HOWARD.

Coquetish April, with all her uncertain moves, full stocked with tears, smiles and sunshine, is with us, evidently determined to be as attractive as possible, and everyone is willing to be attracted. Gardeners are digging and planting; farmers are plowing and sowing, fruit growers are trimming and spraying, and all the world's active with the animation that comes with the more than usually delightful weather, and consequent good roads. Praise be.

H. T. Lucas, property, near the station, is greatly improved by the brick sidewalk put down in front of it last week, and the additional one which runs back through the lawn. W. M. Lucas was the architect of the job, and it is well done.

The west end of the township is enjoying so much prosperity as comes from the starting up of the woolen factory at Mt. Eagle. Mr. Earl M. Leathers, its manager, is bringing good quality of wool by rail.

Among the home visitors in the last days of the week were Nellie Hopkins and Lulu Schenck, from the Normal at Lock Haven.

Our High school will begin its commencement exercises at next Sabbath April 11, when Rev. W. H. Patterson, of Eagleville, will preach the baccalaureate sermon in the M. E. church. The commencement exercises proper, will be held in the same church in the evening of the following Friday, April 16, when the baccalaureate address will be delivered by Dr. Edwin Earl Sparks, President of the Pennsylvania State College.

Mrs. Dr. Ricker, of Baltimore, is a guest of her old-time friend, Mrs. Reuben Lucas. They were chums in Williamsport in days ago.

It seems good to see A. A. Pletcher driving about again, even though he muffled up in toques and furs, and his attentive son-in-law—Noll is his driver.

A big car load of beautiful granite recently arrived at J. Will Mayer's monument works is being rapidly worked up and shipped away.

Mrs. Frank B. Wetzel, of Milesburg, came down on Sabbath last to take dinner with her friend, Miss Grace Schenck.

Miss Annie Yarnell, one of our attentive young telephone girls, is on her way to recovery from an attack of pneumonia which had laid her dangerously low.

The good weather and good roads of Sabbath last tempted some of the Bellefonte auto riders down in our direction. Among others Frank Naginay was noted spinning down and back again with Dr. Piatts, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon at Blanchard in the afternoon, and M. I. Gardner came to spend an hour or two with his father, and his sister, Mrs. R. C. Leathers.

Wednesday of last week, being the first day of April and therefore "moving day," will go on record as an ideal moving day, with perfect weather and the finest of roads, making the task of moving much less a hardship than it is when the conditions are such as they too often are—rain and snow, wind and mud. In addition to the long list of names previously given, and the following: Frank Brown moves into a new house not yet quite completed, and George Hechdel takes the house Brown leaves; Alvin Confer comes from Jacksonville, to the house which D. E. Holter vacated, and Foster Gardner goes back to the township, on one of Ex-sheriff Robert Cook's farms.

Mrs. Viola Hastings, of State College, spent the Sabbath with friends here.

Mrs. W. P. Lucas was a Bellefonte visitor, last Monday.

George Quay is suffering from pneumonia, and has been seriously ill. Glad to say that he is somewhat improved and his friends are hopeful.

Mrs. Clara Kline Hicks, spent a few days of last week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kline.

Raymond Brown, who had his left foot badly crushed under a car wheel in the clay quarry last week is about on one foot and two crutches and will soon be sound as ever.

His friends here are glad to note the return of Rev. Rollin S. Taylor of the M. E. church to the Howard charge. While at conference Mr. Taylor was appointed a member of a committee of four (Mr. Taylor representing the Altoona district) to represent the Central Pennsylvania conference in the Floral Council which has its headquarters in New York. This council embraces all denominations and creeds in the advancement of Bible work, and it is a compliment to Mr. Taylor and to his charge, that he should have been called to a place upon it.

Miss Bessie Pletcher left on Monday morning for a short stay in Lock Haven.

Our base ball fans are holding their heads very high because Edwin Pear Thomas was our representative on the Pennsylvania State College team, which so soundly walloped the Naval Academy at Annapolis, on Thursday last.

Malcolm Hanna, formerly of Howard, but now a prosperous machinist of Northumberland, and Pauline Fisher, of Northumberland, were married at Warren, Ohio, Wednesday, March 31, and are spending their honeymoon among friends. Their home will be at Northumberland.

Council met in regular session last evening, with all the members present, and transacted only the usual routine business. A new crossing at south Walnut street and some minor street repairs were directed. Bills to the amount of $42.55 were ordered paid, and the bonds of Treasurer Mayes, and water-tax collector Pletcher were accepted.

W. F. Malilien was in town Monday and Tuesday, looking up telephone business.

Mrs. James Leitch, of the township, was a business visitor in Bellefonte, on Tuesday.

