BERRY'S ELECTION NOT A MISTAKE

An Answer to a Machine-Organ's Political Rot.

MANY REFORMS ARE EFFECTED

Brief Review of What Has Been Accomplished—Berry Uncovers Another Scandal—Capitol Cost $12,000,000 Instead of $4,000,000.

During the past year the disgruntled, machine-ring, republican organs in this state have been informing the public that the election of Wm. A. Berry last fall, as State Treasurer, was accomplished by deception, and that nothing substantial had been attained thereby. That the Treasury was found in perfect condition—everything fully accounted for—when he examined the books. This distortion of facts has been nothing more than an appeal to the prejudice of unthinking people, or is used to arouse the bitter partisan spirit of political bigots. Our amiable neighbor across the way, the Gazette, has been running columns of this kind of rot for months, to which no attention has thus far been paid. It has bellowed about how Berry deceived the public, and how he found everything correct, when he became the State Treasurer. It has boasted how a magnificent capitol was erected for less than $4,000,000, the amount of the appropriation.

This and much other political rot has been fed to the readers of this county continuously, by this shameless, brazen champion of the worst lot of political cut-throats and thieves—the Penrose Machine—to be found in any state of the Union.

The editorial course of that sheet, has been an insult to the intelligence of this community and a detriment to public life and good citizenship; and is so regarded by the substantial element of that party. To prove the assertion we need only refer to its course or peruse its editorial utterances.

In contrast, we now urgently appeal to every fair minded man, every honest man, every patriotic man, every good citizen—no matter of what party—to read the following extracts from a recent speech of Treasurer Berry, delivered at Reading, Pa. Read it for the information it contains and act as it appeals to you:

BERRY'S RINGING SPEECH.
"When I was elected last fall I promised that I would let you know whatever I should find at Harrisburg. I have heard complaints since then that I haven't told you what I found. My experience at Harrisburg was duplicated with my experience some years ago, when I was elected Mayor of Chester. In the latter city the thugs and gamblers had run things. Just before my inauguration as Mayor they fled the town. Every man who had probably done wrong left in a hurry, and there was not much for me to clean up.

"In Harrisburg, when I entered upon duties six months after my election, I found that lots of the mischief had been repaired, and to-day there are only evidences of careful housekeeping.

"The $15,000,000 surplus and sinking fund money in the treasury has been secured by bonds; but such bonds! They had not been examined for years. They bore the names of dead men and bankrupts.

"When I entered upon my duties I found every bond in its place, backed by good security—all brought about by the manner in which you voted last fall."

THE CAPITOL CORRECTION.
Mr. Berry intimated that the gang had been very busy in the State Treasury after his election, and had placed everything in good order. He continued: "Many of the books had not seen the scratch of a pen for months, some not for nine months. A new force went into office with me, and we worked until 9 o'clock p. m. every day and sometimes until midnight. To-day the books of the Treasury Department are posted up to the instant.

"In addition to being very busy posting books we moved into the new Capitol. That brings me to another subject. Of course you have heard about the wonderfully progressive cost of that building. As to the facts, we have been examining the books. A week ago I looked and I discovered some remarkable things. A careful examination led me to ascertain information that I hadn't even suspected.

"In Erie a week ago I told the people that the new Capitol cost nearer $10,000,000 than $4,000,000. The people were startled. To-night I confess that I made a mistake. I want to be honest, and take this method of confessing it. I made a mistake, and want to be fair.

"Looking into the records in my haste I made the mistake of saying to the people of Erie that the Capitol cost nearer $10,000,000 than $4,000,000. That's where I was wrong. Since then the clerks have made out a statement for me with more absolute certainty. From these records I am prepared to inform you that that Capitol cost nearer $20,000,000 than $4,000,000, or in other words that the actual expenses have been over $12,000,000.

HARD TO GRASP AT FIRST.
This statement was received with considerable surprise, and Mr. Berry reiterated the figures, when he was applauded. Further on he said: "The officials at Harrisburg have treated me with the greatest courtesy. In this respect I wish especially to speak of Auditor General Snyder. He has promised to give all the facts to the public in detail—who got the money and for what it was spent.

