High Valley.

A fine rain on Friday night and on Saturday.

Last week there was no Coburn news, but this week the Centre Democrat will hardly find room, as last week the cattle owner put the news all on the High valley scribe. The notorious infamy which the Coburn writer has mentioned, is no disgrace on the High valley scribe, but a spot on a church member, as the scribe is no church member. He said the High valley scribe came to Coburn to be congratulated, but received a broadside. The scribe would take it as an insult to be congratulated by such gentlemen, to let their cattle eat up what a poor man raised. Then he mentioned the "Good Book," he read the 6th chapter of Luke and the 41-42 verse, but did not say read the 39th. That might be fit for him. It is only 75c slipper, then he came to a load of corn that was not paid, I have no idea of that, strikes back 27 years ago. He has a good memory, and so has the scribe. He can remember who got that hay as well as the writer of the infamy items, and is ready to prove it by two living witnesses. I believe our good, honest church member is in the dark. I work on a lumber job with an Irishman who said he can well remember when his mother rocked him in the cradle, but could not remember what happened.
