

FRANCIS SPEER'S

Breezy "That" Column

THAT Bert has sort of a mania for "Helens." Now, don't jump at conclusions, and get the wrong Bert.

THAT home is what you make it and some fellows in Bellefonte never make it until three or four o'clock in the morning.

THAT some married men of Pine Grove Mills don't believe in paying for a lecture. That's on the free list at home.

THAT some women and young girls in Bellefonte paint to make themselves look pretty. That's the plain, unvarnished truth.

THAT Harry Green, the Bellefonte druggist, says that even the dealers in expensive perfumery should have some common scents.

THAT the "That Column" sometimes indulges in some plain talk, and those who wear their modesty on their sleeve should betake themselves to a milder diet.

THAT there is a young man in Bellefonte who had better tie up and save his friends from getting a pain every time they meet him and his girl friend on the street.

THAT the chance for a poor man in Bellefonte of reaching the age of three-score-and-ten are far better than a rich man's, because the doctors waste less time on him.

THAT Rubie Lucas, of Bellefonte, one of the prompt employees at E. K. Rhoads's coal yard, is laying awake at night for fear that these infernal ash burners will knock him out of a job, and then he will be compelled to apply to John Love for a little sausage and bologna.

THAT should Bellefonte need a genuine detective, we would suggest Frank Sasserman. On the "Q. T." he is a dandy along that line, and a number of times has demonstrated his ability to run the culprit down. He says that it doesn't take him long to get next, even if he does run a barber shop.

THAT Dr. George F. Harris, one of the most careful physicians in Bellefonte, on Thursday bought a football and no doubt will turn his attention to athletics. They just want a man of his build for half-back on the Academy team and the doctor would just fill the notch. He would make a good one.

THAT Thursday half of the male inhabitants of Bellefonte went wild over trying the experiment of burning ashes. If some of these gentlemen don't mend their ways the "devil" will do more than experiment with them. They will take the place of ashes in a hotter place than a furnace built and heated up by Ellmore.

THAT they say that Archie Allison, of Bellefonte, is going to get a Stanley steamer for the purpose of hauling those gold dollars from the "Centre Chemical Works" to the several banks in town. The gold is in those limestone rocks up there and if there is any way to get them out Allison will get them because he does like the "dough."

THAT the next excitement in Bellefonte will be the calling out of the State Constabulary to protect the large trout in the big spring. If a certain fellow doesn't keep away from there late at night there might be another patient in the local hospital. This is a pointer to the right fellow, which is worth ten gold dollars. They are after him.

THAT money may make the mare go, but Drs. Hayes, Dale, Sebring, Lock and Seibert prefer an automobile. At times they may lose their religion but after the critter starts they repent and are all right until they run up against another proposition. They have thought more than once of the old mare that stands in the stable, which if she had been handy would have helped them out of a rut or hole.

THAT "Billy" Cassidy, the most expert trout angler, in this vicinity, says that last week was busy times among the members of the "Bellefonte Ananias Club." Of course, "Billy" doesn't belong to this gang but he seems to know what's going on. What he says about fishing is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and should be said that he caught a whale in Spring creek that ought to settle it.

THAT Dr. H. K. Hoy, of Altoona, says that John Ellmore's invention of burning ashes will make a seven times hotter fire than his satanic majesty in the lower region. His friends in Bellefonte are now wondering how he secured sufficient data to make the calculation. He certainly was not down there trying to sell his patent. The devil has promised to make it hot enough for some people and thus the doctor should not try to do anything that will increase the heat down there.

THAT when Albert Schadd, the Bellefonte plumber, purchased the lot on the corner of Spring and Lamb streets from William P. Humes, he never dreamed that he had gotten hold of a regular klondike. It is filled from ten to fifteen feet with coal ashes which he, no doubt, will desire to sell to the public to burn in their stoves instead of coal. The next thing Albert will be living in a brown stone front and touring the country in a $5000 automobile. It takes a plumber for luck.

THAT Dr. J. L. Seibert, of Bellefonte, has something even more startling up his sleeve than Ellmore, the cobbler, had when he talked of burning ashes. It's a patent to run the Stanley steamer without gasoline. A test was made recently by the doctor and the machine was run on compressed air. From the time he left the front of his residence on Allegheny street until he had gotten to his stable it worked like a charm. If at any time he found his scheme wouldn't work he might try burning ashes to make 'er go. We don't know whether the doctor is becoming economical or whether he is becoming a rival of Ellmore, the ash burner.

