Harris presented $50.00 to the building fund of the Bellefonte hospital. The gift is very much appreciated by the board of managers who wish to extend their sincere thanks to Mr. Harris for the same. Let others follow the example. Miss Kate Brislin, organist in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, on Saturday evening became ill while at church practice, and had to be conveyed to her home. She was unable to preside at the large instrument on Sabbath, her place being filled by Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes. Thursday a little Hungarian boy about three years of age, was burned to death at his home near Coleville. The child's dress caught fire from the cook stove, and before the flames could be extinguished it was so badly burned that it died in the Bellefonte Hospital at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. D. A. Grove, of the Lemont horse dealer, left on Saturday for Chicago, where he intends to purchase a carload of horses which will be shipped to his stables near Lemont, at which place he has permanent established his horse market. Merchant John Hoy, of Waddle, was in Bellefonte, Friday, accompanied by his daughter, Mary E. Hoy who entered the Bellefonte hospital with the purpose of becoming a nurse. She is a bright, active young lady, and has all the necessary qualifications to make a thoroughly competent person to care for the sick. Mr. Hoy has a son Herbert in the a sophomore class at State College, who is a genius. He is taking an electrical course and sometime ago tackled wireless telegraphy, demonstrating that he had the principles of the great invention down fine. The colonial tea, given at the residence of Mrs. D. H. Hastings, by the Daughters of the American Revolution, was a magnificent success, the surroundings being perfectly beautiful. The house was very appropriately decorated for the occasion, in colonial design and colors, and illuminated with candles. Of course the tea was prolific enough to answer for a meal. Some of the guests were exceedingly becoming in colonial costumes, and the crowd was as charming as it was gay in spirit. One of the features was an artificial cherry tree laden with cherries with the historic hatchet standing alongside it. The receipts of the evening amounted to over $75, most of which was clear. The ladies are delighted with the outcome. Friday evening fifty or more guests assembled at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Joseph to celebrate their 16th wedding anniversary. The interior of the house was beautifully decorated with a variety of ferns, vines and flowers. All these years Mr. and Mrs. Joseph have trod life's pathway together in a way that was very congenial and pleasant. Their home has always been open for the entertainment of their friends. Mr. Joseph is a prominent and successful merchant here, and his excellent wife has taken part in quite a number of public entertainments, whose object was to benefit and aid the Bellefonte hospital; she is willing to lend a hand to every good cause. It was mailed from Joplin, Mo., and contained the picture of a prosperous zinc and lead mines in that district. He seems to be well pleased with the country. His son, Dr. George Rishel, was here this week, and went away Tuesday feeling certain of his father's recovery. Ed M. Dr. Platts, of the Presbyterian church assisted in some of the evangelistic meetings in Philipsburg last week. The Ledger says: "The preaching of Dr. Platts, of Bellefonte, has been greatly enjoyed. Special music will be furnished by a quartet, and Dr. Platts, who is an accomplished tenor, will sing several solos. Wednesday evening of last week, Will Katz, of the enterprising firm of Katz & Co., returned from business and pleasure trip to New York City. His wife and baby, who were with him, extended their visit for a week or two; while in the city he stopped at a house just opposite where the horrible railroad wreck occurred. Will was one of the first on the scene and he says that it was something that was appalling. On Friday afternoon interesting literary exercises, appropriate to Washington's Birthday, took place in the Bellefonte public schools. It is the custom of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to offer prizes for the best biographical essay on the Revolutionary period of United States history. There were a number of contestants on Friday, and the winners were Clair Robb and Elsie Altendiefer. For years W. A. White, of Howard, had been a sufferer from an abscess on the leg. Several weeks ago he was taken to the Bellefonte Hospital with the hope that he could be relieved without an amputation. It was found, however, that this was impossible and Thursday the member was taken off above the knee. Since then the patient has been getting along exceedingly well; it is hoped that this will mean a permanent relief. On Monday we had an interesting visitor in Jeremiah Zettle, of Gregg township, who is an expert trapper. During the months of November and December he got about $80 worth of pelts, such as wild cats, fox, mink, skunk, etc., at which he make nice wages. He has done more of this kind of work than any other individual in the county, and success lies in the fact that he has made a study of the habits of these animals and in that way has learned how to successfully capture them. We will venture the assertion that Mr. Zettle has done more for the protection of game in Centre county by killing the game-destroying animals, than all that was ever done here by game wardens and their fines. Mr. Zettle reports wild cats very plenty in our mountains and cited instances where they have even killed large deer. He insists that a bounty on game-destroying animals will do more to increase game than all the money that can be paid to game wardens.

She was the youngest and last survivor of the family of Michael Hess, of Haines township, who, with his father, Matthias Hess, came from Germany to America, in the days when the Indians roamed these valleys and mountains, and before the forests were felled. The deceased was a most faithful wife and mother, a christian in every sense of the word, whose duty next to her God was to her large family who were reared to be sons and daughters that bear upright and exemplary lives. She was a devoted member of the Lutheran church, and up to her death, a liberal contributor to its needs for every purpose. Her father and grandfather suffered from the raids of the Indians, and were in the Great Runaway, when the Indians had planned an incursion for murder, rapine, and the taking of scalps in Pennsylvania, but previous notice was given the whites in time to flee—an historic leaf in frontier life. The paternal grandfather of mother Harter came to America with Count Raus-hamban, from Germany, and took part in the war for independence. He located in Snyder county, afterwards moved to Pennsylvania, having sold a mill property and other valuable real estate in Snyder county, was paid in Continental money, which shortly thereafter became worthless, causing him the loss of a large fortune. After his removal to Centre county, he purchased a farm in Haines twp., and spent the remainder of his days there. After he had become a member of the Reformed church, which was at the age of 20 years, he decided to study for the ministry. He was active in the religious work while in the Spring Mills Academy, and later he entered as a student at Franklin and Marshall college, at Lancaster, graduating in 1890, with high honors. He then entered the theological seminary and graduated from there in 1893. Afterward he went to Grove City, at which place he was ordained, organized a congregation from a mission and remained its head for seven years. During that time his charge prospered and many new members were added to the roll. From Grove City he went to Danville, remaining nearly six years. May 3, 1905, he went to Altoona as pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, succeeding the Rev. Lewis Robb. He did good work among the congregation and had endeared himself greatly to the members. At this home, one by one, three brothers and one sister Mrs. Anna Peters, were brought, where the deceased kindly cared for their wants, until death came as a relief. Her remains were the fifth of brothers and sisters, carried from this home during the last thirty years. One brother, Joseph, of Blanchard, one sister, Mrs. Lew Wetzler, of Milesburg, are all that remain of the family. This sudden death was a shock to the community; the day previous neighbors found her busy and cheerful with her work; the sentiment of all the neighbors is "We have lost a kind friend." She was the last member residing in this vicinity belonging to the Menonite church, at one time consisting of a large membership. Rev. A. J. Allen, Methodist minister in charge, officiated, interment in Schenck cemetery. REV. HENRY LUSE—died at his home in Michigan, Thursday, February 7, and was buried the following Sunday.
