RETENTIVE CHARM.

The Magnet That Draws to a Woman Ardent Friends.

Admiring and loving are quite different things, though often confounded, for how frequently one hears a man say, "Oh, yes; I admire her very much, but she is not the kind of woman I could fall in love with." What first attracts a man is beauty, what holds a man is charm, and a woman may be very lovely, yet possess no retentive charm. Thus it is we see a beautiful woman losing her grip on a man's affection, while a plain woman does not do 80.

Why this should be is a rather vexed question, but as a general rule it will be found in such cases that there is none other than mere physical beauty, no beauty, it may be, of intelligence, feeling or sympathy. It matters not how exquisite a woman may be in complexion and features, if there is no depth in her nature she ceases sooner or later to be attractive.

Tactful, intelligent sympathy which can comprehend another's most trivial joy and deepest pleasure, another's alightest grief and keenest sorrow, is the magnet that draws around a woman a circle of ardent friends. To be able to descend in sympathy to the level of a fool or ascend to the heights of a genius means in more mundane matters a host of admirers for a woman as these admirers admire her for appreciating them. - McCall's Magasine

BONING A BIRD.

To Do It Properly Observe the Following Instructions.

In buying birds for boning select those which have been fresh killed, dry picked and not drawn. Singe, remove pinfeathers, head and feet and gut off wings close to body. Lay bird on a board, breast down.

Begin at neck and with sharp knife cut through the skin the entire length of body. Scrape the flesh from backbone until end of one shoulder blade is found. Scrape flesh from shoulder blade and continue around wing joint, cutting through tendinous portions which are encountered; then bone other side. Scrape skin from backbone the entire length of body, working across the ribs. Free wishbone and collar bones, at same time removing crop and windpipe. Continue down breastbone, particular care being taken , near bone, or to cut the delicate membranes which inclose entrails. Scrape flesh from second joints and drumsticks, laying it back and drawing off as a glove may be drawn from the hand. Withdraw carcass and put flesh back in its original shape. - Fannie Merritt Farmer's "Food and Cookery For the Sick and Convalescent."

KITCHEN HELPS.

Don't allow ashes to accumulate underneath the fire grate. See that they are taken up every morning.

If you have no flour box in your kitchen buy an empty coffee chest, paint it nicely, put on casters and there is your flour bin.

When milk boils over on the stove or in the oven sprinkle a thick layer of salt on the burning milk. Let it remain a few minutes, then brush off. A useful kitchen device is a perforated strainer that fits tightly in the escape of the sink. The strainer is funnel shaped and easily allows liquids to flow into the pipe, but retains all solid matter.

To clean a copper kettle fill it with very hot water and rub it with sour milk, or, better still, buttermilk. Afterward dry and polish with a leather. Kettles cleaned in this manner once or twice a week will always keep bright.

The Woman of Poise.

The woman of poise indulges in few exclamations or superlatives and does not waste enthusiasm over trifles. She is gracious, but never gushing, and she has acquired the habit of listening attentively, not awaiting with ill concealed eagerness a pause in the conversation to enable her to rush in and take the floor. The woman of poise never lingers after her goodby is spoken; never, in fact, under any circumstances talks long while standing. She does not experience the difficulty too many people have of taking leave gracefully. She says goodby, gives you a bright smile and is off to the pleasure of duty which awaits her. You do not find out all there is to know about the woman the first time you meet her. You become acquainted with her by degrees and grow gradually into her friendship.

The Sink Brush.

A correspondent writes: "For years we have been studying the problem of sink brushes. The best we could do was to take an old whisk broom and use that. It lasted much longer than any regular sink orugh wakh we course buy at the store. But now we are happy. We have a wire sink brush. We have had it as long as we should have had four of the bristle kind. Not only is it clean itself, but it keeps the sink in better shape, and dipped in boiling water it is very useful in cleaning the grime from the bottom of the saucepans which a smoky fire or an oil stove has deposited there."

The Ideal Manner.

The ideal manner is difficult to describe. It should be lively, but not loud; self possessed, but not self conscious; stately, but not stiff; friendly, but not fulsome, and pleasant, but not pedantic. It should have the dignity of the past combined with the modern democratic note of twentieth century existence. A perfect manner is born, not made, but much can be done to train oneself up to the standard destred.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Rotten apple applied to an inflamed part of the body will relieve the inflammation.

The juice of a lemon taken in water. with no sugar, the first thing in the morning will improve a sallow complexion.

Two teaspoonfuls of salt in half a pint of tepid water is an emetic always on hand, and it is an antidote for poisoning from nitrate of silver.

If tincture of lodine is instantly applied where carbolic acid has touched the flesh no blister will result. The iodine should be applied with a feather.

A delightful essence to inhale when suffering from headaches is composed of one dram of oil of lavender, one ounce of lump camphor, three ounces of liquid ammonia and one pint of alcohol. Dissolve and bottle.

Thirst In Children.

Every child should be taught that thirst quenching does not depend so greatly on the quantity of fluid that is swallowed as on the length of time during which liquid is kept in contact with the tissues of the mouth and throat A small quantity of water used as a mouth and throat rinse will relieve more than a pint swallowed hastily. In hot weather, when the skin is secreting profusely, there is no real demand on the part of the tissues for

HANDKERCHIEF BAG. It May Be Used For the Laundry or

For Night Robes.

Bags are always useful around the house and there is hardly a room in which a use for one cannot be found. Bags for laundry or for putting away night robes are very pretty made of two big decorated handkerchiefs, whether these be of sllk or cotton. Three of the edges are sewed together

BAG MADE OF HANDERCHIEFS. and that leaves an open top. Three inches below the upper edge a band is sewed inside each handkerchief and ribbons are run through these and drawn together when the bag is closed. Large bows of ribbon are very attractive when the bag is made to bang beside the bed as a holder for night robes, but fancy mercerized ropes, in pretty colors, finished with tassels, are better for laundry bags.

Convenient Basket.

A novel and convenient basket for the busy housewife is made with a foundation of cardboard covered with any pretty flowery cretonne or muslin and is generously supplied with pockets. The four sides of the basket are shaped with rounded tops that become narrow as they approach the base, which is square. Each section is neatly and firmly covered with the material and supplied with pockets. One such basket has a big shirred and the like and a needlebook on the other, with smaller pockets on the remaining two, while to the inside are attached a generous pincushion and various minor pockets for buttons and the like. But all these can be varied to suit individual preferences, the essential merit of the basket being that the receptacle will stand on the floor and be ever ready at hand.

Wheat Flour For Cleaning.

The cleansing power of pure wheat flour is not so widely appreciated as it should be. Delicate white woolen things, of many kinds, can be easily and quickly cleaned by a flour bath. White woolen shawls, nice wool head draperles and even white furs and feathers can be freed of dust or grease in this way. Take a few handfuls of flour, put it in a basin and submerge the article that is to be cleaned. Rub and pat the wool for some minutes, being careful not to injure it by too vigorous handling. Now open the window and shake the flour out gently. Take a fresh handful of flour for a "rinse" and go through the same process for a moment. When shaken out after the rinse you will be delighted with the results.
