The news in condensed form from all parts of Centre County

SPRING MILLS.

Chas Allison has been spending some time at the home of his father, W. M. Allison.

Some weeks ago Will Ruhl, our lively man, bought a fine mated team. His business is increasing rapidly.

"Woody," our landlord, is doing a nice business. He is the most popular of all landlords located at this place for some years past.

Some of our townfolks will leave for Ocean Grove this week. We wish them all a pleasant time.

Smith Bros. are doing a good business. They have numerous deliveries of furniture, stoves, etc., to make almost every day.

We have in our town just a few young men and middle-aged men, too, who will work only when they can get a job to their liking, and it seems that their liking is very hard to please.

Quite a large delegation from this place attended Business Men's picnic at Hecla last Thursday and all report a good time. Some of our boys got as far as Lock Haven, thinking this the place where the picnic was being held. Ask Will Ruhl and Charlie for further particulars.

Materials are arriving for the new bridge which is to span the crossing below Long's store, at which place several accidents have occurred in the not far distant past.

Ripka's cash store is doing a flourishing business, even during the dull summer months. They are extensive shippers of fresh eggs and all farm products and report that they are usually short of eggs to fill regular customers' weekly orders, while butter seems extremely scarce. The other stores report good business also.

Aaron Long, near Penn Cave, on R. F. D. No. 1, was found dead in bed on Sabbath morning. His death is attributed to inflammation of the heart, caused by a horse kicking him just below that organ about two weeks ago. His demise was a great shock to the family, as he had been attending to his work as usual.

It is pleasing to note that the last order established in our town, the I. O. O. F. is much on the advance. It has in it some of the very best material for such work, men who are continually hustling for the advancement of the order. The order was instituted but a little over three years ago, has a membership of sixty-two, with prospects for a large addition before the year is ended.

Family reunions are becoming quite popular and are one of the best means of having a "good time." Last Saturday marked the occasion of the first reunion of the McCool families of this section. It was attended by forty-two persons of this connection—many being too far distant to attend and was in the shape of a basket picnic held in Allison's grove at the "Sand Spring." Almost everything this season of the year affords was served as refreshments and all enjoyed the occasion very much—returning to their homes late in the afternoon, hoping for a more largely attended reunion next year.

It is deplorable to note that we have in this town a person who is raising and training a pup to kill and tear to pieces the small chickens of neighbors that happen to stray into their yard. Such things are bad enough in the mountains, but should not be tolerated in our town.

Clara Smith, of Penn Hall, is now the obliging dining room girl at the Wood House.

One of our young sports hastily left our valley, but after traveling for a few days hastened back to the starting point where milk and honey flows.

We saw in last week's items where the Waddle scribe gave the account of the game between them and Fillmore, instead of 7-3 it was 7-8, and then it was No. 2 team consisting of little boys.

Quite a big event took place in our town one night last week in the form of a corn roasting, quite a large crowd was present upwards to fifteen men, women and children.

The base ball team will hold a festival at Fillmore on Saturday evening, Aug. 25, where all the delicacies will be served; game of ball in the afternoon. Come one, come all.

WILLIAMS' REUNION.—The arrangements for this very popular gathering are nearing completion and everything bids fair to be the largest ever held. All trains on the B. E. V. R. R. will stop at the grounds as usual, so those who do not care to spend the entire day with us can arrive on the afternoon trains. The Howard band will enliven the occasion by their excellent music. Prominent speakers will address us in the afternoon. Refreshments of all kinds will be sold upon the grounds. We wish to say just a word in regard to some complaints which come from outside of the connection, that we do not furnish amusements enough. Now this annual picnic is held for the social effects, and it would be entirely too burdensome in a financial way to get street carnivals and such like amusements. Everybody is cordially invited to come and spend the day with us. Remember the date is Saturday, Sept. 1st.

A FUTURE PREMIER.

The English Winston Churchill is Scheduled For Such a Post.

