TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

There are a number of our regular correspondents over the county who have failed to report the news for some time, as a result many readers are disappointed. Remember we are anxious to have the happenings of every town and village in the county sent to us regularly each week, and we will make an effort to give every item space.

If your town is not regularly reported will not our patrons urge some young person to volunteer. Send us your news; the Centre Democrat is always willing to publish it.

It's a musical wonder and Mrs. Charley Eckenroth thought it was really trying to sing "Annie Rooney." Now, Jode, don't you think it was trying to sing that popular song entitled, "Where the chicken will get the Ax?"

The Milesburg base-ball team came up on Saturday to play our home team and they got it in the neck; the score standing 17 to 13 in favor of Unionville. Saturday was a big day at the home of Col. Leah Beck, in Halfmoon township, as it was the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth, and he celebrated it by not only having a home coming of all his children and their families, but a "gathering of all the clans," and they are myriads, in their ancestry. The folks began to assemble early and by Saturday the commodious home of Col. Beck, on his large farm near Centre Line, was crowded to its utmost capacity.

The Word Jamaica.

The word Jamaica is a variant of the aboriginal name of the island—"Xaymacea," which is a combination of two words signifying water and wood. As Jamaica is known as the "island of springs" and produces an abundance of trees and vegetation, the name is highly appropriate. Old English localities are reproduced in Jamaica. Thus the island is divided into three counties—Middlesex, Surrey and Cornwall. The parishes hardly correspond with the counties. Why there should be a parish of Manchester in Middlesex and a parish of Portland in Surrey is not apparent at first sight, but the parish of Trearway in Cornwall is in perfect accord with the fitness of things. The parish derives its name from Sir William Trearway, who was at one time a governor of Jamaica.—London Chronicle.

"What the Dickens?"

Some genius discovered that "What the dickens?" is older than the author of "Pickwick," since it occurs in Gay's "Beggars' Opera." Had he pursued his investigations he might have found it to be older than Gay, since it occurs in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," act 3, scene 2, where Mrs. Page, in answer to Ford's "Whence had you this pretty weathercock?" (to wit, Falstaff's page Robin), replies: "I cannot tell what the dickens his name is; my husband had him of. What do you call your knight's name, sirrah?" Quoth Robin, "Sir Falstaff."—Macmillan's Magazine.

A sailor at Liverpool hailed a cab alongside his ship to drive him home. The cabby proceeded to put the luggage on the top of the cab, when the salt called out: "Here, cabby, none of that for me! It's me that rides up on deck, and my box must go in the hold!"—Liverpool Mercury.

It Pays to Advertise.

This is the way a recent situation looks to the Bradford Era and a good many other newspapers: Once upon a time a Philadelphia millionaire went to New York and became involved in a most sensational affair. He was arrested, placed under $5,000 bail and slashed himself with a piece of broken glass with suicidal intent. Prominent Philadelphia newspapers did not mention this episode. The man who succeeded in disgracing himself was a member of a firm that runs page advertisements in the aforesaid considerable newspapers. Does it pay to advertise? It does.
