A KIMONO SACK.

How to Make One With Half a Dozen Large Handkerchiefs.

Kimono jackets and sacks made of handkerchiefs are as popular as they are pretty. The one in the illustration has a design of rose color on white, and there are six handkerchiefs where the back is comparatively plain and seven where looseness is desired in the back. Two handkerchiefs are gathered to the front and two to the back yoke, and the sleeves have part of one side sewed up and the remainder sewed into the armhole, with the point turned back to form a little ornament. By a little ingenuity the border of the handkerchief from which the yoke is cut may be made to outline the shoulder seam and the neck, as in the one illustrated. Ribbons are tied where the neck fastens.-New York Mail.

When Home Is Sweet Home. from a lack of mutual consideration among the members of the family. The "soft answer that turneth away Harper's Bazar. wrath" is forgotten for the hasty reply, the unkind retort, that kindles the ire of ill feeling. Love does not linger in the home where rudeness shows its unlovely qualities. It chooses to dwell in the home where the spirit of unselfishness. of self control, of thoughtfulness and of charitableness makes the atmosphere sweet. The woman who is quick to take offense is not like her of whom the Holy Scripture says, "Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace." Happy homes depend on happy hearts. Home is distinctively a woman's sphere, and she who sweetens it most makes earth nearer beaven.

Age Told by Figure.

The woman who follows an outdoor sport is usually a very graceful woman. The woman who takes to the rocking chair at 9 o'clock in the mornfor only a few minutes, is not the woman who will preserve her figure. At forty this woman will look her age, and at fifty she will look a great deal older. Don't forget that age is told not by the lines on the face, but by the figure. The middle aged figure is well known. The hips and abdomen are prominent, and there is fat on the shoulder blades. Then there is the figure of old age. There is a withered figure, thin above the waist line and heavy on the hips. This is the stage when a woman begins to look as though she were seventy long before she has lived out her sixties.

Small Towels.

The housekeeper who has not discovered the value of the small towel! in her household economics has some thing yet to learn. It is only recently that they have been used to any extent in private families, but their usefulness is making them increasingly popular. This is the towel that has heretofore been known as the hotel size. It is the small hand towel that is used in large quantities in public places, where many people use a towel only once. A large towel would be inconvenient, and the ordinary towel would make at least twice the bulk to send to the laundry.

Are Women Too Metive! The women of this generation are undoubtedly suffering from too much occupation. The listless, bored, discontented, unsettled girl of twenty years ago has given place to the restless, energetic and positively business woman thirsting for fresh outlets for enterprise. We are caught up in the whirlwind of modern unrest, and we tangine we are happy because we have no time to think anything to the contrary.-Ladies' Field.

GOOD NURSERY FOODS.

How to Make Graham Porridge, Barley Water and Rice Jelly. Graham Porridge.-Half a cup of fine crumbs from a stale loaf of graham bread, one cupful of scalding milk. Do not boil the milk. Bring it to the scalding point and take from the fire. Stir in the crumbs and when cool enough to be eaten give it to the child with cream and a little sugar. It is slightly laxative. Barley Water.-Two tablespoonfuls of pearl barley washed well and picked over, then soaked for an hour in enough tepid water to cover it, two cupfuls of boiling water, a very little salt, one teaspoonful of sugar. Stir the soaked barley without draining into the boiling water, salt slightly and simmer for two hours in a farina kettle, never letting it boil hard and stirring up from the bottom now and then. Strain through coarse muslin, squeezing well, and sweeten. Give quite cold or lukewarm, adding milk if the baby can digest stronger food than simple barley water. This last often agrees with children whose stomachs reject milk and artificial Rice Jelly .- One-half cup of raw rice, one quart of cold water, a pinch of salt in the water, a very little sugar. Soak the rice for half an hour in cold water. Drain, add to the salted water, set over the fire in a double boiler and simmer for three hours. Strain through cheesecloth, squeezing hard, sweeten and add a little milk of the proper temperature for feeding. This is good for a baby who is suffering with disorder of the bowels. In this case omit the milk. - Philadelphia North American.

WOMAN AT HOME.

The Necessity of Exercising the Virtue of Toleration.

