A Way Some Men Have With Their Wives

BROWN got up the other morning with a dark red gleam in his eyes and a dark brown taste in his mouth, but as he descended to the breakfast room he assumed a cheerfulness that was intended to conceal his condition from Mrs. Brown. "Ah, my dear," said he, rubbing his hands briskly as he approached the table, "what have we for breakfast this morning?" "Nothing much, Walter," she replied. "Just some nice bacon and eggs." Brown choked a hicough before it reached the surface, but lost his grip on his good intentions in strangling it. "Bacon and eggs!" he sniffed. "Good heavens, woman! Can't you ever think of anything else? We've had bacon and eggs every morning for six weeks." "If you can wait a few minutes, my dear, I'll have the brook broil a chicken for you," Mrs. Brown said meekly. "But I can't wait," snapped Brown, "and you know I can't wait. Bacon and eggs! I'll go to a hotel for my breakfast, and—and you needn't expect me home for dinner. Bacon and eggs!" Brown grabbed his coat and hat and floated out, leaving meek Mrs. Brown in tears. He drowned another attack of hicoughs with a brace of "bracers" at the hotel bar and then entered the dining room. "What have you got that's particularly appetizing?" he asked of the waiter. "How would you like a nice squab chicken broiled?" the waiter inquired. "No, I don't want any chicken. Tired of it," snapped Brown. "Or some broiled lamb chops, with hash broiled?" "No lamb for me. No hashed anything." "Some sort of fish perhaps?" "Not on your life! No ptomaines; not any." "Or an omelet?" "Nix." "Or some bacon and eggs?" "Ah," said Brown, rubbing his hands in satisfaction, "now you are hitting me where I live! Some bacon and eggs, to be sure, and hurry them along, for I'm half starved."—New York Press.

AN EPOCH MAKING BOOK.

That Written by Baroness von Suttner Bids Fair to Be One. Before the czar of Russia issued his proposal to the nations for the famous peace conference that resulted in the establishment of The Hague arbitration tribunal he read the book written by the Baroness Bertha von Suttner, entitled "Lay Down Your Arms." The book so moved the Russian emperor that he determined to exert his influence in the direction of arbitration and disarmament. The baroness, whose visit to America in connection with the peace congress at Boston has brought her into exceptional prominence at this time, is sixty-one years of age. She published her most famous book in German in 1880, and it immediately made a great impression in Austria, resulting in the formation of the Austrian League of the Friends of Peace, of which the author was made president. Similar societies were formed in Germany. The movement took so strong a hold on public sentiment that in the Austrian chamber of deputies the minister of finance referred to "Lay Down Your Arms" as a book certain to have a great influence on the future policy of the nations. Since The Hague conference two costly wars involving terrible loss of life, especially in the case of that now in progress in Manchuria, have imparted a powerful impetus to the peace movement. Three cases of successful arbitration have illustrated the feasibility of the bloodless method of settling international difficulties. Baroness von Suttner can speak with authority on the subject of war, for she is the daughter of a great Austrian general, Field Marshal Count Franz von Kinsky. When a girl she was betrothed to a young Austrian officer who fell in battle, and her grief turned her thoughts in the direction of writing against war. It was not until her youth was passed that she married the author, Baron von Suttner.

JAPAN'S "GRAND OLD MAN."

Count Okuma and His Services to His Countrymen. The Gladstone of Japan is the Count Shigenobu Okuma. He is the leader of the Progressist party and is a statesman of whom any nation might well be proud. A few days ago Count Okuma in addressing a gathering of Japanese business men warned them against expecting an early end of the war. Although confident that his countrymen would ultimately win, he said he expected a contest that would drain the resources of Japan to the utmost. Count Okuma is sixty-seven years of age and a native of Hizen, his father having been a member of the Hizen clan. The count has always been a reform statesman. His first work as a reformer was in connection with the abolition of the feudal system, which came about after the Saigo rebellion. He also advocated educational reforms. He took hold of the finances of the empire at a time when they were very much disordered and succeeded in putting them on a sound basis and establishing a national currency. He was a strong advocate of subordinating the power of the ministry to that of a parliament, and when such a parliament was established he became minister of foreign affairs. In 1881 he took a leading part in the establishment of the Progressist party. He was premier of Japan in 1898. An unsuccessful attempt at his assassination in 1890 resulted in injury which necessitated the amputation of his right leg. He is noted for generosity.

MILES TWP.

WEST BRUSHVALLEY. Mrs. James Duck is still on the sick list and is improving. Wert & Wingard hunting club started out again on Monday for deer. Rev. Wentz, the presiding elder, preached an able sermon on Saturday evening in the Bethesda church; they had communion service and was well attended. Don't forget there will be communion service at the United Evangelical St. Paul church on Sunday forenoon. Miss Sallie Gentzel is paying a visit at the home of Isaac Long.

PLUM GROVE. George Sharer of Brush valley, Roy, Paul, Clara and Mary and uncle Tom Schaeffer, of Plum Grove, spent Sunday at the home of P. A. Auman. Election talk is now over; next is butchering and everybody is hustling around to find a day suitable for the occasion. Jacob Sharer spent Sunday at the home of G. W. Gingerich's.

CENTRAL BRUSHVALLEY. Sunday was a snowy day. The Brushvalley hunting club left for deer on Monday. O. T. Corman met with an accident and shot his hand off by leaning on the barrel of his gun. S. A. Beck, from Plumgrove, Sundayed at home. N. A. Duck left for Harter, West Virginia. C. E. Yearick is busily engaged in hauling stones. F. A. Yearick made a trip to Lock Haven last week. Mrs. Jonas Duck who has been sick for a number of weeks is slowly improving. The stove mill is in full blast in Green's Gap at present.

