

The Racket.

Blankets

Does October's cool nights remind you of needed bed coverings? If so, see our line of Cotton Blankets before you buy. We have them in White, Gray, Tan and fancy stripes at 50, 60, 75, $1, $1.25, $1.50 and $1.90. We also have an imported line of Blankets in rich designs, particularly suited for both robes. Our stock of is also complete, consisting of light and heavy weights, in both light and dark colors. Prices are 50, 65, 85, $1.25, $1.75 and $2.

When you come to the Great Centre County Fair next week, make this store a place to rest, and don't forget you can do better at The Racket—they sell for cash.

YELTOWN.

Hello, scribblers! here comes a new brother from Yelton. I thought I would appear and give news from our town. Yelton is west of Red Cap. Then turn to your right along Green diamond line. When you are there why you can soon hear their signal. That is what I heard when I was out walking on Saturday evening. I heard an awful yelling, and I thought it was fire, or some wild animal. I hurried up to Green diamond, I looked around and to my surprise I saw two girls standing on the bridge calling for their Saturday evening companions, and I named it Yelton.

James Landsey moved his household goods from Pittsburg to his home, which he bought at Colyer.

As I was standing on my porch watching the sun coming up over the beautiful hills, I looked across Yelton bridge—saw a young sport from Possum Ridge coming home from seeing his best girl. I think he must have overslept himself. It was 6 a. m. I think it would be better for J. B. to go home sooner, or stay at home altogether—where he ought to be.

I wonder what became of the Possum Ridge scribe; as I took my good old paper and looked over the items I noticed Possum Ridge had disappeared, then one of my best friends came up and said what is that? why I said it's my good old Centre Democrat.

Next week I am going to take a trip in my auto then I will tell the news which I heard and saw in Possum Ridge, Red Cat and Yelton as I am going to start today and go clear through, and see the good old people and what they do.

PLUM GROVE.

Everybody is cutting corn. I think the grey squirrels would be wise if they would stay in their nests for a while yet, from the way the guns crack.

Wm. Honan and family spent Sunday at Farmers Mills at the home of Emanuel Fye.

Samuel Stump and family, Wm. Honan and family and Nora Fry spent Sunday at the home of V. A. Auman.

Mrs. Frank Fischer is staying with her father, James Keller, who is quite ill at this writing.

Jerome I. Lingle, of Georges valley, spent a few days at the home of his uncle, Victor Auman.

Oscar Homan is on the sick list.

PORT MATILDA.

Hunting season opened on Monday with game very scarce in this section.

R. J. Doeberner spent Sunday at Beech Creek.

H. Daughenbaugh, who has been at the Altoona Hospital for the past five weeks, suffering from a sprained ligament, has returned home again and is much better at present.

P. W. Young is painting the M. E. Church at Martha.

Edgar Lewis and Homer Kitley, of Tyrone, with their lady friends, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Lewis' grand father Wm. Lewis.

There was a surprise party given in honor of W. T. Patton at his home on Saturday evening. About fifty people were present. Mr. Patton gave the guests some fine music on graphophone.

M. T. Weaver has moved into his new house.

A great many of our people are going to attend the fair next week.

GREENBURR.

We are pleased to report the fever patients are on a good way to recover.

Last week an aged couple of Booneville, Pa., were given a surprise party on their birthday. Their many friends did not come empty handed, but each brought something useful and necessary to gladden the hearts of the aged couple. Beautiful indeed is the manifestation of brotherly love.

Some time ago, quite a number of our men went to Yagertown to work, feeling the Sunday school habit strong upon them, they organized the unknown Sunday school; raised a collection of one dollar for their class in the Greenburr school and ordered supplies for their unknown Sunday school. This shows that they do not forget their religious duties at home as so many are apt to do when they go away.

Special Train.

On account of the Centre County Fair the Bellefonte Central Railroad Co. will run a special train on Wednesday evening October 10th, leaving for State College and Pine Grove Mills at 11 o'clock. On Thursday and Friday evenings the regular train will be held at the Junction until 5:30 o'clock.

UNIONVILLE.

A bright little cherub was left by the stork at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith.

"Mrs. Tillie Hoover and several of her family, of Monongahela, are visiting at the Fredericks home up the pike.

J. C. Stere left on Monday morning for Harrisburg, where he will witness the ceremonies of dedicating the 15 million dollar capitol.

