Bull never loses his temper with his faithful four-footed friend. When he sets out to teach his dog a trick he coaxes him untriflingly and rewards him plentifully.

If doggie is out of spirits, he is allowed to rest until he feels better, and if punishment is administered it is done at the time and not delayed until doggie has forgotten his misdemeanor. Teasing is never indulged in, nor is the whip ever playfully flourished to strike terror to the poor fellow's heart. If it is wrong for doggie to do a thing today, it is wrong for him to do it tomorrow. And good food is fed to him on a clean plate, and he gets bones to gnaw only for his amusement, just as boys sometimes like to chew licorice root or sassafras bark, but of course they do not want it for dinner.

The Balance Game.

Get as many large apples and as many small nuts as there are players; then give each person a knife and a saltpoon. Only one individual may try his skill at a time. Now let them take up the apple with the saltpoon and the nut with the knife from off a smooth table, which is placed away from any wall. They may, of course, try to play off the one against the other, but even then the task will prove no easy matter. Having, however, got the two articles balanced, they must carry them, one in each hand, to a dish three yards distant from the starting point.

A Conundrum.

Every morning at seven o'clock,
Rain or sunshine or snow,
Into a long black tunnel
Five little travelers go;
All in a row like soldiers,
Sleeping a bit to enter,
The fat one at this end, the baby at that,
The tallest one in the center.

Into the dark they travel
Without a fret or a pout,
But once they made a window,
And baby traveler peeped out.
Gay little travelers dancing
Into the tunnel at morn;
Tired little travelers coming out
When the day's work is done.

An Eagle's Lifting Power.

An eagle having a weight of sixteen pounds can carry away a lamb weighing sixty pounds. To do this it must develop about two horse power and put on a strain of more than 1,100 pounds on the muscles of the wings. This leads one to think that "birds are stronger than mathematics."—Popular Mechanic.

TOILET TABLE.

A Dainty Specimen of the Style of the Eighteenth Century.

There is a charm that is undeniable about mahogany furniture of English design and manufactured in the first quarter or so of the eighteenth century. It was at this period that mahogany furniture came into general use in England, and the specimens that are preserved as heirlooms from colonial ancestors in many an American household today display the simplicity of outline and gracefulness characteristic of the best work of the old world artisans of the age. It is this very simplicity, particularly in bedroom or boudoir designs, that constitutes so large a portion of the charm of the old time mahogany furniture, for which there is at the present time so pronounced a preference that manufacturers are making a specialty of reproductions of ancient models. Some of these twentieth century productions are exact copies of the eighteenth century originals, others are based upon the old designs, and all are constructed in the most artistic manner, furniture for bedroom use being particularly in evidence. One of the most effective of these reproductions is the small toilet table here illustrated, which is most useful where space is at a premium and would make an admirable addition to the furnishings of the most spacious sleeping apartment or boudoir.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Don't Get Too Busy.

"Don't you think the modern woman is in danger of getting so busy she has no time to be kind?" asked a sweet old lady the other day. "We hear so much about making every minute count and always having some work or course of study for spare hours and systematizing our activities that there is no room left for wayside kindnesses. We get so tremendously absorbed in our own affairs, so self centered, so intent on not missing anything that is going on we pass by a thousand little anxious acts that, if we had been living fifty years back instead of now, we should have thought of. It isn't only the lame, the halt and the blind that need our love. There are hundreds who never fall by the way or ask publicly for the cup of cold water who yet are perishing for lack of it. I think the old fashioned woman had the advantage over the so called new woman in quickness of sympathy and responsiveness."

DRESS HINTS.

Plush goods, if sponged with a little chloroform, will look as clean and bright as when new.

It is said that great comfort to the feet is secured by weekly sponging the inside of one's shoes with a solution of equal parts ammonia and water.

Two tablespoonfuls each of alcohol and ammonia to a pint of gasoline is said to be an improvement on the pure gasoline for cleaning dress goods.

For a middle aged woman nothing is so becoming as black and white. It is a rich combination, is always more or less in fashion and may be worn on all occasions and at any season of the year.

Effective pressing is one of the secrets of good home dressmaking. No amount of skill in sewing goes for anything unless pressing is well done. Use a damp cloth laid on the wrong side of the goods.

To clean white silk ties rub them over with French chalk and afterward hold to the fire. The heat will cause the chalk to absorb the grease, and a shaking or brushing will render the tie quite clean.

A outcner with, as a rule, try to dispose of the inferior pieces of meat if you will take them. He usually knows whether you know good meat from bad. If, however, you know something of the anatomy of the animal it is more likely that you will get your money's worth. First you should be able to recognize the different cuts of meat. You should know what the "loin," "sirloin," "porterhouse steak," "round," etc., are and how they should appear in well fed, healthy animals. A loose grain piece of meat with bright red lean and yellowish fat is very apt to be ox beef. The best cow beef has a slightly firmer flesh, with a whitish fat, and the lean is not so red. Poorly fed flesh can be recognized by its dark red color and hard fat, with gristle running through it. If on pressure the dent in meat quickly disappears the meat is good, but if the dent remains or is slow in rising refuse to take the meat at any price. Much money can be saved by intelligent marketing. An ounce of good meat will do more good than a pound of poor.—American Queen.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Bears' Good Fortune

The bears had a nice house which they rented from Mr. Camel, and they wished to remain there the rest of their days, for they were getting along in years and did not relish the idea of moving.

