A farmer from up Bald Eagle informs the Democrat that potatoes are beginning to rot up in that section. If we weather continues the rot may become serious. Miss Laura K. Hafer left on Saturday afternoon after a two week's visit at the home of her father, Dr. A. W. Hafer. Miss Hafer is now a resident of New Haven, Conn. The residences of Jos. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nolen and son, Gilbert, left on Friday for Niagara Falls, where they will visit Mrs. Alice Cowdrick. They were accompanied by Malin and Blanche Cowdrick, children of Mrs. Cowdrick, who spent part of the summer with relatives in this place. The little boys in Lock Haven have more sand than the older men for we notice that a lot of kids ranging in age from 9 to 13 years, have issued a challenge to play any team of the same age in Bellefonte. Good boys, you make your older brothers down there ashamed. The numerous friends of Edward L. Powers, formerly of this place, but now of Bryn Mawr, will rejoice in his continued and exceptional prosperity in that he has just opened up his new harness store and manufactory in that place which the Bryn Mawr Herald declares to be "the finest in the United States." It is a brick building 50x75 feet in size, two stories high. The second story is used as the factory while the store occupies the entire first floor. Mr. Powers learned his trade under Hon. James Schofield, later going to New York and other cities to acquaint himself with every detail of the business until finally, in 1893, he settled in Bryn Mawr and has been wonderfully successful.

OVER THE COUNTY.

The Williams' reunion at Martha promises to be well attended on Saturday. Don't forget the big picnic at Snow Shoe on September 3rd. There will be plenty to amuse. The Schenck family reunion will be held in Schenck's grove, one mile east of Howard, on Thursday. The big basket picnic by the State College Camp, No. 6137, Moders Woodmen of America, is being held to-day at Hunter's park. There will be special trains and special rates. You can get the Howard Hustler, a leading republican county paper, from now on until the end of the campaign for 25 cents. It says "try it; there will be some lively news in it." Mrs. E. M. Grimes, of Tylersville, died at her home Sunday night. She was aged 84 years and six months. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock Wednesday from the Lutheran church at that place. The merchant who uses stationery decorated with gurgling oil, axle grease or other cheap advertising matter is, to the home printer, what the mail order house is to the home merchants. We have them in our beautiful little town. Will Bigelow, son of Dr. W. S. Bigelow of Phillipsburg left this week on a trip to Washington, Ore. and other parts of the northwest, expecting to be absent three months. There are few fellows that can enjoy such a trip more than Will. Miss Mary Hoover, advertising manager for the G. M. McKelvey Co., Youngstown, O., who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoover, of Fleming, left Wednesday morning for Philadelphia and Atlantic City. A new water company is being organized in Ferguson twp. with a view of piping the water from Musser's gap, to the Branch and White Hall country. The project is well on the way and as the charter is granted work will soon be begun laying pipes, etc. Having made many trips down the Susquehanna to Port Deposit, Md., in the rafting days of long ago, Jacob Test, one of Phillipsburg's oldest men, prevailed upon his young nephew, Joseph Middleton, to take a trip over the same route in a boat, and the journey has begun. The editor got home Wednesday from an enjoyable visit to Boston and is ready to act as receiving teller for as many of our delinquent friends can make it suit to cash up. From Phillipsburg "Ledger." The next time Annie goes to Boston she should be accompanied by a chaperone for it is a sporty old town. When girls come home "busted" it is evidence of a high old time. The third annual district Sabbath school convention will be held at Coburn Friday, August 31st, 1906. This convention is auxiliary to the Centre County Sabbath School association. Just 171 years ago, David Marks, arrived in this country, from Basel, Switzerland, and settled in Lebanon county and came to Centre county, Gregg township, 106 years ago, clearing the farm on which his grandson, Henry Marks, now resides. Henry Marks succeeded his father, George Marks, on the farm and still occupies it. Henry, the present occupant, whenever he feels like retiring from the homestead, intends it shall pass into the possession of one of his sons, so that the place may remain in the family name of Marks. Most of Centre county farms have left the ancestral name, and passed into the ownership of other families, losing their original identity. On Thursday, September 6, a reunion of the Kreiders will be held in Kreider's grove, Gatesburg, Centre county. It is expected that it will be largely attended and for the occasion a programme of exercises has been prepared. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Rev. Samuel Kreider will deliver an address and Rev. Isaac Kreider, of Duncansville, will give a genealogy of the Kreiders from the time they came to America from Switzerland on the 16th of September 1735, and landed in Philadelphia on the vessel Princess Augustus. The following are the names Martin and three sons, John J., Frederick and Joseph. Martin was born in 1681. The name in the first deed for a tract of land in the Lebanon valley is specified as follows: Kreider, Greider and Crider, and in another document it is also spelled Crider, and Kreider. Being a peculiar sound it was difficult to know how it should be written in English, hence the various ways of spelling the name.

