AN AVALANCHE IN CENTRE COUNTY

Small Vote Polled But Immense Majorities Rolled up

A REBUKE FOR GANGSTERS

The Harter-Love Combination go Down—Kimpert and Runkle Endorsed by the Public—Col. Chambers is Overwhelmed—A Great Victory.

The following totals were given out from the Prothonotary's office last evening, as compiled from the returns. The official count will make little or no change in the result:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Total Maj. Includes Harman, Sheatz, Kimpert, Runkle, Chambers, etc.

In 1905 the total vote cast for state treasurer on the Democratic and Republican tickets was 8186; this year it is only 5940 or a loss of 2246.

The above totals are a surprise to many. It is an unusual vote, similar to the recent judicial contest, where party lines were utterly forgotten and men voted as they thought best.

It again points with emphasis to the fact that the people of Centre county are drifting from party lines, and becoming independent voters.

Few there are who do not have a choice of party, but there is a growing sentiment to value good citizenship and good government above the narrow lines of any party.

We need not now indicate why party lines were broken—the people seemed to have understood the situation, and acted for what was best.

ANOTHER LESSON.

The political landslide in Centre county on Tuesday cannot be claimed as an entire victory for local Democracy.

The spasmatic outburst of a party which for several years has been burdened by the Penrose-Love-Harter gang. They endured it until the oppression became so great that, as the voice of one man, they rose up and said in no uncertain terms that hereafter we will not fall down and worship Penrose, or any other politicians in Centre county simply to enrich a few individuals.

The political landscape in Centre county on Tuesday cannot be claimed as an entire victory for local Democracy. It was the spasmodic outburst of a party which for several years has been burdened by the Penrose-Love-Harter gang.

The political bottom dropped out of Patton township. State College took a slump, and the North Ward went helter-skelter for Runkle also.

WE ARE HOPEFUL.

The election of Sheatz, in Pennsylvania, was no surprise; but the large majority received goes beyond expectations.

We need not now indicate why party lines were broken—the people seemed to have understood the situation, and acted for what was best.

A DISPENSARY.

Tuberculosis Treatment Free for Poor and Needy Patients.

Dispensaries for the examination and treatment of people suffering from tuberculosis of the lungs will be established in every county of Pennsylvania by State Health Commissioner Dixon.

The dispensary is intended for the benefit of patients too poor to pay for medical attention, and who, for various reasons, are unable to go to a sanitarium.

On last Friday the State Department of Health established a Tuberculosis Dispensary, No. 7, in Bellefonte.

The Odd Fellows of the Central Pennsylvania District are erecting a new building at the Home farm near Sunbury for the accommodation of more Orphans of deceased brothers.

ELECTION RETURNS OUTSIDE THE COUNTY

Sheatz Carries This State by an Immense Majority.

RESULTS IN OTHER STATES

New Jersey Democratic—Other States Retain in Party Lines—Johnson Elected Mayor—Tammany Wins in New York.

Tuesday's election in 13 states may develop some indication of possible tendencies in the national campaign of next year.

There were to general state elections. The keenest interest felt centered in the local combats in New York City, Cleveland, San Francisco and Salt Lake City.

In New York the struggle between Tammany and the fusion ticket was regarded of vast significance.

Next to the New York battle in popular interest came the municipal contest in Cleveland, O. Both Mr. Burton and Mr. Johnson are well known, the former being a member and the latter a former member of the house of representatives.

In Massachusetts, Maryland, Mississippi, Rhode Island, Kentucky and New Jersey governors were chosen, and in all of them except New Jersey full state tickets.

In Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania and Nebraska the election was for inferior state officers or for members of the legislature or county officers.

In all cases the results will be carefully scanned for signs of changes which may possibly bear upon the more important general conflict of 1908.

John O. Sheatz, of Philadelphia, republican, was elected state treasurer over John G. Harman, of Columbia county, democrat, in Pennsylvania, by a large plurality possibly 170,000.

Wilmington which comprised in itself one of the four districts into which the state had been divided gave a majority of 4,286 for liquor forces.

Edward S. Barlett and Willard Barlett who ran jointly on the Republican and Democratic tickets, are elected as judges of the court of appeals over the candidates of the Independent league.

The republicans won a sweeping victory in Massachusetts re-electing Governor Guild, and all other state officers.

The election of Frank S. Katzenbach, jr. (democrat) as governor by a plurality of from 15,000 to 20,000, is one of the big democratic victories.

There is little relative change from last year, although on the face of the returns Governor James H. Higgins, the Democratic candidate for re-election, has made a slight gain over his vote of last year.

Anti-Mormon party won in Salt Lake City. The fight was for or against Mormonism and the American, or anti-Mormon faction, appears to have elected Bransford as Mayor.

Democratic governor and entire state ticket elected. Gov. Warfield defeated in popular vote for United States Senator by John Walter Smith.

Republicans elected mayor of Cincinnati; lost in Toledo; Columbus in doubt; Tom L. Johnson re-elected in Cleveland.

Vote for governor was close with heavy Republican gain. Both parties are claiming a victory.

Republicans carried the state.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson was re-elected for the fourth time as mayor of Cleveland in a hard-fought battle.

The Logan Grange, of Pleasant Gap, will hold an "Old Home" meeting in their hall on Saturday, November 16, at 2 p. m.

