

FRANCIS SPEER'S

Breezy "Chat" Column

THAT Sam Bryan, the cornet player, is fond of blowing himself.

THAT what Bellefonte needs are fewer girls on the street after midnight.

THAT Robert Cole, Jr., says that clouds come high but we must have them.

THAT Bellefonte has in it some pretty fly girls, and they are not all in kitchens, either.

THAT the girl in Bellefonte who smokes cigarets is a girl who would be easily persuaded to forfeit her honor and chastity.

THAT there is a girl in Bellefonte who sings with a great deal of feeling—that is, she sings as though she was feeling badly.

THAT Lewin Tobias "Captain of the huckelberry band" goes to Spiglmeyer's camp in his new automobile. Honk, Honk.

THAT Linn McGinley, of Bellefonte, says that the best thing out is a sore tooth; he had the experience and he ought to know.

THAT it is to be hoped that Carrie Nation will never hear of that Lock Haven girl who grew an acre of tobacco in the first ward of that city.

THAT a certain young man and young lady in Bellefonte had better abandon those Sunday afternoon walks to the mountains. "Nuff sed."

THAT once in a while you come across a girl in Bellefonte who doesn't care whether the people know her age. She is seldom over sixteen years of age.

THAT the man in Bellefonte who pushes his nose into other people's business has a kind of luck that some day may make his eyes look like charcoal.

THAT they say that a customer went into Ceador's bakery the other day and asked for a frosted cake. The obliging clerk brought her a cake of ice.

THAT it is really amusing to see the tactics used by some people in Bellefonte to break into society. Before they get very far they generally break their necks.

THAT the man in Bellefonte who pats you on the shoulder is the man whom you had better keep your eye on. The next time he may strike your pocketbook.

THAT if the girls of Bellefonte want to make fools out of certain young men one consolation they have is that they don't need to economize on the raw material.

THAT Sammy Campbell, the popular furniture dealer at Millheim, says that the oldest piece of furniture is the multiplication table. Your head is level, old man.

THAT 33 per cent more women than men in Bellefonte wear false teeth. That's because they keep their tongues going so much that it really wears their teeth out.

THAT John Bower, Esq., who has taken a deep interest in the fire department, of Bellefonte, says that when the firemen arrived at a fire they feel quite put out about it.

THAT the fact that the stork visited an Atlantic liner seven times recently on one trip ought to be an inducement for some married couples in Bellefonte to take a water voyage.

THAT if "Rus" Blair don't stop sneaking out of Bellefonte on the L. & T. R. R., there will be a whole bushel of fun at his expense. He had better pin this in his cap and take notice.

THAT Wagner Geiss, the efficient bookkeeper at E. K. Rhoads' coal office, says that the reason Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence was because he couldn't employ a stenographer.

THAT a girl in Bellefonte, who attended the shows in Garman's opera house last week, had the boys playing peek-a-boo. The next time she goes to a circus or opera she should put veils on her skirts.

THAT the man in Bellefonte who, during the trout season, declared that he just missed catching the largest fish in either Spring creek or Fishing creek, is not only a nature fakir; he's—merely a plain every day liar.

THAT when our good friends E. C. Tuten and Eddie Gates attend a reunion or picnic they should take a hay fork along to eat with. The fellow who furnishes these gentlemen with a meal for 25 cents will be out instead of in.

THAT it is with a great deal of regret that we have to put Charles Brackbill on the griddle so often, but his friends would like to know what became of that yellow kitten he didn't get down at Hecla Park the other day; she must have looped the loop.

THAT Love Lane, of Bellefonte, has a great stand-in with the girls since he made himself famous on the tennis court. It beats the bugs what admiration a woman has for a conqueror. They will be carrying him around on a chip, after a while.

THAT a man may get into society and at the same time be a laughing stock. There have been cases in Bellefonte where people were invited out into society for reasons best known to the host, and the guests felt as much out of place as a bedbug in bed with an Egyptian mummy.

THAT in Bellefonte the average man's idea of religious liberty is the privilege of remaining away from Wednesday evening prayer meeting. If the attendance of men at the mid-week prayer meeting is co-relation to the number who will reach Heaven, you can almost count them on your fingers.

THAT the people of Bellefonte should not be surprised if they hear of a tragedy. It is said there is a colored individual who is paying attention to a white girl here. He had better take a pointer from this little "Chat" by staying away from her. They are laying for him and the first thing he knows he will get it where the rooster got the axe.

THAT the young lady and gentleman, of Bellefonte, who were up in the Hecla Gap the other afternoon, were having a mighty good time until their fun was spoiled by the appearance of an unwelcome visitor. Nothing more could be expected of the young man, but the young lady in question should take off her robe of righteousness if she desires to cut up unquestionable capers such as she was indulging in on this occasion. The great trouble with Bellefonte is it has too many double-faced girls.

NEW APPOINTMENTS.

There is now no doubt that the agricultural work at the Pennsylvania State College is to be vastly broadened this year.

Hugh P. Baker, of the Iowa State College, had been elected professor of forestry. Prof. Baker is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural College and the Yale Forestry school.