"You can take the credit for this, because of the result of the election. The leaven of righteousness is working in every department of the State Government, and if you want to leave the entire loaf, elect Emery and the entire ticket.

"Auditor General Snyder is a good man, but it's the environment. It's impossible for many men to stand the pressure. It takes a man with a backbone of iron to do his duty. If you fail to do your duty at the November election, conditions will go back.

"Look at the failure of the Real Estate Trust Company, of Philadelphia! We have a Banking Commissioner, and he has his assistants, but the people's money was not safeguarded. The appointees were named by politicians, and their only qualification was that they could carry a precinct.

WHOLE TICKET TO WIN.
In conclusion Mr. Berry spoke heartily for Emery and the self-sacrifice of the Democrats who stood aside in order to bring about fusion, and said he was sorry that not all those who were in the movement last fall could see their way clear to get into line for this campaign.

"What do you think of Homer Castle's attitude?" he was asked.

"I'm sorry for him, and he is a great disappointment."

In addition to the above all fair-minded men concede that the election of Berry accomplished much more. In the list can be enumerated:

That rebuke to the political machine brought the Gang to their knees. For the first time in a generation they harkened to the voice of the people.

The Legislature was reconvened in special session and more good legislation was enacted than in a generation.

Every school director in this county, and the state as well, knows how the school funds were formerly handled. Vast sums were doled out to the political banks where Quay, Bull Andrews, Penrose and his henchmen, borrowed it for their personal use. While this money was withheld, the schools suffered for that which they sorely needed and that belonged to them. Teachers for months received no pay, or school boards had to go to the local banks and pay heavy rates of interest on loans to meet current bills. Every school teacher, every director, every ordinary citizen knows of these impositions and abuses. It is not forgotten how our school boards for months would write, plead, and actually beg for their money, which was being used by politicians.

What was the result of Berry's election? Go ask the school boards in your home and in every instance you will find the new State Treasurer for the first time, this year, forwarded the districts their full appropriation before it was demanded or the school terms had opened. Ask them if Berry's election was a mistake, or whether they do regret his election?

Yes, this, and more, was accomplished by the Independent Republicans who joined with Democrats, Prohibitionists, and all good citizens of all parties to defeat Lee Plummer last Fall for State Treasurer, and wrest the funds of our State from the grasp of the ring politicians. It was an advance in the history of our State. Will you agree, then, that the election of Berry was a blunder and a mistake, as the Gazette continually alleges?

The election of Berry was not a party victory—men of all parties were in line same today with Emery; he is fighting no party battle. The issues are greater, wider, broader, more vital. It is a battle against gigantic corporations long entrenched in power, like the Penna. R. R., the Standard Oil company, who have controlled our legislatures, framed our laws and in instances subsidized our courts, pulpits and the press. It is a battle royal against the Penrose machine, the most noted set of corruptionists the country has ever known.

As Berry's election proved a benefit to every taxpayer, so will the election of Emery bring blessings to the entire State.

A GOOD MEETING.

The Tabernacle meeting which was held at Colyer, by Rev. J. K. Mumma closed on last Sabbath evening with good results.

One of the best features of the meeting was that the long-standing prejudice, which has done much harm to all the churches there, gave away and a spirit of harmony and unity prevailed. Some of the old time fire and love fell on the people and a good feeling prevailed in the community. The labors of our brother were appreciated, and this was demonstrated by the proper responding to a call for aid to support the gospel. A free will offering of $40 was given him, may God bless the givers.

A FRIEND.

A Clean Start for Zion City.
Zion city is soon to have a general confession day. At the time appointed Wilber Glenn Voliva, who has taken the affairs into his own hands will summon the entire populace of the city to meet in the tabernacle. There each man will tell of the sins he has committed against others and then everybody will begin life anew, and never sin again.

