CATARRHAL TROUBLES.

Spring Months Cause Catarrh, Breathe Hyomei, and Be Cured. Catarrhal troubles are more common at this season than at any other time of the year. The sudden changes that come during the spring months are productive of many cases of catarrh that without proper treatment will become chronic. The pleasantest, most convenient, and only scientific method for the treatment and cure of catarrh, is Hyomei. Simply put twenty drops in the little pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and then breathe it for three minutes four times a day. The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and as the inhaler will last a lifetime and there is sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment, it is the most economical catarrhal remedy known. Extra bottles can be procured for fifty cents. Ask S. Krumrine to show you the strong guarantee under which he sells Hyomei. The surgeon should see that his patients are well dressed.

UNIONVILLE.

J. C. Smith, of Millheim, made a business trip to our town on Wednesday. The thought occurred to me what a fine looking sheriff he would make. (Si still and sawg nix.) Master Boyd Irwin was nipped in the leg by Dr. C. A. VanValin's dog and Boyd says he don't like the idea of having his little leg "chawed" off by a little dog. Quite a number of the young men of our town have secured desirable positions at Philipsburg, Altoona, Bellwood and other places. There are still a number of big tired boys holding down the store porches who ought to be earning from a dollar to two dollars a day. Get a hustle on, boys, you have an equal inheritance of this world's wealth with the Goulds, Vanderbilts and others. All you need to do is to hustle and get it. John Q. Miles requested us to say that he has a few bushels plantain seed for sale. Also a limited quantity of mullein, daisy and wild parsnip seed of finest quality, apply soon. Ex-sheriff Cronister has sold his hardware store in Philipsburg to a Mr. Kephart and will now turn his attention exclusively to farming. DUTIES OF A HOSTESS.

How to Properly Receive and Care For a Guest. Send a servant if you cannot yourself meet your guest at the station. See that the guest's room is in perfect order—plenty of fresh water and towels, a footbath, matches, etc. Even if there is the readily switched on electric light put a candle close at hand. A comfortable armchair is a necessity, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Furnish a little table with writing materials and books. Be sure the wardrobe and chest of drawers are empty, so that she may unpack and arrange her dresses at once. When the guest arrives have the luggage taken at once to her room, and when she goes upstairs send a servant to unstrap her boxes and take hot water for the toilet. Every morning you should visit your guest's room and see that the chambermaid has put it in the nicest order. Inquire if your guest has any favorite article of food and have the dish prepared. Entertain her nicely, even at some trouble to yourself. If you invite a guest it is your duty to treat her (or him) well in everything. Forbid the children to go into the visitor's room unless with a message. When the guest leaves see the servant goes up to strap her boxes and bring them down. If she leaves by an early train some of the family must be up to preside at the early breakfast and bid her goodby. Have cab or carriage at the door in due time and send a member of the family or a servant to get tickets and attend to the luggage.—Boston Herald.

Outside the Constitution.

President Roosevelt is undoubtedly acting outside the constitution of the United States and assuming imperial powers in establishing a protectorate over Santo Domingo which involves a suspension of all control for the time being over their own public affairs by the people of that country. It does not help the matter in the least to call the arrangement a "modus vivendi."—Hartford Times.

Injured Innocence.

The beef trust insists on a speedy hearing of the case now that it has hustled the most important witnesses off to Europe.—Atlanta Constitution.

ENEMY OF HUMAN GREED

Thomas Jefferson, Defender of the Rights of Man.

BRYAN QUOTES GREAT DEMOCRAT

Conquest Not In Our Principles and Inconsistent With Our Government. Taxation Should Be Limited to Nation's Actual Needs.

In his speech at the banquet of the Jefferson club at Chicago William J. Bryan denounced monopoly in all forms and endorsed Roosevelt's efforts to secure railroad rate legislation.

Mr. Bryan's theme was "Thomas Jefferson," whom he quoted on the subject of acquiring territory by conquest, "now favored by an influential portion of our countrymen," as saying, "If there be one principle more deeply rooted than another in the mind of every American it is that we should have nothing to do with conquest; it is inconsistent with our government."

Continuing, Mr. Bryan said: "On the subject of taxation he ever insisted upon its limitation to the actual needs of government and upon its equitable distribution. He is on record in favor of the arbitration of disputes between nations, and no one who is familiar with his writings can doubt that he would favor arbitration today of disputes between labor and capital, and his views upon the encroachments of the judiciary and the value of trial by jury make it certain that he would, if living, oppose what we know as government by injunction."