The seven schools of the township closed their terms Tuesday, Wednesday and to-day Thursday.

W. J. Clark and wife, of Mill Hill, spent the week's end with Mrs. Clark's brother and sister, Miss Butler and Frank Butler.

Rev. and Mrs. Orin J. Hicks, of Cortland County, and Prof. and Mrs. G. O. Robbins, of Altoona, were this week's home visitors with the parents of the co-eds, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kline.

Eggs give name to the social which will be held and will constitute the basis of a good supper which will be served, at the house of Ward Daughenbaugh, in the west end of the township, next Saturday evening, for the benefit of the M. E. church at Kennedy.

One of the finest heavy teams we have seen lately, passed through our town last Wednesday. They belong to the Altoona Concrete and Construction Co., and were on their way to Lock Haven, with a heavy dump wagon, to help in grading the grounds of the hospital there, which that company is building. The weight of the team, in harness, is just even 3700 pounds.

The commencement of the Boggs twp. High school is of local interest here, because one of our boys, Jesse Leathers, who received his education at Dickinson Seminary in Williamsport, is now closing his third successive term as it's teacher. It will occur in the evening of Friday, April 15, and a full programme has been prepared for it. On Wednesday evening of last week, March 31, Mr. Leathers brought his class in carriages down to his home in this place, where his mother, Mrs. W. T. Leathers, and his sister Miss Lucy, had prepared for them one of the sumptuous feasts for which these estimable ladies are far-famed.

Mrs. Thomas Bowes, Mrs. Peter Robb, Jr., and Reuben Lucas, wrote business visitors at Lock Haven last Thursday, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Williams spent the same day in Bellefonte.

Miss Bessie Pletcher took Monday morning's train for a short stay in Lock Haven.

Samuel S. Saddler, of Johnstown, stopped over a day last week with his friend Baiser Weber. Mr. Saddler will graduate from State College in June, having taken a course in Agriculture and specialized in Forestry. He has already been elected to an important position in the forestry department of the Pennsylvania railroad organization, and is now supervising some of the imperative Spring work, but will have leave of absence to take his degree in June.

Mrs. Casselberry, of the twp, returned on the Sabbath morning train, from a visit with friends in Bellefonte.

When A. A. Pletcher's health became impaired last fall, the Marion twp. directors, at his suggestion, selected Miss Jennie A. Kane, a graduate of our High school, under Prof. Weirick, to take his place as teacher of the Jacksonville school. This was Miss Kane's first attempt at teaching and it is a pleasure to know that, notwithstanding her lack of both years and experience, she has succeeded in winning praise and encouragement from pupils, patrons and directors.

Mrs. Wilbur F. Hall and Mrs. J. N. Hall spent Friday and Saturday with friends in Mill Hill.

Mrs. S. H. Bennison was compelled to venture away from her sick husband's bedside for a brief business trip to Lock Haven, between the Friday morning and Monday trains, but resumed her faithful watch after but a two or three hours absence. Her daughter, Mrs. Weirick, Mill Hill, and her sister, Mrs. Dr. Tibbens, of Beech Creek, were her competent substitutes.

Mrs. Tanner, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Hugh Boyle, of Hazelton, spent last Thursday with their relatives, George D. Johnson and family.

The social and banquet held by the Lick Run Lodge, No. 311, I. O. O. F., with their wives, sisters, sweethearts and other invited guests, was a pleasing and altogether successful occasion, and enjoyed by everyone of the over a hundred and forty-two persons present. Some of the guests were heard to wish that this function might occur more frequently than once a year. Noble Grand Joseph Weirick presided over the quasi formalities of the early evening, with much dignity, calling first upon Rev. W. W. Rhoades to open with prayer, and this was followed by a pleasing informal programme of speakers, music and short talks, for an hour or so. When Caterer Charles Lucas made his speech of the evening on the single word "supper" which he proceeded to serve in good form and excellent variety; the set speech of the occasion was made by Rev. Rollin S. Taylor, Wilbur F. Leathers, Prof. T. M. Pletcher, of Blanchard Lodge, Rev. W. W. Rhoades and Frederick Bartley, of this township, also responded to the call of the chairman.

