HOWARD.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Confer, on Main street, was the scene, Wednesday night of last week, of a merry gathering, it being the occasion of a surprise party given in honor of the 18th birthday of their daughter, Miss Florence V. Miss Confer had been invited to the home of her elder sister, Mrs. David Welsh, early in the evening, and her surprise was genuine when, upon her return home, she found twenty of her friends waiting to tender their congratulations and to wish her many happy returns of the occasion. Refreshments were served at 10.30 and just as the hands of the clock were together and pointing directly northward, the guests took their departure. Miss Elfreida Baker Confer was the instigator of the surprise upon her elder sister.

Those present were Misses Minnie Heverly, Josephine Mullry, Lauretta Weber, Edith Binner, Mabel Lock, Nellie Confer, Mabel Confer, Annie Confer, Edith Weber, Blanch Swartz, Laura Williams, Nellie Hopkins, Maud Thomas, Cameron Strunk, Charles DeHass, Clair Leathers, Harry DeArment, Philip Hurd, Ward Confer, and Mr. and Mrs. David Welsh.

John Wensel, 70 years of age, an esteemed citizen of Romola, died Friday evening at 7 o'clock of cancer of the stomach. Mr. Wensel had been a patient sufferer for a long time and death came to him as an angel of mercy. He leaves a wife, two brothers and two sisters.

A. A. Fletcher, our congenial fellow townsman who has announced himself as a candidate for Register and Clerk of the Orphans Court, on the Democratic ticket, is to be congratulated upon the vigorous manner in which his many friends here, both Democrat and Republican, are getting in line to give him strenuous support.

Vinton Schenck, of Tyrone, is spending a week's vacation with his father and mother, Squire and Mrs. Hayes Schenck. Miss Gretta Mingle, of Birmingham, is also spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Schenck.

Joseph D. Diehl, our bustling produce man, last week closed a contract with a large New York Produce and Commission concern, to furnish them with 125,000 dozen of eggs during the next two months. Joe says that this contract will cause him to be going some for a while, but he will produce the goods within the time limit if the Clinton, Centre and Blair county hens do not go on a strike.

The many friends of Prof. T. A. Lucas, who has been at the home of his sister here, Mrs. W. E. Confer, recuperating from a threatened attack of appendicitis, are glad to learn that he has almost completely recovered, and is now busily engaged in perfecting himself in a course in higher Spanish and several other branches, preparatory to his taking a difficult Civil Service examination next fall. Prof. Lucas, after having taught for five terms in the public schools of Centre county, and subsequently learning shorthand and type writing, went to Chicago in 1888 where, for three years, he was Principal of the Chicago Haven College of shorthand and typewriting, and for three years an amanuensis and court stenographer in that city. In 1894 he established a shorthand and typewriting school in Massachusetts which he conducted until recently. Prof. Lucas' friends, recognizing his equipment and ability as an instructor, are urging him to teach shorthand and typewriting somewhere in Centre county during the summer, but at this writing he is undecided.

UNIONVILLE.

After two weeks of serious illness, Miss Alice Henshy is able to be up and around the house again, and hopes to be able soon to resume her duties as a music teacher.

Mrs. Lily Hoover and her two pretty little bairns are visiting at the home of grandpa Wm. A. Peters, who has been confined to the house for several weeks with a severe dose of inflamatory rheumatism.

A baker's dozen of the sweetest little girls in town took it into their pates to surprise Margaret Brugger, on last Friday evening, that being the 13th anniversary of her birthday—and they did it with great success.

Contrary to an ordinance passed by the borough council, to the effect that no fires should occur while Domino was out of town, on last Wednesday a large double house on Plank street, known as the Alexander property, now owned by Wm. Tressler, was completely destroyed by fire. It was occupied by Wm. Eckbroth and Joseph Gill, both of whom succeeded in getting most of their household effects saved. Fortunately there was almost a dead calm, otherwise there would have been three or four more buildings burned. As it was, it required almost superhuman effort to save Ed. Williams' fine residence, only about 10 ft. from the burning house. The bucket brigade worked with a will never before equalled, and much of the credit due to saving Ed. Williams' house is due to Sam Holt who stood on the gable of the house and kept pouring the water down the end as fast as it was carried to him, with his face almost burned to a blister. Mont Musser and others, however, deserve equal credit for saving his mother's and Mrs. Bringo's residences. In short, everybody worked like heroes to save the surrounding buildings. Mrs. Bing desires especially to thank the people for saving her property. I understand there was $1000 insurance on the home.

One evening last week a beautiful display of aurora borealis was on tap in the Northern sky.

On last Thursday morning Mrs. Albina Peters Moran, after two years lingering with consumption, passed into that rest which remaineth for the people of God. For a more detailed notice look in obituary column.

The first time I ever was in Bellefonte, 61 years ago, I lodged in the brick house now occupied by S. A. McQuistian, corner of High and Thomas streets. Will tell all about it next week.