"No one can imagine Jefferson as tolerating the impudent claim of the railroad magnates that they have a right to determine arbitrarily and without appeal the rate to be charged for the transportation of passengers or freight. What an opportunity the present contest would give him for the arraignment of human greed and for the defense of human rights! That Jefferson's utterances support legislation necessary for the complete regulation and control of transportation lines is certain, and he expressly declared against national incorporation, a thing now desired by the great corporations."

"While I have been quick to endorse the president's effort to secure railroad rate regulation, I believe that regulation will ultimately lead to public ownership, and in order to avoid the danger of centralization I would prefer to see the trunk lines only owned by the federal government and the local lines owned by the several states."

"On the subject of private monopoly Jefferson has spoken with no uncertain sound. So detestable to him was the thought of monopoly that it was with reluctance that he consented to a patent, for, while he recognized the justice of allowing a temporary monopoly of the product as a reward for invention, he so feared the evil effects of the establishment of the principle that he insisted upon the strictest limitations. His fears have been justified, and we are beginning to understand the dangers that he so clearly foresaw."

"In the city of Chicago has been won the most notable victory achieved thus far in the United States for the cause of municipal ownership."

"Can any one be so ignorant of the aims, arguments and principles of Jefferson as to quote him in support of a corporation which monopolizes the highways of this great city? Can any one believe that he would subordinate his objections to monopoly in order to favor the giving of a permanent monopoly to men who invent nothing except new methods of evading taxation or of corrupting councils?"

"Nothing is more consistent with the support of Jeffersonian principles than the ownership and operation by the public of every industry which is in its nature a monopoly. Where competition is impossible the benefits of monopoly must accrue to the whole people, not to a few."

"In the matter of water plants the cities have made great progress, but a small percentage of the water plants being now owned by private corporations. The taking over of the lighting plants has not gone so far, but the movement is now well under way. But few of the cities have undertaken to establish telephone exchanges, but this is a necessary step, and unless it is taken soon we shall have the same struggle that we have gone through in regard to water plants and lighting plants."

"The third Jeffersonian doctrine that is now being misinterpreted and misapplied is his argument against long time debts. He took the position that the earth belonged in succession to each generation and that a preceding generation had no right to mortgage the earth beyond its occupancy of it. If his doctrine had been adopted it would be much easier to deal with the problems of today, but it is manifestly unfair to permit railroads and municipal corporations to mortgage the public for generations and then to quote Jefferson against the issue of bonds when a city attempts to rid itself of private monopoly."

"It is better for a city to issue bonds at a low rate of interest and for actual improvements than for a city to permit private corporations to issue bonds based not upon investment, but upon the power of monopoly, to extort an income from succeeding generations."

BACK TO THE PEOPLE.

Why Mr. Bryan's Primary Pledge Should Appeal to Democrats.

To interest the Democratic masses in the party primaries and in this way to place the power for determining policies in their hands—this is the aim of Mr. Bryan when he raises the cry, "Back to the people!"

Mr. Bryan's utterances in his Des Moines speech and in the interview given out from Lincoln are in line with the plan for primary organization set on foot by him. This, it is explained, is in no sense an effort at "reorganization" of the party, nor does it involve any pledge to support any specific doctrine or principle. It is simply an effort to interest all Democrats in the primaries of the party with a view to insuring the shaping of the party platform in 1908 by the direct expression of the individual voters. Looking to this end, Mr. Bryan has prepared a "primary pledge" simple and straightforward in its wording, a pledge which, it is hardly necessary to say, no Democrat need hesitate to take. This pledge reads as follows:

"I promise to attend all the primaries of my party to be held between now and the next Democratic national convention, unless unavoidably prevented, and to use my influence to secure a clear, honest and straightforward declaration of the party's position on every question upon which the voters of the party desire to speak."

This means nothing more or less than individual activity looking to party honesty. In its essence it contemplates the extension to the Democratic party of the nation of the primary plan which has worked so successfully here in Georgia. It simply recognizes the right of the Democratic voters to control the policy of their party and to determine its position upon public questions. It aims at honesty and sincerity in politics, and certainly the Democratic party must stand for such honesty and sincerity if it hopes to appeal successfully to the country. It means that the party shall in its future action and future utterances voice the prevailing sentiment of the masses of Democratic voters and that it shall take the country into its confidence.