Mr. Bartley was the oldest man in the house, nearly 83, and also the oldest member of the lodge, having joined it in 1847, when he was but twenty-one years old, and when the lodge was still under its first charter and known as Nittany Lodge, No. 311. Mr. Bartley told of the passing of the first lodge and of its resuscitation under the new name, he being the only charter member now living. In response to calls and entreaties Miss Stover gave several of her entertaining and well delivered readings, James Kane and Miss Rhoades responded to a request by a laughable duet. A gentlemen's quartette, Prof. Weirick, James Kane, Wilbur F. Leathers and Samuel Kling; and a ladies' quartette, Misses Maud Thomas, Emma Weber, Jennie Kane and Ida Rhoades; a violin solo by Miss Rhoades with organ accompaniment by Miss Thomas; a vocal solo by Miss Thomas, and another violin solo by Rev. Rhoades, with Miss Rhoades at the organ, with some jolly choros singing by all the young ladies present, made up a musical programme which added a fine touch of finish to the whole evening. The presence of several brethren from the Blanchard lodge, added much appreciated dignity and enjoyment of the evening.

The call to work of the brick works whistle was a welcome sound on Tuesday.

Mrs. Callaway, of Bellefonte, was a between-train caller Tuesday afternoon.

RUNVILLE.

Mrs. Lindmuth spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Spicer.

Mrs. Mary Eckley spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Eva Lucas here.

Mrs. A. A. Bedient and children, of Oak Hill, are the guests of Edward Poorman.

Tacy Lucas, Esther Hamilton and friend, Roy Rodgers, attended meeting at Pleasant valley Sunday eve.

Eva Witherite has secured a position as clerk in Mr. Garbrick's store at Valley View.

Bert English is the guest of George Lucas.

Mrs. Ellen Friel was a Bellefonte visitor on Monday. Myrtle Markley has gone to Elk county where she expects to spend the summer.

Roy Petzer is seen on our streets quite often. There must be an attraction.

Wm. Watson and wife visited in Snow Shoe on Saturday.

Asbury Pletcher spent Saturday at his home in Howard.

REBERSBURG.

The "Thou-shalt-not-steal" injunction, is not taken very seriously, at Harrisburg.

Celia Brungard, who is attending school at Lock Haven, spent a few days with her parents in East Rebersburg.

Bessie Dessimal of Smethport, who is attending school at Lock Haven, was entertained a few days at the home of Thomas Brungard.

Mrs. Phoebe Brungard, one of our octogenarians, received a scratch on her hand last week and it was feared blood poison had set in. We are glad to state she is again able to be out.

Miss Ethel Harter left Saturday, for an extended visit at Selins Grove.

Mrs. Geo. Zeigler, of West Virginia, is visiting at the home of John Zeigler West end.

Clarence Weber is confined to his home with the grippe.

Clark Gramley, who recently went to Harrisburg, to look after automobile inducements, announces from that place, that he will have a carload of automobiles in Rebersburg this week.

Miss Nora Smith, of Lamar, spent last Thursday at the home of Emma Bair.

Mrs. Bullock and little child of Julian, were visiting at the home of Thomas Faxton.

Miss Anna Mitterling, an accomplished young lady of Centre Hall, spent several days at the hospitable home of Samuel Shaffer.

Mrs. W. Bair left last Thursday morning on a visit to Centre Hall friends.

Henry Kreider and wife, of Baltimore, came here to attend the funeral of his mother Isabella Kreider.

Cleveland Brungard, of Tusseyville, was visiting under the parental roof.

The Wetzel sisters, of Bellefonte, spent several days at the home of Grace and Veda Wetzel at this place.

Paul Beck a student of the Central State Normal School, at Lock Haven, was visiting at Harbaugh's last week.

Ed. Brungard, wife and child after spending several weeks in Rebersburg, returned to their home at Selins Grove, Saturday.

Our stone mason, H. S. Smull has the contract for putting up the wall of the A. A. Frank building, at Millheim. Herb is an indefatigable worker and never does things by halves.

The concert given by the Susquehanna University Glee Club, in the Lutheran church Thursday evening, was well attended. The program was well rendered, the dramatic reading by Prof. Nathan N. Keener was superb.

Rev. Henry Kreider, of Baltimore, assisted Rev. Wetzel in communion services in the Reformed church Sunday morning. His theme was "Service," and his sermon all through edifying.