H. K. Fulton, plant pathologist of the Louisiana Experiment Station, has been elected assistant professor of botany. He is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and subsequently pursued post graduate work in botany at the University of Missouri and Harvard.

Charles F. Shaw, field expert of the United States Bureau of Soils, has been elected an instructor in agronomy. He is a graduate of Cornell University and during the past summer has been making soil surveys of Centre county.

W. H. Tomhave has been elected assistant in animal industry. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where he has given special attention to the rearing of meat-producing animals and to the handling of meat and meat products.

W. R. White, a graduate of State in '07, has been elected assistant in correspondence courses. During the past summer Mr. White has had charge of a George Junior Republic, at Redington, Pa.

Prof. Thomas I. Mairs has been promoted to the head of the correspondence work. H. P. Fishburn, a graduate of the University of Virginia, has been elected assistant chemist. He will be employed on the fertilizer control work under the direction of Dr. William Frear.

New School Laws.

Among the acts passed by the late legislature are these: According to Act No. 121, "all children who reside 1 1/2 miles or more by public road from the nearest school in the district where they reside may attend any school more convenient in any other district without the consent of the directors or controllers of the district where they reside or where they may attend; provided, the consent of the directors or controllers of such other districts be first obtained; and the district where such other children reside shall be liable to the district where they may attend for the cost of tuition; provided, the cost of tuition shall not exceed the tuition of children in the schools and grades in the district receiving such non-resident children."

Act No. 240 requires, wherever a common stove is used for heating a school room that the stove shall be enclosed within a shield or jacket of galvanized iron or other suitable material of sufficient height to protect all pupils while seated at their desks from direct rays of heat. When windows are the only means for ventilation they shall be so constructed as to admit of ready adjustment, both at the top and bottom, and some device must be provided to protect pupils from currents of cold air. A thermometer must also be placed in every school room.

Dragged to Death.

Jesse Morgan, 9 years old, met a terrible death at West Middletown, Pa., Friday evening, when he was dragged by a cow belonging to his uncle, J. G. Dewey. The lad thoroughly fastened the loose end of the cow's leading rope around his neck and when the animal became frightened at something in the road the boy was dragged and choked to death. Along the road and over a bridge the frenzied cow ran and the body of the child bumped along at her heels. The cow once stumbled and fell, but got up again and ran on, leaving the little caretaker bruised and bleeding, with his clothing almost torn off. On a hill above the road Robert Dewey saw the accident. He hurried down and tried to untie the rope, which was drawn tightly around the child's neck. He was unable to do so and had to cut it. Life was not yet extinct, although the skull was fractured and the body torn and bruised by the cow's hoofs. The boy partially recovered consciousness but died later.

A Horrible Crime.

A terrible crime was committed at the Cambria county almshouse Saturday night, and which was not discovered until Sunday morning. The victims are Catharine, aged 3 years, and Martha, aged 1 year, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, of Spangler. The mother is under arrest. The children were found dead in their bed Sunday morning with the marks of human fingers on their throats, indicating that they had been strangled. The jury which had been sworn in to investigate the case, decided on a verdict that the two girls had come to their death by strangulation at the hands of their mother. It was brought out at the inquest that the windpipes of both children had been crushed. Mrs. Thomas is 31 years old.

Granger's Banks.

According to the State Master William F. Hill, of Chambersburg, the bank movement among Grange members is advancing rapidly. Fourteen institutions have been organized in eighteen months and work is now proceeding on six new buildings. The aggregate capital of Grange banks now in operation is about $1,000,000.

The Corn Crop.

It all depends on the early or late coming of Jack Frost whether or not Penns Valley will have a marketable corn crop. The past fifteen days have worked wonders with the corn, and barring frost the crop will far exceed the expectations of most.

BLUE LAWS IN PENNSYLVANIA

A Very Strict Enforcement to Be Made in South Fork on Sunday.

The town of South Fork, near Johnstown, will witness on Sunday the most rapid enforcement of blue laws that has been recorded in some time. Residents opposed to a liberal observance of the Sabbath entered complaint with the burgess, and he went even further than the most rapid of Puritans had dreamed.

These are some of the things: The ticket agent at South Fork will be compelled to refuse to sell tickets to prospective passengers. The electric light plant will be closed, and there will be no light even to conduct evening worship. Livery stables will be closed all day, it will be next to impossible to spend a cent in the place Sunday unless the coin be dropped in the contribution boxes in the churches. The water company alone has escaped the notice. The mayor takes the position that if the blue laws are to be enforced at all they apply against all alike.

Harvest Home Services.

Harvest home services were held Sunday morning in St. Johns Reformed church and in the Zion Reformed church at 2.30 p. m. The decorations in St. John's church were unusually fine, the entire front of the church was a mass of flowers, fruits and vegetables. Corn wheat and oats in the shock were used in decorating. Rev. Schmidt preached an exceptionally forceful sermon on the significance and true spirit of a Harvest Home Service. Miss Helen Bible, of Philadelphia, sang two very sweet solos her voice being remarkably sympathetic. The offerings were for "the Society for the Relief of Ministers" and amounted to $20.53. At Zion the church was beautifully adorned with fruits, vegetables and flowers. The entire service was full of the spirit of thankfulness and the offerings amounted to $10.50 being devoted to the Ministerial Relief fund.