Snow Shoe, Beech Creek and Orvis will draw cuts to determine the two teams to play the morning game. The winner of the morning game will then play the old team in the afternoon for a purse of $50. They teams are not allowed to "stuff" with other than regular players. Sunday evening 19th, while M. P. Corl and family were driving from State College to their home on the J. T. McCormick farm the horses became unmanageable and ran away. Mr. Corl held to the line but the horses became detached from the carriage and pulled him over the dash board on the hard pike cutting ugly gashes in his head and almost severing one ear from his head besides inflicting other injuries. The man ran into a wire fence and when found one horse was on its back with its legs tangled up in the fence. Kind neighbors came to their assistance and took the family home.—St. College, Times. POORMAN REUNION. At an early hour Saturday morning of last week, the descendants of John and Catharine Poorman, deceased, began to arrive at the old homestead, now occupied by Fleming Poorman, until the place was thronged with relatives and friends—all in a happy mood greeted each other with hearty handshakes and pleasant conversation, until the noon hour was reached, when a most elaborate dinner was spread, of which all did justice and enjoyed to the fullest extent. The meeting was called to order by the president, Daniel F. Poorman, with Charles Poorman acting as secretary pro tem; the roll being called one hundred and twenty-five answered to their names, with a number of little tots not able yet to answer were enrolled present. Addresses were made by Joseph and Charles Williams, of Williamsport, and Edward R. Hancock, of Phillipsburg, and amid which went up hearty applause and cheers of laudation. Many precious thoughts were presented, which all enjoyed equally as well as the dinner. Ida Poorman then read a short history, practically given by David C. Poorman, the only one present of his generation, beginning with John Poorman emigrating from England, four successive John Poormans were followed until the originator of the John and Catharine Poorman family, the leaders of their first annual reunion. The seventh generation was beautifully portrayed, to which all listened with eagerness and would have been delighted to hear much more. Among the visitors present were: William Lucas and wife, Lucile Williams and Fannie Sommers, of Phillipsburg; Mrs. H. S. and the Misses Dorothy and Mildred Lucas, of Pittsburg. The officiating were then re-elected, viz: President, Daniel F. Poorman; vice president, Wm. H. Poorman; treasurer, J. Edward Poorman; secretary, Fleming Poorman; assistant secretary, Jacob Yarnell, who will arrange, at some future time, committees for the next annual gathering. Adjournment was next in order and all went home declaring the day was short. PA. STATE COLLEGE. In view of the conflicting statements relating to the Presidency and other important positions at The Pennsylvania State College, and in order to give the public definite information, the following official declaration is made: General James A. Beaver, the President of the Board of Trustees, has been requested to act as President of the College for the time being, and has signified his willingness to do so. Dr. Judson P. Welch, formerly principal of the Bloomsburg State Normal school, has been elected Vice-President and Financial Agent of the College, and also Registrar. He is already giving attention to the details of the College work, and will remove with his family to the College probably before the first of September. Professor John Hamilton will retain his place as treasurer of the College, and the details of the Business Office will, as heretofore, be in charge of John I. Thompson, Jr. Every department of the College is fully manned and ready for the usual work at the opening of the term, September 13th, 1906. Present indications point to the enrollment of the largest Freshman class in the history of the College. The committee announced that it has secured from the state four hundred Krag Jourgensen rifles for the cadet battalion, and that it is the purpose of Commandant Hay to put the cadets through a hard drill as soon as college opens, with a view of attending the dedication of the new State Capitol in October.