GRANGE EXHIBITION A SUCCESS

The Display is Larger and More Varied Than Heretofore.

LIST OF ALL TENT HOLDERS

With Ideal Weather the Attendance is Large—Special Features During the Week—Politicians There Wednesday and Thursday.

The 33rd annual encampment and exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry at Grange Park, Centre Hall, has taken on a fresh impulse; and a renewed interest is being manifested there this week. There are more tenters this year than at any time during the past five years, and the residents of the tented village are not confined to Bellefonte and Centre county, so that Hon. Leonard Rhoads every reason to feel elated at its wonderful success over that of the past year. The display of vegetables, poultry, stock and machinery is larger and better, so that there was an incentive for people to go there not only to see but to receive new and practical ideas along all lines of agricultural pursuits. The weather was conducive to its success, owing to the fact that the bright rays of sunshine prompted hundreds of people to venture out who otherwise would have remained at home. The crowd on Wednesday and Thursday ran up into the thousands. The exhibition buildings contained attractive exhibits, all of which are arranged in tasty style. Scattered about the grounds and among the main buildings are exhibits of machinery and vehicles, of various kinds. One of the interesting features, and one of which the strangers are proud, is the great and fruit monument which stands in front of headquarters. It is attractive and much admired by the great mass of people.

The picnic was opened Saturday evening with a successful festival in the interest of Progress Grange. Sunday Harvest Home Services were held by Rev. G. McInlay, of Centre Hall. Tuesday the formal opening took place when Master of the County Grange George Dale presided and made the opening speech. Other addresses were made by Leonard Rhoads, Willard Dale, Isaac Frain and various officers of the county organization. Their subject matter had to do entirely with affairs of the grange. Wednesday morning the Knights of the Golden Eagle were in charge and in the afternoon Hon. W. P. Cravay, Democratic candidate for Auditor General, made a rousing speech in favor of the election of good men to office. He was followed by members of the State Grange. This Thursday is Republican Day when Hon. Edwin Stuart, candidate for Governor, and C. F. Barclay, candidate for Congress, will make addresses, followed by other speakers in the interest of the grange. The exhibition will close Friday. The following is the list of tent holders:

An Awful Death.
Frank Kaup, son of George and Johanna Kaup, of Boalsburg, met an awful death Saturday evening at White Deer, on the opposite side of the river from Watsonstown. Mr. Kaup was in the employ of the Watsonstown Table Co. White Deer, what is known as White Deer bridge, which is about fifteen feet high, and in leaning over lost his balance and fell to the water beneath, which was only about a foot or two deep. It is thought that in falling he struck his head on a stone, and being unable to help himself drowned. His remains were brought to Boalsburg for interment.

His parents he is survived by three sisters and one brother, one of his sisters being Mrs. John Fisher, of Bellefonte. The funeral took place at Boalsburg Tuesday morning.

Insurance Meeting.
The Farmers' Mutual Insurance company held the regular quarterly meeting in their offices in Petriken Hall, on Monday, which was attended by nearly all the directors. The amount of policies approved was $163,113; premiums, $14,211.47; cash premiums $656.10; losses awarded $1050. Geo. Mitchell, of Lemont, was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Jacob Bortoff, recently deceased, as a director; and for the same reason H. E. Duck, Esq., of Millheim, was chosen as vice-president of the company.

Invitations are out to the marriage of Hon. Philip E. Womelsdorff and Miss Emma Du Bree Warfel, to be solemnized in the Presbyterian church in Philipsburg on Wednesday evening, September 26 in the presence of a large number of invited guests.

ADJOINING COUNTIES.

The McClain block in Altoona collapsed on Tuesday morning of last week owing to an adjoining building having been removed. The block was built by William McClain, formerly of this place, and was a large three-story brick structure. Five persons were injured in the falling building, one of whom was Mrs. McClain.