The class of 1909, of the Miles Twp. High School held their graduating exercises on Friday evening in the Lutheran church. The program follows: Invocation, Rev. F. Wetzel. Orations as follows: "True Nobility," Miriam Auman, "Consolidation of Rural Schools," C. R. Weber, "The spirit in which we work," Tacie H. Brungard, "Education as related to civic prosperity," Alpha Smull, "The value of speaking correctly," Ruth Stover, "Success in life," H. G. Hubler, "Responsibility develops power," Fairy Stover, "The voices of nature," Vida Wetzel, "Manual training and intellectual development," H. B. Weaver, "An overmastering purpose," Lodie Wolf, "The discipline of life and character," H. R. Brungard, Hon. W. C. Heinele, of Bellefonte, in his address to the class, teachers, directors and citizens, acquitted himself nobly and held that large audience spellbound for one half hour. Himself the product of this school, he could speak out of experience, of the achievements of the school for the last 30 years, and he did it in a laudable manner. After the close of the commencement exercises the Juniors had a surprise reception and banquet for the Seniors. Prof. Gramley and Hon. W. C. Heinele were also invited guests at the banquet at Dr. J. W. Bright's, whose influence and prominence is felt in all things pertaining to the welfare of the community. The exercises were in charge of the Principal ex-Co. Supt. C. L. Gramley, the school directors and teachers. Prof. Gramley and ex-teachers with the directors are determined to keep the schools of Rebersburg ahead if co-operation counts for anything. Upwards of 30 years ago Rebersburg was the pedagogic Athens of Central Pa., during a number of years it was a famous educational "mecca" for teachers, and our school was attended by more boys who afterward became prominent and distinguished than any other village in the county. To give you a list of these men and their vocations the last 30 years would make this article too lengthy. What we all would enjoy would be a reunion of the boys and girls from 30 years down to the present time. What a great array of prominent men, teachers, lawyers, doctors, ministers etc., there would be in Rebersburg, and have us all play school again, with the old master in charge. I hear the school bell, in memory assembling us to the old brown school house, the master tapped the call bell, we all arose, he rang it again, we bowed our heads, he rang it a third time and the words, "Our Father" fell from his lips, in solemn cadence the same fell also from the lips of the scholars, then roll call. If the old roll should be called how many would respond? This would be the time for memory and tears—with all this solemnity, I should like the town to seem with old boys, middle aged boys, tall boys, young boys, thin boys, stout boys, short boys, grumpy boys, jolly boys, boys who have grown rich almost beyond the dream of avarice, poor boys who practiced the precept, "Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof," but all boys once again of the Rebersburg school. Bankers, lawyers, doctors, coal barons, ministers all shaking hands with a firm grip with the laboring man because he played around the old school house together, got thrashed together, played "hooky" together and blackened one another's eyes, just as boys have done from time immemorial. We don't wish to be ungracious as to utterly forget the old girls. We would like to see them too, sure, it would not be complete without them, but if they are as vivacious and voluble as they were of yore there would be no monologues as they all used to talk at once. And now, to wit, Anno Domini 1909, the Rebersburg school survives and continues to be it. While our school building is not as palatial as some in the county, we are quite contented in our comfortable quarters and, I wish to make this emphatic, still more content to yield supremacy to none in the matter of efficiency in the lower end of the county. What we greatly need is a library, and while Mr. Carnegie is perhaps inclined to think it easier to donate libraries than to "go through a needle," we would not be a grateful blessing if someone could persuade him to bestow it now?

PINE GLENN.

The festival at Cook's camp on last Friday evening was well attended; all reported a good time. Esther Smith, who has been visiting her parents, has returned to her work at Selinsgrove.

Carrie Smith, of Grampian, is visiting her parents here and expect to leave soon.

On the sick list are Mrs. Samuel Hoover, Mrs. Edward Lewis, Helen Watson and Mrs. Vallimont.

T. A. Hosterman intends to begin a term of school in the primary school room on Monday for intermediate and primary grades.

At the home of the bride, last Thursday evening, Merlin Shively and Mary Spiglemyer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Spiglemyer, were united in marriage by Rev. C. F. Garrett.

L. L. Weaver and family, of Pine Creek, spent a day with A. B. Meyer's.

On Monday afternoon Charles Hinds, of Fiedler, and Merlin Shively started for Illinois in which state they have secured employment for this summer.

Wm. Shively, of Union county, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. G. Hartline.

Nancy Barges visited friends in Sugar valley for some time.

Last Thursday night Mrs. T. W. Hosterman became suddenly ill but is now able to be up again.

Minnie Grimes is making her home this summer with W. F. Musser's and Ada Corman.

Last week Ben Edmunds bought and moved into the Sander's home at Greenbrier.

TYLERSVILLE.

A number of people attended the funeral of Mrs. Crider at Rebersburg, last Friday, also the funeral of Mrs. Newton Barges, of Boonville last Saturday.

William C. Caris moved from his father's farm to the Rote home at Nittany.

Howard Caris bought a horse and intends to huckster.

Last week a baby came to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nichols and wants to remain with them.

—This much is certain, you'll never be sorry that you selected Fitzey shoes. Only at Yeagers.