It may be there will be some to cry out that this is but an effort on the part of Mr. Bryan to secure control of the party. There are some people in this country, though their number is precious small these days, who would charge the Nebraskan with ulterior motives every time he utters his prayers. But even these men cannot question the fairness and honesty of his proposition that the policies of the party shall be determined by following the views of the majority or the practical good sense in the suggestion that the way to ascertain these views is by direct expression of the Democratic voters of the country through party primaries. This, and only this, is the meaning of "back to the people" as we understand it.—Atlanta Constitution.

Tariff Revision Was Pledged.

The Chicago platform declared for tariff revision. President Roosevelt promised in the strongest terms that tariff rates would be readjusted. The stand pat policy was universally repudiated by the Republican campaign managers and the rank and file. To the Democratic cry, "The tariff must be revised," the Republicans replied, "It will be revised, but by the friends, not the enemies, of protection." Representative Bingham to the contrary notwithstanding the Republicans carried doubtful districts in Pennsylvania and all over the country, not upon the belief of high protectionists that stand pat-ism would prevail, but upon the strength of the party's promise to overhaul the tariff, this bringing to the Republican congressional candidates the support of numbers of conservative Democrats, while not alienating the support of any Republican protectionists.—Newburg (N. Y.) News.

A Timely Hint.

There is hard common sense and timeliness as well in the following from the Boston Traveler: "We hope President Roosevelt is not so far away from civilization yet that he will not read of the sale in London of British war vessels which cost originally $15,000,000 for $600,000. The incident illustrates admirably the financial folly of building more war vessels than are actually needed at a given time. We can't build war vessels for a remote need as we can store up coal in our cellars since the war vessels would have lost their usefulness by the time the remote need had become an actual need."

Discouraging.

The failure of the Newfoundland treaty, says the Detroit Free Press (Ind.), is typical of our dealings with our northern neighbors. "The policy pursued in this case is precisely that which has marked our dealings with the British colonies to the north for years. Every effort has been in the direction of building up the wall between countries that should maintain friendly relations, and the discouraging feature of it all is that the end is apparently still far distant."

The fish that keeps his mouth shut lives longer than the one that is quick to catch on.

Debility

Catarrh is clearly the cause of debility. No person free of catarrh in my opinion was ever troubled with debility. So you will readily understand that the cure of debility depends entirely on the cleaning out of the catarrhal parasites. No debility cure will ever cure you as long as you have catarrh. Catarrh is the cause. Debility is the result. Then get rid of the cause. No remedy will ever cure you but a catarrh remedy, and no other remedy will do it but ReXall Mucu-Tone. I make this statement because I know what Mucu-Tone is and what it will do—and doesn't it stand to reason that a remedy designed for one particular purpose—as Mucu-Tone for catarrh only—is going to give results a hundred times better than a cure-all that aims at every disease in the dictionary?

Then I back up our statement with the broad and liberal guarantee that if Mucu-Tone fails to give you any relief we refund the price you pay me. I can afford to make this statement because we know Mucu-Tone will positively cure you, since Mucu-Tone acts entirely different to any other remedy we know of and we think I know them all. Mucu-Tone acts in a scientific way by first of all destroying the deadly catarrhal germs—ridding the system of every trace. Then as the very name—Mucu-Tone—implies, it tones up the mucous tissues, the tissues on which the catarrhal parasites live. Then there is a chance to get well. No other remedy but ReXall Mucu-Tone will do it. Get Mucu-Tone. It destroys every trace of the germs of catarrh. It heals and soothes the tissues. It tones up the entire system. I have a large trial size for fifty cents that I guarantee to give results. I want you to try a bottle on my personal recommendation.

Timed Death to the Minute. Last Friday Mrs. Henry Priest, of Williamsport, was buried in a shroud which she had made out of her wedding dress. Two weeks before she said she was going to die soon, and changed her wedding dress to conform with the present style, that it might be used as a burial robe. Monday she told her husband that he should go at once and buy a cemetery lot, as she would need it in a day or two. Wednesday morning when the clock struck three, Mrs. Priest held up three fingers, indicating that she knew what time it was. Fifteen minutes later she died.