Mitchell Bitner, of Beech Creek, aged about 65 years, met with a peculiar as well as painful experience Thursday of last week. He was eating a peach when he choked on a portion of it and some of the substance was drawn into one of his lungs and he had the greatest difficulty to breathe. He suffered great agony. Dr. H. H. Mothersbaugh has him under his care.

In the barn of a hotel at St. Clairsville, R. H. Willhide, a stove agent, found a wallet containing checks for $8,000 and $1,700 and money of all denominations, amounting all told, to $700; in the hotel office he found the owner, a Hollidaysburg man. Willhide turned the money over to him, but the only reward was an invitation to visit him in Hollidaysburg.

Huntingdon presbytery met in special session at Birmingham last week. Rev. R. G. McLeod requested a dissolution of the pastoral relations between himself and the West Kishacoquillas church. The dissolution was authorized to take place September 23, 1906. On motion Dr. Laurie of Bellefonte was appointed to preach at Bellefonte September 30 and declare the pulpit vacant at Rev. W. E. Brooks was appointed moderator of the session.

A friendly streak of lightning came to the aid of Miss Sadie McCormick, 17 years old, near Lewistown, Wednesday night of last week. She was on her way to visit a family in which a death had occurred, when she was grabbed in a lonely spot by some one, who tried to gag her. A flash of lightning, incident to a gathering storm, revealed the man's face, and Miss McCormick says it was John Mitchell. She screamed for help, but Mitchell was dragged from his bed by the police and identified by Miss McCormick.

For some years past it has been apparent that facilities for handling the passenger traffic on the Beech Creek district of the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central would have to be increased to meet the popular demands. At the present time there are but two trains daily between Clearfield and Jersey Shore for points west and south, and these are often taxed to their utmost in taking care of the public travel. The opening up of the new Franklin district, which connects the Beech Creek with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, for points north and west, will bring about this much desired commodity. The number of trains will be doubled.

Mrs. Robert E. Gardner, of Knoxville, near Pittsburg, lost two toes and sustained severe cuts and body bruises in a peculiar accident Thursday of last week. She was riding on the front platform of a trolley car with the motorman. At a crossing the latter threw on the airbrake to check the car but it acted so quickly that the car was stopped almost instantly. Mrs. Gardner was thrown from the car and fell beneath the wheels, sustaining the injuries above mentioned. She is now at her home in Knoxville under the care of the physicians. The Gardners are originally from Ferguson township, this county and have many friends in that locality. Mr. Gardner is an expert engineer, with offices in Pittsburg.

The will of the late Orin L. Schoonover has been placed in the hands of the Register and Recorder at Clearfield, but on account of the will being in litigation, the Register and Recorder refuses to give it for publication. W. C. Stephens is named as executor in the will and report says that his niece, Mrs. Kate Sarnoff, of Kylertown and her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Thompson, of Munson, each receive $50,000. After other liberal bequests, the rest of the estate is divided among his immediate relatives.

Thursday before the will was found, J. L. Schoonover and H. H. Thompson, who had been appointed administrators of the estate gave the largest bond which was probably ever filed in the county. The amount was $400,000 and it was executed by Bilger Chase of the United Fidelity and Guaranty company of Baltimore, Md.

Illegal Fishing.

Tuesday morning W. E. Shoemaker, of Lacysville, the State Fish warden, brought eleven fishermen, of near Howard, before justice John Keichline in Bellefonte, charging them with illegal fishing in Bald Eagle creek, that of building wing walls and erecting bottomless fish baskets in the stream for catching eels. The defendants were John and William Shay, Alonzo, Oscar, Irvin and Maurice Schenck, Albert Coder, T. J. Lucas, Max Worthington, J. Linn Pletcher, T. E. Bolepue and Samuel Bower. They were defended by N. B. Spangler and Harry Keller, who after hearing two of the cases, they all plead guilty and were fined over $100.

Entire Flock Killed.

During a rain storm on Monday of last week, John Johnson, a farmer living at Merengo, Ferguson Twp., suffered heavy loss by a peculiar flash of lightning. The flock was out in an open field, away from fences and trees, when a bolt of lightning struck them, instantly killing the entire lot, consisting of 15 head. Cattle and sheep often are killed by taking shelter underneath trees or along wire fences, but not often in this manner.

