There are said to be fourteen eligible widows, "each watching out of the corner of her eye" for an equally eligible widower. Success for all.

According to the Berks county calendar, last Friday, being the last of the month, forecast the weather for August, which means a hot and dry August. Don't elevate your proboscis at this. There was a Bellefonte "auto" party in town, Saturday evening on a whizzing Franklin and they filled the porch at Nevin Moyer's. Now, Clark, you must get one of that kind.

Uncle Elias Stover, one of the veterans who fought through the war, and wears his years and laurels well, can tell more about old times in Brushvalley than any other patriarch, unless it be George Weaver, who is past 85.

These starry evenings the placid bosom of the air is titilated by rival phonographs. While the west end is enter-tained by Willis Frank Bierly's Edisonian strains, clearly reproducing the contralto of Ada Jones, the cornet of Hazel and other records, Jeweler Bartges with his Edison and merchant Carlin with his arcton's delight the Centre with moving melodies. Then once in a while, Frank Rover the Texan troubadour, comes over through the gap and plays Bill To-bias' favorite "Now Job, stop your tick-

Saturday evenings all the rosy girls and dapper boys of the farms spruce up and come to town. So do the "old folks" who gather around the stores and tell spook stories and talk crops. On Sunday morning everybody knows what everyone else has said or done "and a control of the festival at Lamar, on Saturday." little bit more".

If Emil Joseph, the merchant prince, of Bellefonte, who used to drive along the mountain from Rebersburg to Wrs. The teaching force next term will be: High school, Prof. C. L. Gramly; Inter-mediate, Thomas Auman; Primary Nevin Moyer. They have proved their efficiency to the satisfaction of all.

Our water supply is from the forrest mountain springs in Kreamer's Gap car-ried to our doors by gravity. The reservoir is above the residences of Mr. Styers, and Mrs. Grenninger, The former was once the home of Mrs. Hannah Frank. Across the way lives Mr. Hackenberg on the John Frank farm. There are still many who remember how Lina Frank heralded the early dinner hour to weary and hungry harvesters, with a long and loud "Johnny come home-come essa," from her big tin din-

The latest in Rebersburg is a Cement Pavers Union. It is composed of prominent pillars of the Reformed church. The Union is working on probation and gets no pay as yet. They have just completed their first job and chief organizer and artism Reuben D. Bierly. It con-sists of a substantial artificial stone walk on two sides of the church and across Main street. The officers are Chief wheelman, Rev. Wetzel; Chief water carrier, Jerome Meyer; Inside Guard, Jasper Brungart; Outside guard, Sidney Krumrine; Chief mixer, Noah Corman; Chief stone crusher, Harvey Miller; Chief cementer, James Corman. It is a success. The cost of the fine walk, will be about $50.

Charlie Bierly the farmer, a veteran of the civil war, fell heir to the old Bierly family bible—brought from Germany, by Nicholas Bierly, his great-great grand-father. Some of the family re-cords still remain. It is one of the original Martin Luther translations from the Latin and contain all the apocryphal books of the old testiment. It was brought from Germany about 1750, by Nicholas Bierly, and descended to his son, Anthony, then to his son Anthony (2), then to his son, Melchoir, and lastly to his son, Charles. It is prized highly as an heir loom.