No constructive act of the new Liberal government of Great Britain aroused more intense opposition in the parliament which has just adjourned than its plan for the self government of the conquered Transvaal. Former Premier Balfour vehemently denounced it, Lord Elgin declared it a surrender to the enemy, and Rudyard Kipling wrote a poem about it. The government's plan, as outlined in the house of commons by Winston Churchill, undersecretary for the colonies, is this: The Transvaal is to have a parliament based on equal manhood suffrage, every male of twenty-one years or over who has lived at least six months in the Transvaal to have a vote. There will be one member for each of the sixty-nine old magisterial districts, the Rand to have thirty-two, Pretoria six, Krugersdorp one and the rest of the Transvaal thirty. The first parliament will have a second chamber of fifteen members, nominated by the crown, but during the first session arrangements will be made for an elective second chamber. The members of parliament will be paid for their services, though members of the British parliament are not, and will serve five years. This plan, the government asserts, gives a square deal to both British and Boers.

Winston Churchill, who led the debate for the government on this important question and by his mastery of his subject greatly increased his prestige, is a son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill and the former Miss Jenny Jerome of New York, now Mrs. George Cornwallis-West. He is a descendant of the great Duke of Marlborough and a cousin of the present duke, who married Consuelo Vanderbilt. Despite his American connections, however, he is not a relative of the American Winston Churchill, though both are writers as well as politicians and have frequently been mistaken for each other. The English Winston Churchill is only thirty-two years old. It has been freely predicted that he will be premier before he is forty. His career has been spectacular since the day he left Sandhurst to enter the British army. He saw service in India, took part in the battle of Khartum, was a war correspondent in South Africa and was captured by the Boers. In 1900 he was elected to parliament. He made a great deal of money out of his life of Lord Randolph Churchill. Once an army officer said to him, "You have got on wonderfully, but you owe it all to the fact that you are Randy's son." "Sir," replied Winston, "the time is coming when Lord Randolph Churchill will be remembered chiefly as the father of Winston Churchill."

If a fellow saved the money he spends on tobacco it might drive him to drink.

The Lost Princess A FAIRY TALE

Once upon a time there was a beautiful princess named Helen, who wandered away from her father's ground and got lost in a very dense forest.

When she found out that she was lost she sat down under a tree and cried until she fell asleep. Now, in this same forest there lived a wicked ogre, and one day when he was out hunting he came across Helen sleeping under the tree, and he said to himself, "I will take that girl home and fatten her for my supper." But when they got to the castle Helen would not eat anything, and the ogre became very angry and gave her five crayons, telling her to go in her room and color all the dots on the wall paper and if there were two dots of the same color he would give her a beating.

When Helen entered the room she was very much surprised to see a fairy prince standing with his back to the door busily touching the dots with his fingers, and the minute he touched them they changed to beautiful colors.

Zubad (for that was his name) heard the door open and turned around and said: "I have loved you long, but before this I have had no other chance to show my love. I can save you from the wicked ogre on one condition." "What is that?" asked Helen. "You must not go to bed tonight, but sit in your room until I come for you."

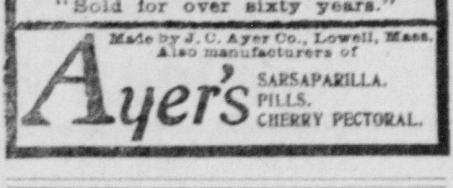

Helen did as she was told, and at about midnight Zubad came for her in his golden chariot and took her to her father's palace. On the way there he asked her to marry him. Helen said that she would, and when they reached home they celebrated the wedding with great pomp and splendor. But when the ogre found that Helen was gone he was so angry that he threw himself into the river.

The Man with the Frozen Frown

Have you ever seen him? The deep wrinkles of worry worn deep in the forehead. Such a man is often called "a crab" "an old snapping turtle," and other equally uncomplimentary names. We should always feel charitable toward sour looking people. They do not frown without cause. In ninety cases out of a hundred the nerves are at fault. The blood is impoverished and unable to supply nutrition to the nerves. Vin-te-na is the one safe and prompt remedy for people whose nerves are weak and unstrung.

When the Hair Falls

Then it's time to act! No time to study, to read, to experiment! You want to save your hair, and save it quickly, too! So make up your mind this very minute that if your hair ever comes out you will use Ayer's Hair Vigor. It makes the scalp healthy. The hair stays in. It cannot do anything else. It's nature's way.

If it wasn't for his wife's cooking many a man would have nothing to kick about.