Tolerance is one of the finest virtues that ever graced a human being and one of the rarest to grace a woman. It is the mother of patience and of charity, twin virtues without which the noblest woman is bankrupt alike of happiness and of usefulness. Yet! so fierce a flame of rectitude springs in us-especially so fierce a flame for those we love, whom we cannot bear to see going astray, whom we would violently yank into the right way if they yield not to gentler methodsthat we find ourselves fairly tortured when we are called upon to make friends, even to the extent of endurance, with the Mammon of unrighteousness. Yet bear with evil, with crudities and obliquities we must - bear with them, not glaze them over. To be tolerant in the highest sense is not to be blind, but merely to bear one another's burdens of sin and ignorance and mistake. The wedding bells toll the knell of our girlish revolts. Then we could lay down the law. Now we must patiently put ourselves in its way and wait, perhaps only to be crushed under it in the end. At any rate, we must wait, and perhaps-per-Dissension in families often arises haps-the right moment may dawn be fore the onrush of the car of judgment. and we may save those we love best .-

KITCHEN HELPS.

Don't allow grease to burn on the outside of your frying pan.

Don't allow the dishcloth to remain wet from day to day. It will sour and become musty

When washing greasy dishes add a few drops of ammonia to the water, which makes the work quicker and more thorough.

Keep a high stool in the kitchen, on which you may sit to prepare vege tables, wash dishes or iron. It can often be used in place of a stepladder. Don't throw or drain vegetables into the sink. Small particles will go through the sieve and lodge in the trap plumber. Fine coal ashes are most useful for cleaning the bright spots of a kitchen ing and who sits all day, getting out range and the fender. Dip a piece of slightly damp flannel in the ashes, scour the steel, and a brilliant polish Women Blacksmiths. A blacksmith's shop managed entire ly by three women is one of the interesting sights to be seen in Kansas. The mother took entire charge of the busi ness about fourteen years ago upon the death of her husband and had her daughters brought up not only to shoe a horse, but, to understand every branch of the trade as well. The mother died, and now the three daughters, one of whom is married, have five men in their employ and carry on a very prosperous business. They personally superintend the shoeing of every horse.

Wash Your Eyes. They need it and will repay you by looking brighter. Immerse the eyes in clear water, and open the lids widely. It is better to do this before than after washing the face, as any trace of soap carried to the eye surface will cause pain. In commencing treatment let the water be very slightly tepid. Later cold water will be found quite easy to bear and more satisfactory. This neglect of eye washing is responsible for the deadly dull appearance presented by many of these "windows of the Children's Medicine. It would we well if all who have the management of children would remember that the "great art of medicine is the proper application of the proper medicine in the proper dose at the proper time." One of the greatest errors of the nursery is the too frequent and indiscriminate manner in which medicine is given whenever the child appears the least unwell.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Rooster's Advice

Tommy was in trouble. Tommy was also in bed, for his trouble was a broken wrist, brought on by hitting the ground too hard when he fell out of the apple tree. He was lying on his white pillow and dreaming of the good times the boys were having outside when the door opened, and to his great amusement in walked Jack, the old rooster. He was carrying a big book under his wing, and he came straight for the bed. Tommy felt like crying out with mingled fear and surprise as he saw five hundred, five hundred, fifty, one Jack hop up on the table beside him, but his voice seemed to be stuck somewhere down in his stomach. Jack said nothing, but pulled a big pair of spectacles from beneath his other wing and opened a large book of notes. Tommy's eyes bulged.

"What are you going to do?" he asked timidly.

"Going to read you a few helpful rules for climbing trees. Some from my own valuable experience," said Jack, winking one eye and turning the pages with his claws. "If you will climb trees, you should know how to do it."

"This certainly is queer," thought

"That's very true," said Jack, putting his head first on one side and then on the other. "I hadn't thought of "'Rule 3.-Then hold your tail out straight."

Here Tommy burst out laughing. "I never had any tail," he giggled. Jack scratched his comb and thought for a moment. "I have it!" be cried. "'Rule 999 .- Men and boys that have no claws, wings or tail should never climb trees."

"That meets your case, Tommy. Take my advice and don't," saying which be jumped to the floor and vanished.