The Rev. A. Smith pulled up stakes on Wednesday morning, loaded his household goods on the car, and will leave in a day or two for DuBois, where he will make his future home. Mr. Smith was pastor of the Free Methodist church at this place, and his congregation will miss him greatly. He was a kind neighbor and good citizen, such as any community may be proud of.

J. T. Barton, on Monday, killed 6 grey squirrels; D. Buck 6; Jos. H. Barton 3; Harry Musser 5; Joe Stere 3; John Weislagle 5, and a number of others shot from 2 to 5. They report game rather plentiful.

DOMINGO'S SECOND TOUR.

Trip No. 2 (in my mind.) After Harry Lindemuth repaired my "Routabout" and having filled the boiler with coal oil, I started on my second trip, but I hadn't got farther than S. K. Emrick's when I was obliged to stop out of sheer curiosity. Sam was ranking his corn ears, a la cord wood. He said it would dry out better. Then he showed me his sweet pumpkins, four of which, it is estimated, will aggregate in weight 400 lbs. He also told me that he raised 32 bushels of potatoes, of the Mag. Murphy variety, from 55 pounds of seed. A sample of black corn which he raised, may be seen in the treasurer's office. After I managed to tear myself away from this entertaining farmer I put on extra speed to make up for lost time. When I arrived at Intersection, conductor Martin Reese wanted me to take his passengers and baggage to Snow Shoe, as he and his crew wanted a day off. I agree to do so. He backed his train on the siding. I waited for the train west, got one passenger and one cat and landed at Snow Shoe half hour before time. During my stay there I dropped into Buddinger's store. Say, were you ever in Wanamaker's store? Well, don't go there. Come and see Buddinger's; it's the same thing. Left Snow Shoe on time; arrived at Intersection 20 minutes ahead of time. Had two passengers and one trunk. Next I arrived at Milesburg. This is an old and somewhat rickety town, but it contains some of our best citizens, and the property owners are struggling to beautify the town in many ways. My object in stopping here at this time was to call on every subscriber to the Centre Democrat, to have a little social chat with each one, but when I learned there were no less than 63 of them I abandoned that idea.

I next stopped at Curtin's. This is a lively, hustling little place; has five houses and six chimneys, a grist mill, a charcoal furnace and one store. The first man I met was Henry Shultz. He was glad to see me, and said he didn't want to fight. Poor fellow! he must have read my first trip to Snow Shoe. I then went into Morrison's store. W. G. seemed to welcome me and said he was much disappointed because I did not come last week. He keeps a large, well-regulated store, and is doing a fine business.

A lady came in (golly, but she was pretty) I think she was a school teacher, for when she asked for two boxes of Banner lye, she asked for it in the plural. "I want two Banner lyes," she said. Then Galer looked right at me and winked. Then she wanted a yard of pink "ribbing" and a pair of "wooling" hose—real fine. My, but she was nice. She had them charged. After she evaporated I begged to be excused, as I had quite a trip before me. So I hunted up some of my old friends in Curtin township. The first man I struck (metaphorically speaking) was Joe Neff, the veteran auctioneer. He was sitting on his porch swing and had his back towards me, thus he did not see me. He was muttering to himself, so I listened a bit—and heard him say "going! going! gone!" sold! to John A. Daley—that's a bargain John, but a very poor one. "Hello, Joe," I said, and when he took in the situation you ought to have seen him brighten up. Uncle Joe is one of the most hospitable and sociable citizens of the county. I could scarcely get away from him, but I jumped on my auto, put on steam, and was soon out of sight. Everywhere throughout Curtin township I saw evidences of thrift. Farms in good state of cultivation, crops excellent, fruit in abundance and citizens sociable and neighborly, and all seemed happy and contented. The route was a new one to me. I finally came to a farm house that was rather more inviting and cozy than most of those I passed, so I concluded to stop and find out who lived here, and to my great joy and surprise, I found it was none other than the inevitable John A. Daley. Well, now, if we didn't have a fine time, I want to know. I stayed for dinner—couldn't help it. If any one can go to John A's house and get away without eating, he can do more than I could, and then you can hardly get away from the table. My, oh my! I must have weighed 5 more lbs than when I went there. I saw that John had been busy writing a speech, but what the gist of it was I didn't find out. I am impressed, however, that he will polish his remarks with Emery. I left John in his glory and arrived at Howard about 3 o'clock p. m. This is one of the busiest towns in the county. I called on H. T. Holter. He had a large and elaborate draft spread out on his work bench. It was a plan for a smoke house which he was going to build for Harry McDowell. Henry is one of the best mechanics in the county. I next went into Weber's store. Gee! it was so full of customers I thought there was an accident and people had crowded in to see, as people will, but when I saw the bundles and packages being carried out I knew what it meant. Abe, Will and John are all busy as niggers, tying up, measuring, etc. Then I called at the office of Doc McEntire. He had a spelling book and was changing some of the words to conform with the Teddy idea of spelling. Doc is a gud speler and agree with the no reform idea. "Bob" Cook was bobbing a horse. "Bob" is a fine horseman and keeps on hand a good stock of fine steppers, and conveyances of all kinds. A. A. Fletcher was filing a lawn mower and scouring off the rust so he could sell it for a new one. Al says there is nothing like Emery to clean things, and he thinks something of the kind will clean the Augean stables at Harrisburg in the near future. H. A. Moore was mixing a large heap of what looked to me like putty. He says he was making pills. "Say, Howard," I said: "Do you want to make five dollars easy?" "Certainly," he said.

