EDITORIAL.

By THE unfaithfulness of four democrats in the Kentucky legislature, a republican U.S. Senator was elected, a few days ago.

MR. TAFT says it will take us about ten years to get ready for war. Then congress should pass an act that no foreign army be allowed to invade this county until the "ten years" are up.

EVERY EFFORT has been made, and no stone has been left unturned, to free the capitol looters. There is a desire among party men, winkers at-the great steal, that the monstrous theft shall go unpunished and great would be their rejoicing thereat. Many of the G. O. P. organs have been lukewarm in reference to this robbery, simply because the guilty ones are contributors to campaign funds to carry elections.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company does not allow its employes to swear. Last Thursday a new set of rules were posted in the shops in Wilmington, Del., declaring that profane language shall not be used by the men while at work. No specific penalty is set forth, but it is understood that violations will be punished by enforced vacation. The same of the No specific penalty is set forth, but it is rules are being posted throughout the Pennsylvania system.

Nearly Killed By a Catamount.

The extreme cold and deep snows have caused the more ferocious of the wild animals in Huntingdon county to become exceedingly dangerous. Bears, wildcats and catamounts, driven down from the mountains, are devastating the farmers' stock and in several instances have attacked pedestrians on the public roads. Thursday night Sergent Russel K. Henry, a veteran of the civil war who resides about five miles from Huntingdon, left Huntingdon for his home nis route being along the base of Terrace mountain. Within a mile of his destination he was savagely attacked by a wild catamount, which sprang upon him from an overhanging rock after dogging his footsteps for more than a mile. Henry, who is 65 years old, was borne to the ground by the shock and rendered insensible. A fox hound which accom-panied him gave battle to the catamount until Henry recovered, when he succeeded in drawing his pocket knife. A furious battle between the man and dog and starving beast followed. The dog was killed and Henry received serious
