COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Concluded from last week—Reported by B. D. Gettig.

In the case of Dreifus & Co. vs. the Curtin Forge Company, the jury returned a verdict on Thursday afternoon in favor of the plaintiff for $1712.

Ezra C. Kipka vs. the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Anville, Lebanon county, a corporation under the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania having its principal office at Anville, Lebanon county, Pa. This case is from Penn township, and it appears from the evidence that this plaintiff purchased a house and tract of land, receiving the deed thereon, on the morning of the 10th of June, 1905. In the afternoon of the same day the agent of the defendant Company came upon the premises, took measurements, and an application for insurance in defendant Company was made in actual sum of $500. The house was vacant at the time of being insured and the plaintiff alleges that the agent allowed him the privilege to have same vacated for a period of ten days. On the morning of the 12th of June, being Monday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock, the house burnt to the ground. Sometime during the same day the plaintiff sued defendant's agent who offered to return him the money that he, the plaintiff, had paid the Saturday previous for the insurance, stating that he had not forwarded the application to the Company, and that he could not recover any insurance. Verdict on Thursday evening in favor of the plaintiff for $519.00 subject, to the question of law reserved by the Court.

Louisa Bush vs. John G. Dubbs, this case is from Spring township, and the defendant is the owner of two lots which his predecessors in title purchased from plaintiff or her husband and which were described as bounded on the north line by the water line of the car works dam. This dam has since gone out and the defendant had been using the land to the edge of the channel of the main creek. The plaintiff then brought an action against the defendant to recover the land, as the plaintiff alleged, from the water line of the original car works dam, being from two to four feet of north line of defendant's stable. The defendant filed a disclaimer for any lands enclosed in his possession 20 feet north of his stable, alleging that that was the original line of the car works dam, and the place to which the deed called for. Considerable testimony was taken as to where the water edge of the original car works dam was at the time of the sale of the lots to defendant's predecessors in title. Verdict on Thursday evening in favor of the plaintiff for the lands disclaimed by the defendant and in favor of the defendant for the lands 20 feet north of defendant's stable.

Walter Weaver vs. Thomas M. Weaver, Administrator of etc. of Michael P. Weaver, late of Spring township, deceased, and Thomas M. Weaver an heir of said decedent. This action was from Spring township and the plaintiff brought this suit against his father and administrator of his grandfather to recover for labor, etc., done upon the alleged contract between him and his grandfather. The plaintiff lived with his grandfather from early childhood to the time of his death, and from the testimony it appears that some years prior to the death of the grandfather the grandfather had promised him that if he were a good boy he should have the property in which the grandfather lived. The grandfather died intestate and no provisions were made for this grandson, and letters were taken out by the son of defendant who declined to give this property to the grandson as claimed by him. Considerable testimony was taken in the case pro and con as to the alleged contract and its sufficiency, and verdict was rendered by the jury on Saturday morning in favor of the plaintiff for $1050.

Annie Butler vs. the same defendant, as in the preceding case. This case continued.

W. R. Haynes vs. New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, lessees of the Beech Creek Railroad. Settled.

Mary A. Colyer vs. Calvin Ruhl; this case is a replevin and is from Potter township, and from the evidence it appears that the plaintiff along with inducements to have defendant move upon her farm and farm the same in Potter township, give to defendant a heifer calf sometime in the spring of 1904. The plaintiff denies this gift. It appears that for some reason or other the defendant notified the plaintiff that he would remain on the farm after the first of April, 1906, and had public sale of his personal property sometime in November 1905, at which time he had advertised this calf (not a cow) at his sale. A day or so before the Sheriff's sale, plaintiff caused a writ in replevin to issue against the defendant and the calf was replevied and this suit is brought to try the title to this calf, whether the same be the plaintiff's or the defendant's, verdict on Saturday evening in favor of the defendant.

On Tuesday S. Leo Rouslander, a member of the Allegheny county bar, was admitted specially to assist in the trial of Dreifus & Co. vs. the Curtin Forge Company.

On Thursday afternoon C. V. Henry, a member of the Lebanon county bar, was admitted specially to assist in the trial of the case of Ripka vs. the Insurance Company. Court adjourned on Saturday evening.

Considerable opposition to the uniform primary law is developing among the rural members of the legislature. The principal objections are that it will double cost of elections, and introduces party politics into town elections. Perhaps it is a good law for cities, but for Centre county it would be a bad one.