"Well, if you will put in one of those pills a few grains of strychnine and sell it to the man that sent me those two verses of poetry for my book, I'll give him a V. "What do you take me for?" I wouldn't do such a thing for the world. Make it $10 and it's a bargain, but I was shy the ten, so the proposition was laid on the table. Harry McDowell was cutting interest coupons off government bonds, preparatory to sending them to the bank. "Squire Hayes Schenck was conducting a law suit, of the progressive, or perhaps aggressive, citizen who had killed his neighbor's chicken, which resulted in the law suit. Defendant appeared in $200 to appear in court to answer. John Wagner was fixing his razors. John is a first-class barber and keeps his razors keen and sharp. I called on Fred Dunham, editor of the Hustler. No wonder there is such hustle and bustle in Howard. The Hustler is considered the most influential republican paper in the county, while the subscription list is not as large as some of the older newspapers of the county and not as large as it ought to be, it's influence for good to the citizens of the town is, nevertheless, proportionately as potential and the citizens should give it all the encouragement possible. Golly! there's the Tyrone train. Due at Unionville 7:00. Two to one I'll be at home. And I did. DOMINGO.

LOVEVILLE.

We have been having quite cool weather for the last few days.

There will be another Christian Endeavor Union meeting, of the Centre Line and Centennial Endeavor held in the Lutheran church Sunday evening, at 7:30. Everybody welcome.

James Fisher and wife started for Altoona on Friday where they expect to attend Synod and visit their relatives for a few days.

Hunting season is now in and quite a good many of our men and boys are spending a good bit of time hunting.

Rossella Taylor was visiting her friend, Maud Fisher, our Sunday.

It was heard that a couple of our young men got left on Saturday evening, how about it boys?

Some of our young ladies were badly disappointed when they went to the show last week.

Bertha Wilson has been on the sick list for a week or two.

The school board, of this Township, has erected a new slate black board in the school at Centre Line and Centennial which is certainly much better than the old wooden one.

COBURN.

Stuart Harter went to Harter, W. Va., on Tuesday.

Miss Minnie Grimes, who spent the summer with Reuben Harter, went to her home Saturday and Miss Emma Steffer has taken her place at Harter's. On Saturday, Oct. 13, Daniel Hosterman will sell household goods at his former home, one mile west of this place.

Martin Stover, who was working on a farm in Brush valley, during the summer, came home to attend school.

Wm. Musser, on C. H. Meyer's farm, has two large pumpkins, one measuring 68 inches and the other 69 inches in diameter.

On Sunday evening Rev. C. F. Garrett will begin revival services in the United Evangelical church.

The Coburn band will furnish music for the Centre county fair on Wednesday and for the Democratic rally in Bellefonte on Wednesday evening. All good democrats from this section will attend the fair on Wednesday, as that will be the "big day."

GREGG TWP.

BELL HOLLOW.

Our farmers still have some corn to cut.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Baney is on the sick list.

Bruce Houtz left for Altoona, where he is employed by the P. R. R. company.

Neven Fiedler wears the smile since the arrival of a baby boy.

W. E. Keller, our enterprising thrasher, was seen in our vicinity last week. Quite a number of people spent Sunday at Wm. Rachau's.