During a heavy storm which swept over Blue Ball, near Philipsburg, Wednesday of last week, lightning struck the barn of A. E. Goss and set it on fire. The strange thing about it was that the fire went out before any damage was done to the barn except the tearing out of the end of the building by the lightning. A horse was stricken deaf, and the manger in which it stood badly demolished.

MURDER COMMITTED AT CLARENCE

John Kachic Was Stabbed by Some Flend.

BODY PLACED ON THE TRACK

An Effort to Conceal the Real Cause of His Death—An Autopsy Held Last Friday—The Authorities are Active—Arrests May Soon be Made.

Last week the Centre Democrat gave a detailed account of what is now thought to be a dastardly and cowardly murder committed early Wednesday morning near the depot at Clarence, about a mile from Snow Shoe, in which John Kachic was the victim. Since last week's issue the county authorities have taken the matter up and everything points to the fact that Kachic came to his death by some one, who evidently thought he had money on his person.

Thursday morning District Attorney W. G. Runkle, Dr. P. S. Fisher the County Coroner, and Dr. J. L. Seibert, drove to Clarence; they went to the Miners hall where the body lay in a casket. The hall was packed with friends of the deceased who were anxiously waiting to hear and see what would be done by those who had the authority to hold an autopsy. A thorough examination was made, it revealed strong evidence that the unfortunate man had come to his death before he was run over and mangled by the train. This conclusion was reached from the fact that several wounds were found on the neck close to the head, showing that he had been stabbed by a sharp instrument such as a large knife or a stiletto. One of the wounds in particular showed that one of the deadly thrusts severed the jugular vein, which would naturally cause death soon after the blow had been given. A smaller vein had also been severed which would also have caused death in a short time.

In addition to this there is other strong evidence which is convincing that the body was placed on the track to create a false impression, and thus cover up a horrible crime. The murder was evidently committed between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning just about the time two freight trains pass the station, one going south and the other going east. They pass the station at Clarence just about half an hour apart. When the south bound train came along the perpetrators of the hideous crime evidently were afraid to place the body on the track for fear the engineer would see it and stop the train, or that the body might have been carried by the cow-catcher to the crossing below, and lodging against the end of the plank might have caused the train to stop and thus the deed would have been more quickly discovered. As the train approached the station from the east there is a curve in the track, so that there would be no possible chance for the engineer to see an obstruction on the track until he struck it. This, of course, would be the train that would be taken to hide a crime of this sort. Another evidence of murder is that during the night it rained, and a dry spot on the ground, with a pool of blood beside it, clearly showed that Kachic had been lying there some time before he was killed. Still another evidence of murder is that the body was found a short time after the east bound train passed, with the head and arm cut off, and the body cold as if life had been extinct a couple of hours before it was found. District Attorney Runkle has other evidence which may lead to the arrest and conviction of the party who committed the crime. Instead of the man being a brother of George Kachic, the hotel man at Clarence, he is a cousin and was well-to-do.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.
The body of Irvin Winkleman, of Flemington Clinton County, who left his home Wednesday of last week on a fishing trip, and had been missing ever since was found Monday morning about 9:30 o'clock in Bald Eagle creek, about a half mile below the covered bridge near Mill Hill. Sunday his hat was found in the creek and men at once went to work with grappling irons. Monday morning the irons of Benjamin Miller caught on Winkleman's body which was brought to the surface. Coroner Armstrong was summoned but an inquest was not necessary, as death was plainly due to accidental drowning. Deceased was 45 years of age, and is survived by his widow and five children. Mrs. Winkleman is ill and the shock of her husband's sudden death may prove serious. Mr. Winkleman was a native of Nittany, Pa., this county, where the remains were taken for interment.