The victory in the license and no-license fight decided was about equally divided between the liquor forces and the anti-license party.

Some of Sammy Williams' friends must have voted in Bellefonte, on Tuesday.

PROGRAMME FOR TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

To be Held in Bellefonte from November 18 to 22nd, 1907.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS WILL MEET

Will Meet in Bellefonte the Same Week—Complete Outline for Both Gatherings—Able Instructors Secured Topics for Discussion

The Sixty-first annual Teachers' Institute of Centre county will be held in the court house commencing Monday, Nov. 18. Prof. D. O. Eiters, the worthy county superintendent, has left nothing undone that would in any way add to the comfort and interest of the various sessions that will be held during the week.

Monday morning the enrollment clerk will be at his desk as usual. The enrollment fee is the same as last year, $1.50.

UTILITY

There was a man in Atchison whose trousers had rough patches. He found them great. He'd often said. To scratch his parlor matchbox. —Lippincott's.

There was a man in Henderson. Who had a tall and slender. A human fall. Who used a nail. To fasten his suspender. —Chicago Tribune.

Another chap in Baltimore. So fresh you'd like to saltmore. Would talk and talk. Without a hank. As if none e'er could haltmore. —Indianapolis News.

A sleeper from the Amazon. At nighties of his grammason. The reason, that. He was too fat. To get his own pajamas on. —Buffalo News.

A dashing young fellow from Dayton. Wanted a girl he could wait on. So early this fall. He got word to call. But the note he received had no date on. —Ohio Sun.

There once was a fellow in Ripon. A sport who had a good clip on. The race track. But he lost his money, you see. He bet, but the horse he'd no tip on. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

There was a sweet maid in Galveston. Who always went out with her bestion. Except on the shore. When quite little she wore. But her swim over, she'd put on. —Houston Post.

A man of letters ought to succeed for a spell, at least. Misery loves company—but it's tough on the company.

The fellow with money to burn seldom has it insured. People who have sympathy for humanity are not sighing for heaven.

The spinster may be up-to-date in everything except her birthday. Most things are going up, but writing paper still remains stationary.

This world only becomes beautiful as we tackle its unpleasant problems. The woman with false teeth doesn't boast of her collection of porcelain.

The Lord not only loves a cheerful giver; he loves a giver of good cheer. Don't bring business and politics into religion; rather put religions into them.

Don't always sympathize with the under dog. Sometimes he deserves all he gets. The man who tries to collect his outstanding bills, duns in order not to be done.

All a man has to do in order to keep his wife in a good humor is to pretend to be jealous of her. Don't imagine for a minute that simply belonging to a church will give you fall standing among its members.

Don't presume to direct your pastor in the discharge of his duties unless you want to create factions in the church. Religion is a plant that soon perishes if you try to sustain it by sticking it into a pious flowerpot about once a week.

Jacob Smithers, criminal, sat in his cell making paper boxes when a dear old lady looked through the peephole in the door inquisitively. "You poor man," she said, "I guess you'll be glad when your time is up, won't you?" "Wall, no'm, not particularly," Jacob Smithers answered. "I'm in fur life."

When in the street with a lady a gentleman should not light a cigarette unless the lady does. When you step on a lady's toes make some off-hand remark about her feet being too small to be seen. This is older than the cave dwellers but it still works.

Don't forget to tell her that she's not like other girls. It always works, whether you spring it on the belle of the village, the girl with the hair lip or the bearded lady of the circus.

If you use the same solitary for the second engagement, don't refer to it as killing two birds with one stone. Don't marry for money, but never let money stand between a girl and her happiness.

It is not good form to congratulate a girl friend upon her engagement. Simply remark, "So you landed him at last."

C. R. Straw Killed. Chester R. Straw, aged 18 years, a Pittsburg division brakeman, was instantly killed Sunday morning, shortly before 5 o'clock, by being run down by passenger train No. 22 at GC town just east of Gallatin, as he stepped out of the way of a westbound train.

The unfortunate young man was born at Julian, Centre county, December 23, 1889. He had been employed as a brakeman about two months, running between Walls and Altoona. He resided at Walls. His parents, Philip and Jennie Straw, of Julian, and the following brothers and sisters survive: William, of Phillipsburg; George, of Walls; Gordon, of Altoona; Earl, Bessie, Olive, Edna, Elva, Mabel, and Verda, at home. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, of Walls; the Railroad Relief association, of Phillipsburg. The remains were prepared for burial and were shipped to Julian Monday morning.

Automobile Accident. Friday afternoon, Mr. Wike, one of the managers of the paper mill at Tyrone, his wife and Mrs. James Gregg, formerly of Milesburg, started for Bellefonte where Mr. and Mrs. Wike were going to pay a short visit to their son, Victor Wike, who is a student of the Academy. They were running at a pretty rapid speed and when near Julian, something went wrong with the steering apparatus of the machine. The result was that Mr. Wike was unable to keep the automobile in the road and it went over a ten-foot embankment at the side of the thoroughfare. The three occupants were injured, but the most serious was that of Mrs. Gregg, who was carried into the Nason home when Dr. Wasson, of Tyrone, was telephoned to who came at once in his automobile. After treating the patient the ladies were taken to Tyrone by Dr. Wasson. The machine was a Buick which was badly wrecked.