THAT Father McArdle and Robert Cole were walking along the street the other day when a passerby saluted them as gentlemen, stating that he knew gentlemen when he saw them. Father McArdle, with a very pleasant smile, in reply said: "You can't always tell by a man's cloth what he is." That's true in many cases but there is no shadow of a doubt but what the young man knew what he was talking about when he applied the term gentlemen to your friends McArdle and Cole. They wear good cloth and what's under it is genuine. There are some men in Bellefonte who you would have to study a long while before you could get up courage to address them as gentlemen.

Improvements of Pike.

From statistics gathered by the State highways department it appears that there are at the present time about 1,000 miles of turnpikes in the State on which tolls are collected, says the Harrisburg "Patriot."

Generally speaking, the toll roads are the main thoroughfares in the localities through which they run. In the building of the State highways these turnpikes must be an important factor.

The resolution offered by Mr. Minehart in the House of Representatives on Monday evening calling upon the State highways department to furnish to the next Legislature an estimate of what it would cost to acquire all the turnpikes in the State, and what it would cost to improve them under the good road law, is eminently proper in order that the Legislature may act intelligently regarding their transformation into State roads.

The turnpike companies were a great public benefit in their time, but their time has gone by.

Stood The Test.

Allcock's Plasters have successfully stood the test of sixty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the reputation of Allcock's by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as Allcock's."

Allcock's plasters stand to-day indorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy.

Falls Creek Postal Robbery.

About 3 o'clock Thursday morning the post office at Falls Creek was entered and the safe blown open and rifled of things of value. The amount taken was about $250, and of this amount $70 was cash and the remainder was stamps. The Falls Creek office has been robbed repeatedly within the last half-dozen years.

A Murder in Hastings.

A dispatch from Hastings, Cambria county, under date of Thursday says, Ignatius Rycotus, a Pole, was killed in a fight which took place in the Polish settlement there early that morning. When found the body of Rycotus was fairly riddled with stiletto wounds. John Caraffa, accused of being Rycotus' assailant, has been arrested.

Since the establishing of so many telephones throughout the Maine woods, it is said that bear and moose may be hunted by this method. All a hunter need do will be to telephone ahead to the next station for the men to be on the lookout for the game. The telephone is being used in fighting forest fires, a station having been established on a high point with a watchman to be on the lookout for flames.

EARTHQUAKE EPIDEMIC.

Great interest has been aroused in scientific circles by the remarkable number of earthquakes recorded during the last few days from well populated centres.

Reports from Mexico show that devastation has been wrought by shocks affecting the central and southern portions of the republic. Serious volcanic eruptions are spreading terror in Chili, and shocks have been felt in the Philippines, Spain, Turkey, Trans-Caucasia and in the United States.

Although some degree of importance is attached by scientists to the recent appearance of giant spots on the sun, it is pointed out that this earth is the plaything of twelve distinct astronomical forces, the chief one of which causes it to rush through space at the rate of 36,000 miles an hour.

Agitations of the earth's surface are not only due to many causes, principal among which is the contraction of the crust, due to gradual cooling of the interior, but are virtually incessant. Camille Flammarion, the world-renowned French astronomer, believes that not a day passes without an earthquake being felt in some parts of the globe's surface.

Most of these shocks, however, occur at the bottom of the ocean or in sparsely inhabited countries, and are thus never recorded. The remarkable feature about the disturbances that have marked the last few days is that they have nearly all affected populated districts and places within easy communication of the rest of the world.

For Fishermen.

Trout when hungry face the current. This fact, says the Ayrl Circle, should be remembered when approaching a bridge or eddy where the "speckled beauties love to hide." If possible, such spots should be approached up-stream. It may take a little more time to go around and come back up, but "make haste slowly" is said to be the first axiom of trout-fishing. As the stream becomes warmer, the trout seek the cool pools and shaded places. They are to be found where a cold spring bubbles up into the stream or where a mountain creek enters; often a number frequent the same haunt. Each additional fish means two more eyes to watch for the fisherman. One trout is all that is necessary to give a danger signal by darting away. The rest immediately follow suit. To catch more than one—or even that—in such a place takes skill in the use of the line. But who has said that trout fishing is not an art.

That Nickel Saved His Life.

When Dr. Briggs arrived at the Meachem house he found his patient in a comatose condition, which made necessary several hours of restorative labor. "Now, how did this happen?" he demanded of Mrs. Meachem when the trouble was over. "Did you give him the powder I left?"