At both places the congregations were large and the congregational singing was fine.

The vegetables, fruits and flowers from St. John's church were sent to the Bellefonte Hospital.

Sheatz Will Not Debate.

"I see that Mr. Sheatz, the Republican candidate for State treasurer, has replied to the challenge for a joint debate sent him by Democratic Candidate Harman," said Democratic State Chairman G. C. Dimeling on Saturday.

"His reply means that Mr. Sheatz will decline to engage in a joint debate with Mr. Harman. But that will not stop the issue being placed before the people of the State. We will make a winning fight, too. The endorsement of Sheatz by the City party of Philadelphia will not hurt the cause of common honesty, as exemplified by Mr. Harman."

Chairman Dimeling says that all of the reports he has received are of the most encouraging character.

Chairman Dimeling is making special requests of Democrats throughout the State to see that the voters are registered.

Achenbach Family Reunion.

Monday the Achenbach family reunion was held at Loganton. The tree of this family was the Hon. George A. Achenbach who so faithfully served that county several terms in the assembly at Harrisburg and was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1873.

The members of the family are scattered over many states but a number of them were present. Those present were as follows: Hiram Achenbach, of Topeka, Kansas, and wife, who are now on a visit to Philadelphia; George Brill and wife, of Philadelphia; John Miller and wife, of Johnstown; John F. Brosius and wife, of Kauchtown; Paul O. Brosius and wife, of Ridgeway; Mrs. Perry Sheatz, of Kentucky and B. C. Achenbach and wife of Lock Haven.

Conscience Gave Him No Peace.

Frank Myers, who left Berwick about a year ago after, it is alleged, a shortage of $500 was discovered in his accounts with Contractor W. W. Shannon, returned yesterday. He had no peace of mind, and he says that his conscience compelled him to come back. Mr. Shannon received a letter from Myers, mailed at Philadelphia, Monday. He said that he was ready to surrender himself, and if Mr. Shannon would come to Philadelphia with an officer he would give himself up, for he had desired to start life anew. His former employer went to the city alone, and the two met at the Broad street station. Myers returned to Berwick. Mr. Shannon will not prosecute the case, and Myers will go to work to pay back the amount.

Married on Gettysburg Battlefield.

Standing on the heights of Little Round Top, looking over that portion of the Gettysburg battlefield, on which he fought, Captain Hiram Johnson, formerly of Venice, Mich., now an employe of the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., was married to Miss Mary G. Todunter, also of Washington, and a niece of General Pickett, whose famous charge at Gettysburg marked the culminating point in the battle. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. Hartman, of the Methodist church. The bride and bridegroom were there attending the Union Veterans' Legion meeting, and while there concluded to be married on the historic spot. This is the second marriage on Little Round Top within ten days.

33 Years in One Cell.

A protest against keeping Jessie Pomeroy, the murderer, in solitary confinement at the Charlestown, Mass., state prison was filed with Governor Guild by Fred H. Gile, secretary of the American Society for the Promotion of Criminal Anthropology. The petition recites that Pomeroy has served a sentence in solitary confinement for 33 years. He has been in jail since he was 14 years old and has never been allowed out of his cell to stroll with other prisoners, work with them at the benches, nor even to attend divine services. He has never seen an electric car, talked through a telephone or ridden in an elevator.

She Steps on a Dead Arm.

Stepping from the Pennsylvania telegraph tower at Kittanning Point Sunday Miss Irene Rooney, the operator, set foot upon the severed arm of a man. Later the mangled body of an unknown man was taken off the brake rigging of a freight car near Gallitzin.

John Leathers who has been employed at the Curtin Forge had the misfortune of running a piece of scrap iron in his foot the other day.

Make Careful Note.

Make way for the rural mail carrier. The postmaster general has issued a ruling to the effect that the rural mail carrier has the right of way on all roads, and that carriages and conveyances of all description must make way for him on the public highways.

on the public highways.

The postmaster general has also ruled that mail matter intended for rural delivery must have an address other than simply the number of the box on the rural route. In other words, it must contain the name of the addressee.

Yes, we sold 100,000 Bears!

Ordinarily it is easier to sell a broom in a household than to dispose of a bear there; indeed, unusually unlucky sportsmen are the only ones who would give a price for bruin's skin, to display as a trophy of the chase.

But with our subject we desire to demonstrate that you can sell anything you may handle, provided you use BEY cuts.

It was along the upper Susquehanna that we shot our famous bear—with a kodak. Then with an eye to a wholesale trade we reared bear cubs, by photographic means, from our captured one, a group of them being shown in the panel opposite. We then introduced our Bruin family into society by placing them in a conspicuous place in one of our public parks. There the people noticed them immediately; their appearance made them famous; newspapers wrote articles about them, and everybody asked everybody else: "Did you see those bears in the park—how did they get there?"

"THE BRUIN FAMILY."