CROP PROSPECTS.
According to the New York Produce Exchange interpretation of the Government crop report for July, the wheat and corn harvest for the year 1906 bids fair to be very near the high record mark in each instance. The indications are that the corn crop will show an increase of 50,000,000 bushels over the indicated crop a year ago. In other words, the promise is for 2,703,641,000 bushels. The winter wheat estimate is 429,534,000 bushels, or about 1,000,000 more than last year. Spring wheat promises 29,000,000 bushels more than in the 1905 harvest, so that the combined wheat outlook is for a harvest of 30,000,000 bushels greater than last year.

The oats prospect is for a reduced production this year, while barley shows indications of a yield of 10,000,000 bushels more than last year.

A Good Yield.
Mr. Isaac Long, farming the well known Kline farm, now owned by F. M. Fisher, has a good yield of wheat—45 bushels of Fultz Mediterranean, to the acre. The Fisher farm is in Gregg twp.

AUTOMOBILISTS' TRIALS.

When you see an automobile fly past you, filled with a jolly crowd of merry makers, your first impulse is to be a little covetous, and wish that their lot in life was yours, never for one thinking that the automobilist has trials and tribulations that are past finding out. The man in Bellefonte who remains a Christian after he operates an automobile for a while will occupy the highest pinnacle in Heaven. This is the testimony of Mr. Irvin and Harry Fenlon, of Bellefonte, who know more about an automobile now than they did a week ago. Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beaton, of Tyrone, came to Bellefonte, and after taking their dinner at the Bush House invited Mr. and Mrs. Irvin and Harry Fenlon to take a ride with them, "Dick" assuring them that there was nothing in the world like the joys of an automobilist. They intended to go to the grangers picnic and then to the Country Club House at Hecla and take supper. They started and when out along the pike, near the black barn, they had a puncture which detained them an hour. When a representative of the Centre Democrat passed he saw Fenlon with a long gown on, looking as sober as a priest. He was hunting for a puncture in an inner tube, but he would have accomplished as much by hunting for a needle in a haystack. They finally started again and with repeated punctures they landed at the Country Club House in time for supper. About 7 o'clock they started home, and when on this side of Zion they had another puncture that detained them until after 12 o'clock at night. Before they were able to get back to Bellefonte they were compelled to call out John P. Lyon. The crowd arrived in town about 10 o'clock Monday morning, pretty well tired out. Fenlon and Irvin are now in the market for automobiles.

J. K. Cass and some of his friends from Tyrone, came down to the Country Club House to spend Sunday, and he punctured all four tires and had a big time before he was able to leave for home. John Olewine and A. C. Mingle were in Lock Haven, and during the trip Mingle had three punctures but Olewine came through o. k., because he is accustomed to hard-ware.

Kottcamp-Glenn.

Thursday Sept. 11th, a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Dr. U. S. Glenn at State College. The bride was his daughter, Miss Bess Glenn, and the groom was John P. Kottcamp, of York. The house was profusely decorated with wild clematis, spirea, asters and ferns. As the clock struck twelve Miss Regina Kottcamp, sister of the groom, began Mendelssohn's wedding march and the bridal party, consisting of the groom and best man, Mr. Hendrickson, a classmate at State, and the bride attended by her maid of honor, Miss Mary Thompson, class of '05, State, took their places before a large screen of hydrangeas and ferns in a corner of the parlor where the ceremony was said by Rev. George M. Glenn, of Chambersburg, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Snavely. The bride was dressed in her graduation gown of white Paris muslin and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore white with pink ribbons and carried La France roses. The bride and groom left on the 2:40 train for their wedding journey to New Haven and other eastern points after which they will be at home in Brooklyn, which will be an instructor at Pratt Institute. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Pennsylvania State College, and last June the bride was awarded the fifty dollar prize given by the State D. A. R. for the best historical essay on Pre-revolutionary Days.

Dr. W. H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, at the solicitation of State Veterinary Pearson, on Tuesday afternoon went down to Hubersburg and Snyderdown to inspect some cattle which are said to suffer with tuberculosis.
