

CURE FOR RED EYELIDS.

Hot Water and Antiseptic Cleansing Fluids Do the Work.

Only the simplest kind of treatment is necessary to reduce swollen or inflamed eyelids.

Many times inflammation comes from eye strain, and in such cases an oculist should be consulted.

When granulation is present make a paste to relieve the lids by rubbing a bit of alum into the raw white of an egg until the latter forms a curd.

While vaseline is most beneficial if applied to the edges of the lids every night, it is a balm rather than a medicine.

Rinsing the eyes with a 5 per cent boric acid solution is helpful. This should be done night and morning.

After this bath healing remedies should be put on. Oculists differ greatly as to the efficacy of cold or hot fomentations when there is inflammation.

Should styes recur frequently the services of an oculist should be sought.

A Sickly Lot.

"I see by the paper," observed a young woman to a companion on an elevated train in New York one morning, "that Mr. Blank, the octogenarian is dead."

"I don't know, I'm sure," was the reply, "but there's one thing certain, there's a sickly lot of people. You never hear of one unless he is dying," Lippincott's.

Easy Enough. A noted mathematician stopped at a hotel in a small town.

The Insult Direct.

An English country squire gave his tenants a supper and dance. After the feed he noticed that a certain farmer's wife was disconsolate.

We Wanted to Know.

Edward had just returned from foreign service, and his brow was troubled.

"I gave you that parrot as a birthday present, did I not, Amelia?" he asked.

"Yes, but surely, Teddy, you are not going to speak of your tokens as if—"

"It was young and speechless at the time,"

"Yes," with increasing wonder, "and it has never been out of this parlor."

"There are no other young ladies in this house?"

"No, there are not."

"Then why—why when I kissed your photograph in yonder album while waiting for you did that wretched bird imitate your voice and say, 'Don't do that, Herbert; please don't.'"

"Ladies' Home Journal."

The Meek Curate. "When Dr. Creighton was bishop of London," says the present bishop of London, "he rode on a train one day with a small, meek curate."

"The meek curate bowed and answered humbly, 'Not if your lordship doesn't mind my being sick.'"

Too Poor to Lose. Several years ago a southern Kansas politician who had an excellent reputation for not paying his debts found himself a defendant in a lawsuit.

"I am too poor to lose."

"Great Scott, Archie! That isn't enough. Why, you earned $1,000, and you must make out your bill for that amount."

"No, I won't do it," replied Williams. "I am too poor to lose."

Sixpence Too Much. An Irishman who had jumped into the water to save a man from drowning on receiving a sixpence from the rescued man looked first at the sixpence and then at the man, saying, "Be jabbers, I am overpaid for that job."

Sisters in Moderation. Tommy is a lonely little boy who has no brothers or sisters.

There are two kinds of silent men—those who have nothing to say and those who, having much to say, say it not; ergo—if you would appear dangerous, be dumb.

Men show their greatest weaknesses in their letters; ergo—have your correspondence edited by a secretary.

When a man speaks of you behind your back as a fool, it means that you have disagreed with him on some point at issue; ergo—if you want his good opinion agree with him, but stick to your own.

When you give a man advice, let it be an encouragement of his own inclination; ergo—when your advice is sought first find out what the seeker wants to do, then agree with him; if he succeeds, you get no credit; if he fails, he must bear at least a part of the blame.

the letter said to him:

"The thing consisted of but one short page, and yet there were eleven words spelled wrong."

"Then the criminal," said the detective promptly, "was either a typewriter or a sign painter. Is there a business directory handy?"

His Last Request. Pat was in the habit of going home drunk and beating his wife.

"Pat," said the priest, "if you ever get drunk again I'll turn you into a rat. If I don't see you, I'll know about it just the same, and into a rat you go. Now, you mind that."

The next evening Pat came home worse drunk than ever, kicked in the door, and his wife dodged behind the table to defend herself.

"Don't be afraid, darlint," says Pat as he steadied himself before dropping into a chair. "I'm not going to bate ye. I won't lay the weight of me finger on ye. I want ye to be kind to me tonight, darlint, and to remember the days when we was sweethearts and when ye loved me. You know his rivername said if I got drunk again he'd turn me into a rat. He didn't see me, but he knows I'm drunk, and this night into a rat I go. But I want ye to be kind to me, darlint, and watch me, and when ye see me gettin' little and the hair growin' out on me and me whiskers gettin' long, if ye ever loved me, darlint, for God's sake keep yer eye on the cat."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Ergotisms. Father, son, grandson, your broker begs you to buy or sell this or that stock; ergo—he makes his eight and quarters whether you win or lose.

Without trying to make enemies you are universally hated; ergo—you must have some merit.

You have a very devoted friend in Blank; ergo—you have borrowed nothing of each other and asked each other no favors.

A man isolated may be an ardent knave, but in the crown he appears honorable; ergo—if you don't want your sins to be found out keep in the procession.

Men deliberately do things they are ashamed of and then are ashamed to mention them; ergo—never do what you want to do, but the opposite.—New York Press.

Where They Differed. A lawyer and a physician were engaged in an argument over the relative merits of their respective professions.

"I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that your profession doesn't make angels of men."

"No," retorted the lawyer; "you doctors certainly have the best of us there."—Everybody's.

The knights of old carried swords, but that doesn't necessarily mean that they were sordid.

Faith will move mountains, but it requires work to tunnel them.

What Do They Cure? The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator of the system especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and quoting a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchial tubes (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or incurable stages of these affections it is often successful in affecting cures.

"The Favorite Prescription" is advised for the female sex, especially those who are afflicted with irregularities incident to womanhood. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve.

For weak women, over-worked women, no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formula of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed upon these several ingredients entering into "Doctor Pierce's medicines" by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because both men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-narcotic, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of the extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't go to accept a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.
