G. M. Nerhood, of Spruce Creek, has just returned to camp after seeing his best girl.

G. M. Nerhood, of Spruce Creek, and G. S. Garth, of Mill Hill, have now got their saw and spoke mill completed at Fowler. It will be ready to start on December 1. As they are going to manufacture automobile spokes, they have 250 acres of hickory on the Allegheny mountains. There are quite a few men working at the mill. They have a large camp built and a man cook—the women are too scarce—and the men who are staying at the camp are getting so fat they had to cut the door larger three times. The cook is Sanford Wolf, of Mill Hill, and the fat ones are John Ford and Robert Garth, of the same place, and George is getting there, too. They can hardly sleep in the camp on account of John Ford snoring, and have to stuff his mouth full to keep him from it, so that the rest can sleep. One morning he awoke and found three pillows in his mouth. He blamed Robert Garth for doing it but he was mistaken, as it was the cook.

Nora and Eva Geyer spent Sunday in Tyrone, with their aunt, Mrs. William Gingery.

On the sick list are, Mrs. M. C. Walk, with pneumonia; Mrs. Thomas Newman, with a heavy cold, and John T. Fowler.

BENNER TWP.

ROCK.

While Ira Benner was engaged in sawing wood for Mr. Saxion at Rebersburg, on Thursday the 19, his wife, with her wonderful energy and skill and by the help of Henry Walter, succeeded in gathering together the beautiful viands for the repast, and as Mr. Benner came home in the evening was greatly surprised to enter the house and see it prettily decorated with ferns and flowers and to meet the friendship of one hundred and five persons awaiting him. Of course it didn't take all these persons to raise him, but he got there just the same. At 10 o'clock a supper was served which was artistically arranged and was heartily enjoyed by all and as Mr. and Mrs. Benner are both very social and entertaining the evening was spent joyfully. Music was rendered by William Hoy's quartette.

MT. EAGLE.

The entertainment given by the girls of the K. I. G. club, was a grand success. The house was too small to accommodate the crowd. Florence Leathers made the opening address which was followed by a song, composed by the girls of the club. A recitation on "Modern Education," by Pearl Gates; Play—Young Dr. Devine; recitation or monologue—Anna Dietz; Dialogue, Murder will Out, Song—by Florence Leathers; Dialogue—The way they kept the secret; a coon song—Mayme Smoyer; Recitation—by Florence Leathers; Recitation—Ethel Butler; Dialogue—The wrong baby; Good night song. The proceeds will be used in purchasing a slate board for the school.