CENTRAL BRUSHVALLEY. Mrs. Marie Wagner and grandson John Bitner spent Saturday at the home of Geiss Wagner, of Farmer Mills. Frank McClellan, of Manhattan, Ill., and Rev. Wm. McClellan, of Pleasant Unity, Pa., and Robt. McClellan and wife of Linden Hall, all spent Sunday at the home of their mother, Mrs. Joseph McClellan, of this place. Jonas Boal and wife, of Potters Mills, spent Sunday at the home of P. S. Boal's of P. C. City. G. R. Lee and wife spent Saturday at the home of Frank Bible's. Edward Boob and son Loyd, of Rebersburg, spent a week with his parents, John Boob's, of Red Mill.

SUGARVALLEY.

Noah Kahl, of near Green Burr, husked 996 bushels of corn from six and one-half acres, and Frederick Catherman, of Millheim husked from one acre 137 bushels. D. M. Morris of Loganton, a well known citizen and former commissioner of this county, is in a very critical condition with little hopes of recovery, with kidney and bladder complications. Aaron Kleckner shot a 200 pound buck and Jasper Bower, Charles Omeis, Chester and Edgar Schwenk each killed one. This morning W. G. Berry nipped the life out of a four pronged buck which weighed 161 pounds near Dr. W. R. Goodman's farm. Webb Karstetter sent a bullet through a fine bruin, but did not succeed in killing it.

DRY RIDGE. Mrs. H. Weaver has a very sore face. Irvin Weaver was helping his brother to haul corn fodder. Most of the farmers are through husking corn. The party at the brick house was well attended. Mrs. Harry Weaver, O. P. Smith, of Rote, and Mrs. Dresser, were callers at Irvin Weaver's. S. Brungard lost a valuable horse one day last week.

CENTRE HALL.

Michael Condo returned to his home on Friday, at Darragh, accompanied by Frank Moyer, farmer near this place, and James Smetzler track foreman here. Mike will take care that these old friends will be well fed and come back sleek and fat. Wagner Geis, of Bellefonte, visited his parents here a few days ago. The derrick for boring for oil on the George Emerick farm is up and has its equipment ready for drilling, but funds to carry it on to a finish are not yet sufficient but prospect of having the sum raised is sure—at least our men of enterprise will see to that sure. The Luse foundry is an assured success. Give them the credit. Water shortage is inconveniencing some in this section. Union Thanksgiving services will be held in the Lutheran church, in the morning. Sermon by Rev. G. W. McInlay. Our school teachers have all flocked to the institute.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH.

Hyomei, the Only Guaranteed Cure for Catarrh. No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians and is prescribed by them generally. Its base is the valuable eucalyptus oil, famous for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ-killing, disease destroying and healing powers that restore health to every part of the nose, throat and lungs. The only way to cure catarrh and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei. This treatment has been so successful in curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by S. Krumrine under an absolute guarantee to refund the money in case it does not benefit. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it did not possess unusual powers to cure, it could not be sold upon this plan. The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

It is expected the new brick plant at Bigler will be ready for operation in about four weeks. The work of completing the plant is being vigorously pushed.

POTTER TWP.

P. W. Breon has corn which measures nearly fourteen inches. The name is early flint. Miss Sallie Wright spent several days with the Misses Kritzer. Mrs. Frank Bible and Mrs. Henry are not improving at this writing. James Alexander and sisters, Misses Lizzie and May visited with their friend L. Winkleblich, Friday evening, also Charles of Spring Mills.

FLUM GROVE. George Sharer of Brush valley, Roy, Paul, Clara and Mary and uncle Tom Schaeffer, of Plum Grove, spent Sunday at the home of P. A. Auman. Election talk is now over; next is butchering and everybody is hustling around to find a day suitable for the occasion. Jacob Sharer spent Sunday at the home of G. W. Gingerich's.

Wm. Keller, our mail carrier is at present visiting the worlds fair at St. Louis, during his absence his brother D. K. Keller is filling his position. Down in Georges valley the possum seems to be plenty as Charlie says he enjoys hunting there. Mrs. Victor Auman spent a few days last week in Georges valley with her sister, Mrs. Wm. P. Lingle. Mrs. John Taylor and daughter Annie, of Brush valley, spent a few days with her brother, Geo. Brian of this place. Miss Sarah Keen, of Coburn, came to spend the winter at the home of N. B. Schaeffer.

WOLF'S CHAPEL.

SNOW ON SUNDAY which was a sure sign that winter is approaching. The butchering season has opened and Geo. Winkleblich took the lead as he was the first one to butcher in this vicinity. Misses Ella Arney and Chestie Stover, two young ladies from Fiedler, visited the Chapel school on Friday. Mrs. Rosetta Wingard and Mrs. O. A. Jamison, of Green Briar, spent last Sunday with the former's daughter, Mrs. G. W. Hosterman. W. J. Smith with his crew are hulling clover seed for our farmers this week. Some of our farmers strictly forbid hunting on their farm by having trespass notices posted and it seems that the rabbits are taking the good advantage of the hunters as they all run to the city of refuge, and of course over the fence is out. Chapel School Report—E. R. Wolfe teacher; number of pupils enrolled, males 15, females 26, total 41; per cent of attendance males 95, females 97. Those present every day were: Mary Munch, Jennie Gramley, Edna Winkleblich, Ruth Hinds, Estella Musser, Estella Stam, Mary Mowery Maranda Mowery, Lorilla Musser, Maud C. Stover Mabel Stover, Mabel Bower, Katie Winkleblich, Helen Bower, Blanche Condo, Orvis Gramley, Henry Stover, Charles Boyer, Stover Hess and Samuel Gilbert. W. K.
