

CAPTAIN CAMERON WINSLOW

Commander of the Charleston and Son of the Kearsarge's Hero.
 Captain Cameron McRae Winslow, commander of the cruiser Charleston, on which Secretary of State Root sailed on July 4 to attend the pan-American congress in Rio de Janeiro, is a son of that Captain Winslow who commanded the corvet Kearsarge, which sank the Confederate cruiser Alabama off Cherbourg in 1864. It was Cameron Winslow, then a lieutenant in command of the gunboat Nashville, who went into Cienfuegos harbor in 1898 and cut the Spanish cable. Winslow was in the Nashville's steam cutter, accompanied by launches from the Nashville and Marblehead.

"After many attempts," he said in telling of the fight, "we grappled the cable, the cutter being not over fifty feet from shore. We were working desperately to bring the cable to the surface when suddenly the enemy opened fire. Bullets splashed all around us. The Nashville and Marblehead saw the spray cast up by the Spanish shot and began shelling the beach. We worked on until we got the cable to the top. Getting a rope under the cable, I stood up in the boat to make a rapid survey of the situation, when I saw a marine in the Marblehead's launch fall, shot in the head. "As I faced the shore to look at the trenches a sailor in the stern of my own boat dropped, with a six inch wound in his head, two holes in his body and another in his shoulder. We were within easy pistol range of the trenches, and I began firing with my revolver. As I reached for a rifle one of the men had loaded for me a bullet struck me in the left hand, going through the joint of one finger and scoring two others. I tied a handkerchief around my hand and continued firing." The cable in the meantime was successfully cut, and the boats drew off.

Lieutenant Winslow was commended by Secretary Long for his feat at Cienfuegos, but a greater reward was the love of Miss Dora Havemeyer, daughter of Theodore Havemeyer, the sugar king. The department is thinking of recognizing Winslow's services by giving him the new Kearsarge, namesake of his father's ship.

MISS NORMA MUNRO.

Playwright, Musician, Horsewoman, Lawyer, Actress and Publisher.

Miss Norma Munro, to whom David Leslie Carter, son of Mrs. Leslie Carter, the actress, recently announced his engagement and who promptly denied the soft impeachment, is a daughter of the late Norman L. Munro, the publisher. She was named after her father, as nearly as possible, and inherited the bulk of his great wealth.

MISS NORMA MUNRO.

She succeeded to the control of her father's publishing interests and, besides her inherited wealth, has been admitted to the bar, written a play and financed a theater. Miss Munro is an accomplished musician, and amateur actress and an expert horsewoman. Taught by Maurice Hewlett, the famous whip, she tools four-in-hands about New York city and has been for some years a notable figure at various horse shows. When but twenty Miss Munro wanted to start a magazine. Not being of age and in control of her fortune, her lawyer asked her where the funds were coming from. "Out of my income, of course," answered the girl. "Fewer gowns and a little economy, I think, will supply the funds." The result of this economy was the Impressionist, which lived a year and made much talk.

DROWNING PERSONS.

Good Advice to Revive Persons who Have Been Rescued From Water.

With the summer bathing season at its height, and the likelihood that many a bather in ocean, lake or stream will drown, it is interesting to note that Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Health Commissioner, declares that many an apparently drowned person can be resuscitated after more than an hour of seemingly futile work on the part of the rescuer.

Instant and constant action of the right sort will in such cases often save lives apparently extinct, and Dr. Dixon explained the exact process to be pursued, as follows:

Restore breathing and maintain body heat. These are two essential things to do at once and of course the breathing comes first. Loosen or cut apart all neck and wrist bands so as to remove obstructions to breathing. Don't bother with taking off any of the wet clothing at this point; you might lose precious time and a moment's delay in restoring breathing may prove fatal.

Turn the patient on his face with the head lower than the body, grasping the body around the middle, raise it as far as you can without lifting the head off the ground. Give the body a sharp jerk to remove the mucus from the throat and the water from the windpipe. Hold the body suspended, slowly count. One, Two, Three, and then repeat the jerk more gently two or three times.

AN ESSENTIAL TO BREATHE.

This getting rid of the water and mucus is the first thing to be done toward the restoration of breathing. Now place the body on the ground again face downward, and standing astride the body and holding it by the points of the shoulders, raise the chest as high as you can without lifting the head off the ground, hold it there long enough to slowly count One, Two, Three. Replace the body on the ground with the forehead resting on the arm that has been bent at the elbow. The neck should be straightened out and the nose and mouth be free from contact with the arm so as to take in the air.

Placing your elbows against your knees so as to gain a leverage, press downward and inward with increasing force against the sides of the victim's chest and over the lower ribs long enough to slowly count One, Two, then let go suddenly. Grasp the shoulders as before and raise the chest, remembering to leave the forehead resting on the ground, and press upon the ribs as before. Replace the body on the ground, press downward and inward against the sides of the chest, let go suddenly, and grasping the shoulders, raise the chest and press upon the ribs.