But you know we are not always able to have everything our own way in this world, and so it proved to be with the bears. One day Mr. Camel decided that he would like to live in Big tears streamed out of their eyes. That house himself, and he sent word to the bears that they would have to move out.

Mr. and Mrs. Bear were almost broken hearted. They did not know what to do, for, look as hard as they could, they were unable to find another house into which to move.

When the day came for the bears to get out they did not know where to go. But go they had to, and go they did. Down the road they marched side by side, while great big tears streamed out of their eyes.

When they reached the top of a hill about a mile from the house they had just left they turned to take a farewell look at it. And what do you think? The house had disappeared! They had no more than got out of it when a big gust of wind came along and blew it down in a mass of planks and boards upon the ground. Not one piece remained attached to another.

"What a lucky thing for us!" exclaimed Mr. Bear joyfully. "If we had not got out when we did we would have been crushed to pieces."

And, indeed, they would have been. They were certainly fortunate, for a little farther on down the road they found the tiger family moving out of a real nice house, and the bears secured that one and lived there until the end of their days.—Chicago Tribune.

To Wash the Hair.

"So many women make a fuss over washing their hair," said an expert hair specialist the other day, "that I would like to give them a word of counsel. To wash the hair with the best results I boil and dissolve a square inch of white castile soap in a quart of water. When this is still hot I pour it out of a small bottle into different parts of the scalp and shampoo thoroughly. But before I use the soapy water I loosen the dirt from the scalp by vigorous combing and rubbing. After the scalp and hair are thoroughly cleansed I turn on them a spray of lukewarm water. This is best applied through a tube and small perforated cap purchasable in any drug store. When the hair is thoroughly cleaned of all suds I let the water grow colder and colder until just the chill has been taken away. For successful results it is absolutely necessary that all soap must be removed. If it is not the hair will be sticky and ugly."

Boys Are Watched.

When we see the boys on the streets and public places we often wonder if they know that business men are watching them. In every bank, store and office there will soon be a place for a boy to fill. Those who have the management of the affairs of business will select one of the boys. They will not select him for his ability to swear or smoke cigarettes. Business men may have a few loose habits themselves, but they are looking for boys who are as near gentlemen in every sense of the word as they can find, and they are able to give the character of everybody in the city. They are not looking for rowdies. When a boy applies for one of these places and is refused they may not tell him the reason why they do not want him, but the boy can depend upon it that he's been rated according to his behavior. Boys cannot afford to adopt the habits and conversation of the loafers and rowdies if they ever want to be called to responsible positions.—Advance.

Electric Tricks.

Electrified Glass.—Warm a glass rod and rub it briskly with a silk handkerchief or any piece of old silk. It will become electrified and will attract light objects, such as bran, pill balls, feathers and small bits of paper, in the same manner as a magnet attracts iron.

Electrified Sealing Wax.—Rub a stick of sealing wax with warm, dry flannel. It will become electrified and will act in the same way as the glass rod. Rubbing it briskly on the coat sleeve will have the same effect, but careful mammals might object to that.

An amusing trick is to throw up a light feather and chase it with an electrified stick of sealing wax.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH.

Cure Catarrh by Nature's Own Method— Every Breath of Hyomei Brings Relief.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by dosing the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete outfit of Hyomei costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

S. Krumrine has sold hundreds of Hyomei outfits and the more he sells, the more convinced he is that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.

franchise that is healing to the respiratory organs.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment.

Remember that if Hyomei does not cure you, Sidney Krumrine will refund your money. This is a good time to cure catarrh by this natural method and prevent catarrhal colds that are so common at this season.

CURES CATARRH.

"Hyomei the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered."

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomei is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials have been received from the most prominent men and women in the country who have been cured by this remarkable remedy. Ministers, bankers, lawyers, even eminent physicians have sent strong testimonials as to the remarkable powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh.

Former Mayor Emory M. Yard, of Trenton, N. J., writes: "You have my permission to say that I believe 'Hyomei' to be one of the most wonderful cures for catarrh and throat trouble that has ever been discovered. I enclose you money order for two outfits for friends of mine to whom I have recommended 'Hyomei' and who I am anxious shall have the benefit of this remarkable panacea."

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last some weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use is necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of curing catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

S. Krumrine had so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that he will for a limited time, sell this medicine under his personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchaser can say that it did not help them. x42

STRONGEST EVIDENCE OF FAITH.

Bellefonte Guarantees that Hyomei Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Bellefonte guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or he will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that S. Krumrine is selling Hyomei, the treatment that has made so many remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh in Bellefonte and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone. It cures catarrh of the head and throat, or of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. When using this treatment, the air you breathe will be found like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where grow balsam trees and plants which make the air pure by giving off volatile antiseptic
