QUAY AFTER HANNA.

When Senator Quay's seat in the United States Senate was contested several years ago, Mark Hanna was the man to knock the Penn'a. Boss who had to come back and fight it over. Now Hanna is figuring around as an aspirant for President and Quay has his axe out. He has notified Hanna that Pennsylvania will not support him, the state delegation will be for Roosevelt. and that if Hanna and his boodlers don't stop, the entire republican ticket will be licked this presidential year. Wall street and the representatives of some of the big western railroads are opposing Roosevelt and Quay says if they nomin-

They found the way more difficult than they anticipated. After traveling seven days on this "cut off," during which time they suffered terribly, they reach d Little Bear Creek, and were still 50 miles from Fort Duquesne.

On March 31 they reached Chartier's Creek, where the young men again constructed a raft with which to cross. This craft was too light, and much time was lost in crossing. By following the Monongahela River, in which the creek empties, they arrived opposite Fort Pitt (formerly

A boat was dispatched to bring them over the river, but before reaching them the boatmen, suspecting them of treacherous intent, called to them to remain where they were for the night and they would be taken over in the morning with them to come on, telling them of their pitiable condition. They were finally taken as though they thought that when the Saviour across to the fort, where their escape caused great rejoicing, and their needs quickly relieved.

A SPLENDID THOUGHT.

There are some connected with editorpractical experience with the problem of how to raise children, yet have ideas. The other day the following appeared in the Lewistown Sentinel, by the Burnham correspondent, and contained such practical ideas and lofty sentiment that we clip it entire, hoping that it will be read with as much appreciation, as by us: Love your children. Now I cannot offer any better advice than to give you the words of Hon, Clayton Kreuson, who spoke these in spired and beautiful words before the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He said in part, do not have your children turn pale when they hear your footsteps. Always remember that children have the same rights as you have and you should always treat them as human beings. Raise your children by love, by kindness, by tenderness and not by brutality Now take for example the children of Billie Stewart. Look at them, bright, mannerly, obedient, and of the most loving disposi tion I ever saw. These are models you should be governed by. When your little child tells you a lie (which I hope it : ever will) don't rush at it as though the world were about to go into bankruptcy. Be honest with him. A tyis born of tyranny on the one hand and weakness upon the other and when you rush upon a poor little child with a club in your hand of course he will lie. I thank mother nature that she has put ingenuity enough in the breast of a child when attacked by a brutal parent to throw up a little breastwork in the shape of a lie. When one of your children tells a lie be honest with him. "Tell him you have told hundreds of them yourself, tell him it is not the best way, tell him you have tried both and, as Lew Slagle told his son Isaac. "Honesty is the best policy, I have tried both." Be honest with your child. Now just imagine a man as big as a bartender with a liberty pole in hand was to go up to a child five years ol d. What is the child to do. He in a voice of thunder would shout, "Who broke that plate?" I tell you people there is not a solitary one of you that would not swear that you had not seen the plate or that it was cracked when you found it. Just think of it now when your child commits a wrong and take it in your arms and let it feel your heart beat against its truly and sincerely love it. Some people when a child commits a wrong drive it from their door and say, "never do you darken that door again" and these very people will get down on their knees and pray God to take care of the children they have driven from home. Tell your children-go where you will, commit what crime you may, fall to what degradation you may, you can never commit any crime that will shut my door, my arms, my heart to you. As long as I live you shall find no more sincere friend and father than I. Do you know I have seen same people who acted said, "Suffer little children to come unto me for of such is the kingdom of heaven." that he had a rawhide under his mantle and made that remark to get them within striking distance. Brothers and sisters I don't believe in the government of the lash. If any of you expect to whip your children after hearing me I want to have your photograph when you are in the act with your face red with vulgaranger, and then dimpled with fear like a piece of water suddenly struck by a cold wind. Have its picture taken, then if that little child should die I canpany he works for says "Don't." I despise that way of going through this world. In olden times they used to make children go to bed when they were not sleepy and get up when al work of this paper who have had no they were. Wake your children with a kiss and not with a club. I believe in letting children commence at which end of the meal they want to. Let them eat what they want, it is their business. With apologies to all. Jack.