JACKSONVILLE.

Miss Lizzie Vonada, youngest daughter of J. Vonada, is ill with fever.

Ward Shamp and wife are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Barbara Condo is visiting relatives at Rebersburg.

Rosalie Yearick, youngest child of John Yearick, is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Jr. visited relatives at Rebersburg.

ADJOINING COUNTIES.

Superintendent of public instruction Nathan C. Shaffer has issued his proclamation naming Friday, October 19th, as Arbor day.

Last week W. E. Tyson, of Tyrone, purchased from J. W. Gardner his retail coal, brick, plaster, etc., business in Tyrone and will henceforth conduct same personally.

The general conference of the United Evangelical church will be held at Cedar Rapids, Ia., beginning October 4. The Central Pennsylvania conference will send a number of delegates.

A new milling firm at Barnesboro is composed of R. B. Spangler, John C. Wagner and John L. Van Pelt. The firm is doing business under the name of Barnesboro Milling Company.

Lewis Emery, Jr., the Democratic-Lincoln party candidate for governor, accompanied by the other candidates on the state ticket, are booked to appear in Lock Haven on Thursday evening, Oct. 11.

C. Curtis Snyder, a Williamsport carpenter who fell twenty feet off a roof over a year ago and broke his back, has so far recovered that he can get around in a wheeled chair. His limbs are paralyzed but he expects to walk with the aid of crutches. At first it was thought that he could not recover.

To-day Prof. T. J. Small, son of T. J. Small, Jr., of Mackeyville, was married to Miss Cora Kempt of Ada, Ohio. The groom is now serving his second year as dean of the college of engineering at the Ohio Northern University. His bride is a fine young lady, a leader in Ada society and a thorough musician.

Rev. Harvey Graeme Furbay, Ph. D., formerly of Tyrone, is now a member of the faculty of the Winona Bible school of New York city. He teaches there in the department of "Synthetic Christology," and expounds the essential dogmas for personal workers. The school is not denominational in character.

Charles Huff, a farmer residing near Woolrich, in the spring planted three sweet pumpkin seeds from which sprung a large number of vines, five of which are now over sixty feet in length. The several vines contain nine pumpkins each weighing from sixty to ninety pounds beside a large number of smaller ones.

Mrs. Stillwell Traux, who lives on the Shaffner farm near Orbisindia, while engaged at her household duties a few days ago heard a noise in the chicken yard and upon making inquiry discovered a large hawk tangled up in the fence. The lady promptly killed it with a broom. It measured four feet from tip to tip.

Persons who own or operate automobiles in Pennsylvania after December 1st, the beginning of the fiscal year of the state highway department, will be required to display red enamel tags with white letters instead of blue tags with white letters. The new style tags will be ready to issue in thirty days and in all other respects will be similar to those now issued by the department.

Frank E. Harder, of Lock Haven, a well known sporting goods man, was the victim of a serious accident the other day. He was handling a gun which had been brought in to be repaired and in walking around the counter in his store, on which the gun lay, the weapon was discharged by falling to the floor, the load entering his right foot. The member was later amputated at the hospital.

The hotel at Charlton, Clinton county, was totally destroyed together with practically all of its contents by fire that broke out soon after 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The flames communicated to the house of E. C. Barner, next door, which also destroyed and burned the roof of the home of William Waters. The hotel was owned by the Samuel Christ estate and occupied by Mrs. L. M. Hartman.

In the Blair county court on Monday, Jerry Mentzer, a resident of Arch Spring, Sinking Valley, plead guilty to the heinous and revolting crime of debauching his own daughter. Judge Bell said: "We can't overlook the gravity of this crime, and do not want to condone a revolting offence like this. You are sentenced to pay $50 fine, costs of prosecution and serve five years in the western penitentiary."

Friday evening, William Croft, a Lock Haven young man, who has been employed as a brakeman in the Renovo railroad yards for the past two years, met with an accident Friday evening which caused his death at midnight. He had taken a string of cars down to what is known as the "hump" in the eastern end of Renovo, to be weighed and was returning up the track to start another string down, when he was struck by a draft of cars, and knocked down, the wheels passing over both legs, which were fearfully mangled from the knees to the hips. The unfortunate young man was picked up and taken to the emergency hospital, where it was seen by the physicians that he was fatally injured. He was 21 years of age.