"Yes, sir."
"As much as would go on a dime and no more?"
"Yes, sir that is, we couldn't find a dime, so I shook a nickel and five pennies out of Willie's bank and gave him just what they would carry."
"It's lucky the nickel was there, so that you didn't have to use five more coppers," remarked the doctor dryly.

State Regent of D. A. R.

At Washington, D. C., the delegates from Pennsylvania, in attendance upon the sessions of the National Continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, unanimously elected Mrs. Allen Perley of Williamsport state regent for Pennsylvania to serve for the ensuing year. Mrs. Perley has been identified with the D. A. R. since the organization of Locomotive chapter and has been active in its affairs from the first. Recognizing her worth she was unanimously chosen regent of the chapter and served it as such during her term of office with signal ability. Now Mrs. Perley is called upon to assume great and higher honors and to preside over the councils and deliberations of the state organization until the meeting of the next Continental congress.

After Fortune Tellers.

District Attorney Small of Columbia county has turned his attention to the fortune tellers and palmists who have been doing a big business in several towns of the county relieving the rabble of their surplus cash. In a letter to the police and constables he says: "These evil designing persons attempt to tell about love, courtship and marriage and are the cause of numberless difficulties in the homes of our citizens, which often result in separation, divorce suits and all other differences arising in the lives of married people. It is your duty to cause the arrest of all persons who are practicing this malicious and baneful practice. The act of 1861 makes this business a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment."

Snow in West Kills Fruit.

It is said that the storm is practically the same over the entire system west of the Missouri river. Snow fell last week throughout Iowa, Missouri and Colorado, the northeastern corner of Kansas also suffering from an intermittent fall. In the northern states the snow will do more good than harm to the small grain, it is said, as the frost is out of the ground. Opinion as to the effect on fruit and early vegetables varies. In some sections it is said that cherries, peaches, plums and berries have been ruined almost entirely.

Thaw Play Suppressed.

"A Millionaire's Revenge," a lurid play dealing with the Thaw-White tragedy, was suppressed in Cincinnati by Mayor Dempsey. After the Mayor called a halt, the play was allowed to proceed under its sensational name, but it was completely changed. In flaring letters the posters announced that the "pie girl" scene would be depicted.

A force of bill posters in the employ of the mayor worked all night and covered the objectionable posters with white sheets of paper, obliterating also any mention of the Thaw case.

A smile and a laugh and a kind word at the breakfast table are more magical than mocha or mutton chops—Baltimore American.

The army of Tamerlane is said to have amounted to 1,000,000 and the forces of his antagonist, Bajaret, to 1,400,000.

HOT WEATHER AHEAD.

How to Keep the Kitchen Cool and Comfortable in Mid-Summer.

Many a housewife is wondering how she will pass through the coming summer months, with the stove she well knows will make the kitchen unbearably hot—to say nothing of the dirt, dust and ashes that will add to the discomfort.

There is a way out of it all—a way that not only lessens the work and keeps the kitchen cool, but that also reduces fuel expense. This convenience, comfort and economy is all effected by the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook Stove, an oil stove so superior to other makes that it is fast replacing the coal and wood range, the old-fashioned oil stove, and in many cases the gas stove.

While the flame of the New Perfection is intensely hot, yet the heat is not thrown off into the kitchen because it is concentrated by blue-enamed chimneys.

Another home comfort is the Rayo Lamp, which produces a light of unusual brightness, yet soft and mellow—a light that will not hurt the eyes. The Rayo Lamp can be used in any room, whether it be library, dining room, parlor or bedroom. It is highly ornamental, being made of brass throughout and beautifully nicked. Every lamp is warranted and makes a valuable and handsome addition to any home. The New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook Stove and the Rayo Lamp are two real essentials to home comfort. Their easy operation, absolute safety and handsome appearance commend them wherever stoves and lamps are used.

SAILOR PRINCES.

Edward and Albert, Sons of the Heir to the British Throne.

Two promising boys who are of great interest to the British public are the young princes Edward and Albert, sons of the Prince of Wales, who have just entered the British navy. Prince Edward, who is twelve years old, is known as the heir presumptive to the throne, his father being the heir apparent. In case of Prince Edward's death Prince Albert, who is now eleven, would become the heir presumptive. As King Edward VII. is getting to be an old man and cannot in the natural order of things rule a great many years more, it is fair to presume that the Prince of Wales will occupy the throne before his manly looking boys are very much older.

Prince Edward, if he lives, will then be next in line for the rulership of the British empire. He has a liking for the sea and promises to become a good naval officer, like his father, the Prince of Wales, who is known as "the sailor prince."

PRINCE ALBERT.
