Longest Year on Record.

The year B. C. 46, by order of Julius Caesar, contained 445 days. To clear away all the confusion which had previously existed in reconciling the lunar with the solar year, Caesar, with the help of Sosigenes, an Alexandrian astronomer, undertook a thorough reform of the calendar. He effected it by making the year now called 46 B. C., "the year of confusion," consist of 445 days and the succeeding years of 365 days, with the exception of every fourth year, which was to consist of 366. This method is called the Julian calendar.

The number of days in the months from January to December before Caesar's time had been respectively 29, 28, 31, 29, 31, 29, 31, 29, 29, 28, 31 and 29 days.

These numbers Caesar changed to 31 and 30 alternately, with the exception of February, which was to have 29 in ordinary years and 30 in leap years. In honor of himself he changed to July the name of the month that followed June. The pontiffs in applying the Julian calendar went wrong by inserting leap year every three years instead of every four years, and this continued till the year now called 8 B. C., when the Emperor Augustus ordained there should be no leap year for twelve years, which made leap year occur in 4 A. D. At the same time Augustus gave his own name to the month following July, adding one day to it, which he took away from February.

A Noisy Eater.

Ex-Senator William E. Chandler has an admirer in New Hampshire who has ideas on how the government should be conducted and writes Mr. Chandler about them at great length.

After Chandler was defeated for the senate and before he was appointed president of the Spanish claims commission the friend wrote, condoling with the senator.

He said it was a shame that the nation and New Hampshire should be deprived of the services of so able a man as Mr. Chandler and closed with this prophecy: "Nevertheless, I do not think republicans are ungrateful. I am confident that your great merits will again be recognized and that at no late date we shall hear of you feeding again at the public crib."

It doesn't do a man much good to hope for the best unless he hustles for it.

WOMAN EDITOR PROPOSES.

Gets Quick Acceptance to Her Leap Year Card From Editor.

Miss Elizabeth Sohm, editor of the Storm Lake Vidette, failed to get a share of the official county printing, published a card reading:

"A constant fight for what rightfully belongs to her is a wear and tear on the nervous system of any woman, and we have come to the belief that in order to stay in newspaper work and maintain our health we will have to marry some good printer who can do the fighting and swearing for us. This is leap year and this may be considered a proposal by anyone who would be qualified to fill the vacancy in the Vidette office."

When G. A. Craig, the bachelor editor of the Lytton Star, saw the article he stopped his press, made over a form and in a double card responded as follows:

"We believe we are eligible to fill the vacancy which Miss Sohm feels exists in her printshop. We are a Missouri Democrat of forty years' standing, considered a good printer and can swear fluently in seven different languages. We agree to accept Miss Sohm's proposal on condition that she will show credentials as to cooking abilities and express a willingness to darn our socks and mend the gables and of our trousers when needed. As soon as a favorable reply is received we stand ready to close the deal."

Iowa is awaiting the next issue of Miss Sohm's Vidette to see if she is "game."—Des Moines (Ia.)

SCHOOL LUNCHEONS.

Nervous Breakdown Result of Eating Dried Beef Sandwiches.

"I believe my nervous breakdown at school was the result of nothing more or less than dried beef sandwiches," said a high school pupil who was recuperating at a sanitarium. "Our maid never seemed to have time to make any sort of sandwiches except dried beef, the supply of which never failed."

How many girls have paid just such a price for monotonous, carelessly prepared school lunches! And not always is the maid to blame. Mothers are very careless in this matter, and when a mother is very busy she should train the daughter to take a little time each morning for the preparation of her luncheon, as time thus spent is a good investment. All girls and boys going to school crave something sweet, and unless it is supplied by the home luncheon they will buy it from cheap confectionery shops, peddlers, etc. Old cups that have no handles can be used to hold little puddings, and these will serve as an appetizing sweet in any lunch basket. Gingerbread of the soft kind is nourishing and liked by all children, while bananas are perhaps the most nourishing fruit that can be purchased. They should be ripe, however, and not have any green ends.

