

Society Life.

"Society Life," says Mrs. Jessie Brown Pounds of Ohio, "is the modern babble of Babel. Modern life is getting to be more and more a vulgar display. Expenses are so rapidly exceeding incomes that there is no longer any home life. All the adults of families are forced to go out and work to meet the heavy expenses that modern conditions impose. We would do much better to keep our daughters at home and let them make a home than to send them out to work in order to increase the family income. Let us lead simpler lives and develop more homemakers. The women of the middle classes in this country are dying at present from too much housekeeping, and the women of the upper classes are dying, too, but from a different cause. Too many courses at dinners and too much bric-a-brac to worry over are killing them. American parents are proud if their daughters marry a European nobleman, but heartbroken if one marries a missionary."

Almonds and Peanuts.

Nuts which are "one celled fruits" are not only useful as foods, but are of importance medicinally. For example, there is no better brain and nerve food than walnuts and blanched almonds. They are also useful as muscle makers. Almonds give no heat or waste. Walnuts give heat. Peanuts are a nerve food. As a panacea for insomnia they deserve an honored place among the nuts. They are rich in albumen, of which they contain 50 per cent, with 20 per cent of fat and nitrogenous matters. Doctors recommend them as valuable in the form of soups and purees. In the tropical countries the fresh seeds of the peanut, which taste something like almonds, are eaten. When roasted they are used as a substitute for chocolate.

The Untrammelled Girl.

In former generations we were told that girls kicked over the traces because they were curbed in too tightly. Now not even a ribbon holds them, and they are galloping on at a pace which leaves chaperons and mothers breathless behind, and each girl seems to be becoming a law unto herself, only occasionally hampered by some big fence, which will probably be jumped if the temptation is great enough and if there is reasonable possibility of her being able to crawl back unperceived.—Exchange.

Babies and Starch.

Don't give babies any food containing starch until they have cut several teeth. They can't digest it. Arrowroot, bread, biscuits, corn flour—in fact, all farinaceous foods—contain a large proportion of starch, and until the teeth begin to come there is not in a baby's saliva the special ferment which digests starch.

Girls and Study.

Dean Marion Talbot of the University of Chicago gave sound advice to the women students when she declared that no girls with brains need stay up after 10 o'clock to study. Whether the health of woman is equal to the strain of university life is still an open question. To settle it in woman's favor requires unflinching observance of Dean Talbot's injunction concerning cleanliness, exercise and rest. That the more intricate nervous system of woman demands more rest than her less sensitive brother needs is a truth no longer denied. Thus far the progress of the higher education of woman is almost entirely in favor of its continuance. Elimination of the midnight lamp and at least eight hours of unbroken sleep are indispensable to complete demonstration that woman's right to the highest instruction is compatible with her physical endurance as well as with her mental endowment.—Chicago Chronicle.

Did you ever try throwing cards in a hat? It is great fun. Take an old high hat, place it on the floor, then let the players in turn stand a distance from it, say ten or twelve feet. Use an ordinary pack of cards and toss them one by one in the hat, as far as possible. A prize to him who gets in the greatest number adds to the interest. After a little practice it is remarkable how skillful one may become.

Danger in Washing.

"Mamma," said little Elmer, "you mustn't wash my neck any more." "Why not, dear?" asked his mother. "Cause our Sunday school teacher said all little boys were made of dust, and if I get wet I'm afraid I will be mud," replied he.

Weight For Size.

In the race for beauty the average young woman by no means gives first attention to her weight. She may believe that to be athletic she should be lean, but if she does she makes a mistake. She may be very athletic and still may be called plump. A woman so long as she is not stout will not worry over her weight provided she is physically prepossessing. At the same time the scales are anxiously watched, and for that reason our readers doubtless will be interested in studying a chart which is supposed to give the correct weights for the sex:

Table with 2 columns: Pounds, Pounds. Rows show weight ranges for different heights (e.g., 5 feet 1 inch to 5 feet 6 inches).

The Gas Range.

An oft quoted saying has something about the little foxes eating grapes, and it is by the accumulation of trifles that burdens develop. One trifling matter in the use of gas for cooking is the habit of removing a kettle or saucepan from the burner before turning off the gas. Another extravagance is allowing the flame to flare up all around the dish. If the gas merely acts upon the bottom of the pan without appearing at all against the sides one is using all the best strength of the heating power.—Pittsburg.

She Keeps Bees.

Mrs. L. B. Baker of Lansing, Mich., is proprietress of a flourishing apiary. Starting with two colonies of bees, she made the first year a profit of $100. The second year her honey increased her income to $300. The third year's record fell a little below the second because of a long continued drought, but her profits averaged an increase at the rate given. The average is excellent, but is not abnormal and will serve to show what can be done.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say 'Oh, it will wear away,' but in most cases it will wear them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Bullfrog and the Crow

The bullfrog loved the Widow Crow. But wasn't fond of black. And said: 'I'll never marry you. For taste in dress you lack.'

"If you were like the robin red Or like the jay bird blue, I'd say, 'My dear, come fly with me And be my sweetheart true!'"

"YOU NEED NOT FRET," THE CROW REPLIED.

"You need not fret," the crow replied; "I'd never marry thee. While true you have a greenback rare, I cannot spend it; see?"

"I'm looking for a man with gold, Who has it in a pack, And not a hopping bullfrog bold With greenbacks on his back."

Early Habits.

"That last speaker," said the first guest at the banquet, "was quite entertaining." "Yes," replied the other, "and he's a self made man too."

"I thought his delivery rather slow, though."

"That's natural. He began life as a messenger boy."—Denver News.
