WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Senate Committe on Military Affairs has decided to hold a public hearing of all the protests, which are being made against the appointment of Leonard B. Wood to be major general. His nomination has just been sent to the Senate by the President. At the beginning of the Spanish War, Wood was an army surgeon. He was made Colonel of the Rough Riders and later appointed Brigadier General in the regular army, If his appointment as Major General is confirmed, he will become head of the army in 1908 and remain such until his retirement in 1924. All the older officers over whose heads he has been appointed, and who will thus be prevented from ever becoming head of the army, are bitterly opposed to Wood's nomination, which they claim was received through political influence. There has been a lively debate in the senate on the numerous petitions from all over the country sent to that body, protesting against the seating of Reed Smoot, the Mormon senator from Utah. As there it little hope of proving Senator Smoot a polygamist, the petitions deprofound citicism has long ago annihila- clare that he is wholly ineligible to a seat in the senate because he is an apostle of the Mormon church, which claims authority to control its members in civil as well as religious affairs, and that he should be expelled for giving his highest allegiance to a government other than women's religious organizations. The

WAR AND RAILROADS.

During the three years of the Filipino insurrection 1005 American officers and men were killed in battle or died of wounds, and 2897 were more or less seri-Their duty consists of keeping the cars clean ously hurt. The British killed in action in the South African struggle, lasting about two years and a half, totaled 5727. According to a bulletin just issued by nary coach passenger in the same capacity as the Interstate Commerce Commission, during the year ending June 30, 1903, 3554 persons were killed on the railroads trains, as well as those on trains leaving New of the United States and 45.977 injured. York at 5.55 p.m. daily for the West and leav. It should be emphasized that this was in a single year. It would seem that our railroads are quite as deadly as were the rifles of the Boers or the bolos of the Filipinos.

Another startling feature of the report of railroad casualties for 1903 is the large increase shown over the year before, when 2819 persons were killed and 39.000 injured.

Two heavy gold bugs, Rockefeller and Gould, the one controls the world's oil, the other a railroad magnate, are after the Penn'a railroad company, and espe cially gunning for Cassatt its president, to oust him, and get control of the Pennsy's vast railroad system, which would place about twenty thousand miles of railroad in the United States under the thumbs of these monied monsters. They are getting the Pennsy in hot water, and are closely on to having a majority of its stock.

In the last week at least a dozen instances have come to our notice where prominent democratic papers over the state have raised a protest over the men and methods of the democratic organization in this state. There seems to be a general lack of confidence in the Guffey-Hall crew who have succeeded in reducing the party to the very lowest notch. They claim there was no campaign last time for the reason there was no evidence of an organization, except an occasional flutter on paper. We have confidence that a little more brains and leadership, than Guffey boodle, would bring Pennsylvania d:mocracy a better showing.

IN an address to the teachers, of Lancaster county Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaffer put his finger upon the weak point in public school education to-day. He said in effect that plain and wholesome educational food is being neglected for fancy dishes which are hard on the mental digestion. He declared that it is of more importance to have a knowledge of reading, writing. reckoning, geography and drawing than of whales, butterflies and Baltimore ori-Mr. Schaffer went at length disoles. countenancing the educational gew-gaws of the present day and the cramming system in our schools and colleges. Many young men and women leave the schools and colleges with a mere sham education, from having had none but what might properly be termed a "fancy" education and a practical knowlege of nothing. There is a needed reform in modern methods of education. Football punishment inflicted after conviction of and other games take up more time of the students than do their studies. Inety, a committee of which has been cordially received by the President, is going to appeal to attorney General Knox, to protect the negro by defending the Fifteenth Amendment.

OFFICERS RIGHT TO SHOOT.

An officer may not shoot a person, charged with a misdemeanor, and feeing to escape arrest. If he does so he is liable to punishment.

That is the substance in the opinion of interest to the police, sheriffs, and constables handed down by Justice Orlady of the Superior Court in the appeal of Philip Rhoads from the Court of Quarter Sessions of Somerset county. Rhoads was a deputy sheriff. He was given a warrant for the arrest of Robert Maurer for misdemeanor. On July 16 Rhoads attempted to arrest Maurer. The latter ran and Rhoads chased him across several fields and fired six shots at him and hit him. Maurier died from the wound, and Rhoads was indicted for voluntary manslaughter. The appeal was then taken to the Superior Court.

Rhoads, in the lower court, put forward a plea of self defense. To this Justice Orlady says Rhoads was never in danger. While Maurer was evading arrest he was not physically resisting the of the mood feels like a brute and officers. The Court says that when an officer, in making an arrest for a misdemeanor, is met with forcible resistance he is not obliged to retreat but may use such force as is reasonably necessary ; yet he is not justified in taking human life, except when the resistance is so forcible that the officer is in danger of death or great bodily harm.

Justice Orlady says : "To permit the life of one charged with a misdemeanor to be taken when fleeing from arrest would, aside from its inhumanity, be productive of more abuse than good. curity of person and property are not en-dangered by petty offenders being at large, as in the case of a felon. Taking human life in the name of the law is the our highest grade of felony and it would ill become the majesty of the law to justi-fy such a sacrifice in arresting one charged with a misdemeanor, when, if stead of games being of second they are reckoned as of first importance with the students and even of some of the faculty of our colleges. To pursue this criticism farther is useless, as the public are so well aware of the queer uses our institu-tions of learning are put to at this day.

Male "Housemaids."

Male "housemaids" are a contribution to the solving of the servant problem in Great Britain, it seems. Several thousands of foreign young men have been transported to London to engage in general domestic work in British households. So far nothing but commendation is heard on the subject These manservants, say their employers, do the work that has generally been allotted to women in a cleaner. quicker and more thorough fashion than the sex they have displaced. They waste less time, have no grievances, no "visitors," ask no higher wages and do not bother about "evenings out." Altogether if the future carries out the prophecy of the present it will not be long before the reign of women workers in the "essentially womanly, field of housewifery" will be quite eclipsed by the masculine superiority therein shown.

The Sensitive Woman.

The sensitive woman who is ever getting her tender feelings lacerated and always feels that she is either misjudged, ignored or slighted is a disturbing factor most difficult to cope with. She is usually one of the clinging, helpless mortals in appearance and melts into tears so readily that any one attempting to argue her out ends in abject apology. She is depressing, provoking and wearing, yet demands and receives far more attention than any other type simply because her display of weakness dis arms her foes and makes her friends more valiant. The suppression or conversion of this class would be a great step toward reform, finding favor in many households.

Business Ability.

One of the most successful of the dress manufacturing firms in New York is composed of two young women who while engaged in teaching began in a very modest way to put out some original work in dressmaking. First with the design for collarettes, then for waists and finally for whole suits these women have gradually enlarged their field until they supply some of the largest retail stores in New York and in other cities. Forty machines are run by electricity, and two floors on a prominent thoroughfare are given up to their work.