A good molasses gingerbread is made as follows:

One cupful of molasses, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter melted and mixed with the molasses, one cupful of boiling water, one heaping teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the water (let the water cool before adding to the molasses), three cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of ginger.

Make a rice pudding without eggs and add raisins to it and bake in old cups instead of a large pudding dish, and you will find that the school children will be delighted to take one in their lunch basket. Make a bread pudding with raisins and an egg to give it a semblance of custard and bake this in the cups. A nice cup custard can be made also, recipe for which is given herewith:

Beat up four eggs and one small cup of sugar and pour over one quart of warm milk, flavor with lemon and if nutmeg is liked grate a little on top. Fill cups and stand in a pan of boiling water and bake about fifteen minutes. Avoid the dried beef sandwich. If there is no cold meat in the house left over from last night's dinner, then try a few of the following recipes. Nuts are very nourishing and, combined with something else, are very appetizing. You must cater to the children just as you do to the elders, for their health is a matter of no small concern, and their nervous little bodies should be well fed, just as much as those of the tired parents.

New Ham Sandwiches.—Mince finely some cold boiled ham and add to it about half the quantity of finely chopped peanuts. For every cupful of ham add a tablespoonful of chopped pickles and if convenient a little chopped celery. Mix to a good paste with salad dressing and spread on thin slices of white bread.

Nut and Date Sandwiches.—Wash, pit and finely chop one pound of dates and add to them an equal amount of chopped nuts. Any kind that you have will answer. Wet with a little lemon juice or sour cherry juice and spread on bread.

Lemon Sandwiches.—Mash the yolks of three hard boiled eggs and add a tablespoonful of butter, a dash of salt and some cayenne pepper, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and the grated rind of one lemon. Mix these ingredients well and add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and spread upon thin slices of wheat or graham bread.

Nut and Cheese Sandwiches.—Mix together pot cheese and chopped hickory nuts, add to it a dash of paprika and spread on either white or brown bread.

How to Prepare a Mixture to Cure Rheumatism.

SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

This Town Has its Share of Dread Disease, which is Said to Yield to Simple Home Recipe.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Sarsaparilla, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sassafras, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription, states a well known authority as a Cleveland morning paper, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Get this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly. Our druggists here say they will either supply these ingredients or make the mixture ready to take, if any of our readers so prefer.

Onions chopped with nuts make a nice filling. Figs chopped up with nuts are delicious, while cold fish if highly seasoned and dressed with a little mayonnaise is appetizing.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

When there is a disagreeable odor on the hands inevitable from the handling of fish or onions, try washing them with mustard water.

The digestive machinery furnishes the blood making matter. Therefore do not let it get out of order by over-eating and overdrinking.

All backward bending movements of the body will strengthen the spine. A strong spine is a big help to a good carriage, without which one will fall in grace.

When feeling very tired hot water, both inwardly and outwardly, is a great restor. A cup of water as hot as you can take it is as good as a tonic and not half so injurious.

A simple face cream for emergency use when nothing else is handy can be made by mixing lemon juice and a little fresh butter into thick paste. The juice of strawberries or cucumbers in their season can also be used. Naturally it is much better to have a prepared cream, but if you can't this is not a bad substitute.

David Sweeley, Jr., has purchased from Prof. Isaac A. Harvey, the property in Beech Creek which was formerly Prof. Harvey's home. Mr. Sweeley and family propose to occupy their new home on April 1. The purchase price is given as $1,200.

Colds on the Chest

Ask your doctor the medical name for a cold on the chest. He will say, "Bronchitis." Ask him if it is ever serious. Lastly, ask him if he prescribes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this disease. Keep in close touch with your family physician.

When you tell your doctor about the bad taste in your mouth, loss of appetite for breakfast, and frequent headaches, and when he sees your coated tongue, he will say, "You are bilious." Ayer's Pills work well in such cases.