DON'T GIVE UP FOR AN HOUR.

These alternate movements should be repeated for an hour at least at the rate of ten to fifteen times a minute unless breathing is restored sooner. These movements should be accomplished with regularity as in natural breathing, which I hope may save some precious lives during the present vacation season.

When breathing has commenced then the thing to do immediately afterward is to restore the body heat. Warm blankets should be wrapped about the body and bottles of hot water or hot bricks applied. The head should be warmed nearly as fast as the body, or else convulsions may result. Rubbing the body vigorously with the hand or warm cloths, or slapping the fleshy parts, may assist to restore warmth.

As soon as the patient can swallow give hot coffee, tea or milk. Beware of giving too much spirits lest depression may result. Get the patient in a warm bed and have plenty of fresh air.

These are a few suggestions, which I hope may save some precious lives during the present vacation season.

Free Library.

People residing in the rural districts may have the use of a free library of fifty volumes, with practically no expense, provided the necessary application be made to the Pennsylvania Free Library Association.

Not many are aware of the easy manner in which the best literature can be obtained, with hardly any more trouble than if the same people were residents of a big city and the advantages of a free library with thousands of volumes. All that rural residents will have to do, is organize, say seven families and apply to the department, telling of the number of kinds of books desired. Each club will have to forward $2 in order to show its sincerity. A librarian is elected and he is responsible for the safe return of the books.

The secret of happiness is to let the other fellow do the worrying.

A Line to the General Public

After being prevailed upon by my many old customers and friends to open a Carriage Works I have done so, and I wish to impress upon everybody's mind that I am not located in my brick buildings in Milesburg borough, but have opened my new place in what is known as the located along the pike, about half way between Bellefonte and Milesburg, Pa. I am equipping the new place with entire new machinery and tools of the latest design, and everything will be of the very latest, and best and up-to-date. It will be some time before I can get my new works fitted up the way I want them, but I have already turned out some work and am in shape to take care of my trade in any way.

McCOY & LINN CHAIN WORKS

I am very desirous of having a chance of figuring on your work, give me a call. It is only five minutes from Bellefonte, and I want to assure my old patrons, and others as well, that any you get at the Bullock Carriage, Swing & Novelty Manufacturing Co.'s place will be right, and no question about it, as I feel after twenty-two years of experience I ought to know my business in that line. My prices will be regulated and in keeping with the kind of work I give you. Remember the location.

Yours truly,

Digging Bait.

The boy wanted some worms for bait. He had selected a promising spot, a shady and low lying knoll, but though he had been digging now for 15 minutes not a single worm had his spade turned up.

"Here, sonny," said an old angler, "take this chunk of soap and make me a quart or two of soapsuds."

The boy brought the suds, the old man sprinkled them over the ground, and then he in his turn began to dig. It was amazing. Here where the boy before had not found a single worm the old man now discovered them in dozens.

"You can find worms 'most anywhere, sonny," said the old man, "if you wet the ground with soapsuds first. The soapsuds draws them, the same as molasses draws flies. A weak mixture of blue vitriol and water will do the same thing also."—Providence Journal.

Things Nice Girls Never Do.

Do not turn their heads to look after impertinent men.

Do not get into the habit of speaking familiarly to all of the men they know.

Do not direct their attention to one person when several visitors are present.

Do not imagine that every man, who is pleasant to them has fallen in love with them.

Do not write silly letters to young men or permit them to write such letters.

A man never realizes the goodness of his neighbors until he is sick.

NATIONAL CIGAR STANDS

The Buying Power of 2,000 Cigar Stores

THERE is no mystery or secret in the National Cigar Stands' methods. We can sell cigars for less than has ever before been possible because two thousand of us—all druggists with an established cigar trade—concentrate our buying in one co-operative concern. See the power of such a mighty union of individual forces! We can practically dictate our own terms to manufacturers. We can—and do—control our own brands and factories. Instead of buying separately in small lots from jobbers, we become practically our own producers.

The cigars we sell come to us at the lowest cost ever known in cigar retailing. And they are sold at the lowest prices ever known for the same quality. For instance:

Black and White at 5c. each is really a better cigar (better leaf and more of it) than you have been accustomed to get at 3 for 25c. "Black and White" is one of 30 exclusive brands, made by and for the National Cigar Stands. Here are some others—all showing the same superiority in quality for price—

CUBA-ROMA: A first-class 3 for 25c all-Havana cigar, at 5c
COLLEGE DAYS: Best domestic cigar ever sold at 6 for 25c
ADAD: A first-class domestic cigar of superior workmanship 7 for 25c
STIRLING CASTLE: Fine, clear Havana cigar 10c quality 6c
FLOR DE MADRID: A superior clear Havana cigar in fine sizes at 3 for 25c
