SPRING MILLS.

What became of all the candy in the stores since the pure food inspector was here last week. Molasses is scarce, too, since then.

When any of our town folks make a trip to the town of the Centre Democrat, the first question asked them on their return is something like "What do you think of the new associate editor." "He's just alright."

Did you ever stop to reflect that it was one thing to talk about people and another thing to have people talk about you? If those of us who use our tongues a little too freely about our neighbors would stop and think over this matter, and know the great evil that comes of too much gossip and tattling, we would call a halt and gossip no more. It shows poor principle of anyone and poor breeding.

Last Saturday, Herbert Hettinger and F. M. Rachau returned home from the Standard steel works where they had been employed the past few months.

A certain man saw the advertisement "eleven cents paid for 1902 pennies." He gathered a large number and sent them in and received the reply, "we give you credit for the pennies sent, as soon as you send enough to make the 1902 we will send the 11 cents at once." If this man had subscribed for a good newspaper like the Centre Democrat he would not have been caught in such snares.

Coming--Big Show.

The Walter L. Main circus and Colonel Cummins Greater Wild West and Indian Congress, which comes to Bellefonte, Friday, Sept. 21st, is one of the most noted of all educational, historical and ethnological exhibitions in the world.

The success of three great World's Fairs, it has been augmented this year with a stupendously impressive Fire and Flame spectacle, reproducing with full sized buildings of steel construction throughout the devastating Baltimore fire of a couple of years ago.

Also there will be exhibited one of the largest menageries of trained animals in existence and which have been trained to appear in one cage, something unprecedented in the history of educated wild beasts.

In this collection there will be seen the terrible Cola Camba, the offspring of the chimpanzee and gorilla, and which is more voracious than any of its begetters.

A Cautious Sentinel.

It was the small brother of pretty Margaret who opened the front door in response to Mr. Goodyear's ring, and his face took on a singularly alert expression as he surveyed the caller.

"No, she isn't in," said Margaret's brother. "Are—are you Mr. Hamlin?"

"No," said the young man; "I am Mr. Goodyear. Does that make any difference about her being at home?"

And he looked searchingly at the boy. "Course not," said Bobby indignantly. "I don't tell stories, nor Margaret doesn't. But if you've been Mr. Hamlin I was to tell something about her coming home and get 10 cents if I did it right and didn't tell the wrong one. I need that money, and so, you see, I didn't want to make any mistake. Goodby."—Youth's Companion.

Orators.

"Your son won a prize for oratory while he was in college, I believe. What is he doing now?" "He got a job in the union depot announcing the departure of the trains."—Chicago Record-Herald.
