Woman Badly Burned.

Mrs. Jennie Breck, wife of a farmer near Montgomery, went to the smoke-house to replenish the fire. The embers set fire to her apron and before she could reach the house, her dress and hair were ablaze. She was alone. She began to tear her clothing off, and the burning garments set fire to the carpet. She rang an alarm on the farmers' telephone THAT it is stated that Christy Smith, the Baker, a daughter of a neighbor living Bellefonte musician, asked a lady the other day whether her daughter played the piano by note, she indignantly re-plied, "No, I pay cash for her lessons."
