

FRANCIS SPEER'S

Breezy "That" Column

THAT if dead men could tell tales it would be all day with a certain chap in Bellefonte.

THAT the fellow in Bellefonte who goes on the hunt for trouble never comes back empty-handed.

THAT about the only solution to the servant girl problem is to engage men—they are used to be bossed.

THAT the tariff on stockings will have to be cut or the young ladies in Bellefonte will have to wear socks.

THAT James H. Potter, of Bellefonte, says that every man ought to say his prayers before going to bed, especially if it's a folding bed.

THAT they say up at Ott's bakery, Bellefonte, that the whole of a doughnut is gone when you have eaten all but the hole. That's the whole of it.

THAT they say a camel can't go eight days without water, that's nothing. Bellefonte has "popoos" who can go a month without water, and then some.

THAT A. C. Smith, the Bellefonte merchant tailor, would never have gotten married in the world if he had not been able to have pressed his own suit.

THAT the man in Bellefonte who comes home straight from the store is sure to come home straight. That's what some of their wives would like to see once in a while.

THAT coming in contact with the people of Bellefonte as Charles Moerschbacher, the restaurateur, does, he will tell you that all the noodles are not in the soup.

THAT George Graham, the tonsorial artist at State College, says there are 12,000 hairs on a man's head. That's so, George, providing he is on good terms with his wife.

THAT even if Steele Hunter, the carpenter, has lived most of his life way up on one of the steepest hills in Bellefonte he was always been honest enough to build a house on the level.

THAT it is said that Bellefonte has in it a lady who is trying to prove that whiskey is not a good remedy for snake bite. However, she has tradition against her, and tradition is mighty strong with the fellow who goes hunting and fishing.

THAT they say a very bright and intelligent young lady in Bellefonte walked into Milton Kern's barber shop the other day and stated her hair was falling out and asked the obliging tonsorial artist what she could do to keep it in. He handed her a cigar box.

THAT the fishing parties in Bellefonte, are beginning to talk about spending several weeks along the trout streams. Those Fishing Creek high balls seem to be very attractive to the boys, and no doubt this silver stream will be lined with them again this summer.

THAT Bellefonte and Spring township ought to jointly employ a policeman whose duty it would be to keep a close touch on the boardwalk, between Bush's Addition and Bellefonte. They say that this is about the time of the year when some very funny things can be seen out there at night.

THAT there is a certain young boozie artist in Bellefonte who is lying around worse than a dog, depending entirely upon a couple of women to feed him. He's the limit, and should be given to understand he would either have to work or starve. There is nothing so disgusting as to see a big hearty, lazy loafer, who has lost all respect for himself and family.

THAT the other night two pretty prominent young men in Bellefonte were seen at a late hour, out on Wilson street, hiding behind the large barn, erected a few years ago by Mart Gorman. They had with them two kitchen maids who do not bear the very best reputation. Both the girls covered up their faces by pulling their hats down over them to prevent a passerby from recognizing them.

THAT the other day Harrison Kline and Pete Sailor, of Bellefonte, started to count the railroad ties between Bellefonte and Jersey Shore, and before they returned they slept in a barn and had a dickens of a time trying to keep the neighbor's dogs from taking a piece out of their trousers. When a short distance on the other side of Lock Haven they decided they had about enough of the "Hobo" life, so they turned their faces homeward, and by the time they reached home they were foot-sore and tired. They were mighty glad to once more put their feet under the "old man's" table, and warm their chins at his fire.

THAT Maurie Jackson and Elliott Mayes, of Bellefonte, are two pretty cute chaps, and they have demonstrated that they can do what most young ladies in Bellefonte can't do, and that is keep a secret. From recent reports Mrs. J. A. Aikens and her daughter, Emma, thought they heard burglars in their home the other night. Maurie and Elliott room in the house and of course, the ladies called on the two valiant young gentlemen to protect them from any midnight intruders. Mrs. Aikens went first to Maurie's door but as it requires dynamite or an earthquake to waken him she finally gave up the task and went to Maurie's room door. There was a quick response, and after he was informed that there were burglars in the house he began to prepare for the onslaught by getting his guns in shape. He next aroused Mayes who also began to prepare for a bloody warfare. Down the stairs went the daintiest two, their hair standing on end like that of a porcupine. The least noise sent a thrill through them as if they had hold of an electric battery, and both looked like Mahooly's Ghost. When they reached the lower floor Maurie suggested that as he was the best shot he had better go outside and Mayes should enter the store and when he chased them out he, Maurie, would pile them up on the porch on the outside. Mayes was not in sympathy with the suggestion but as he desired to show himself a hero, and not a coward, into the store he went expecting each minute to be sandbagged. On the outside Maurie stood as if he was petrified, and it is hard to tell what awful catastrophe might have happened if a couple of burglars had come his way from the building. A careful investigation, however, proved that the noise was nothing but the rustling of the wind, and the terrified occupants returned to their downy couches feeling much relieved.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Robert Corl and family have moved from Boalsburg to Pleasant Gap.

Harvey W. Lamey sold his planing mill property in Millheim to J. W. O. Housman.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Foster, of State College, spent Easter with friends in Washington, D. C.

Samuel Ream sold his farm west of Millheim to John W. Confer. The consideration was $3100.

C. W. Meyers, of State College, purchased through John P. Lyon, a new Chalmers-Detroit automobile.

The orator for the Memorial day exercises at Millheim this year will be Prof. H. P. Baker, of The Pennsylvania State College.

Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Deitzel are now at Spring Mills, where they will live in the future. Rev. Deitzel will have charge of the Spring Mills academy.

A. Walter, cashier of the Millheim Banking company, has been drawn as a grand juror to the United States court which meets at Harrisburg in May.

George Reish, of Millfinburg, sold his farm, known as the Sankey farm, in Penn township, to R. E. Stover, of Aaronsburg. Consideration $4550.

Yony From, who, with his son, farms a 300 acre clear place near Beech creek, gave us a call in his usual good humor. He tells us he has already planted his potatoes.

Harvey Hough, of Penn Cave, moved to the east end of Brushvalley, onto the farm which he purchased recently, and Samuel Wise now occupies the farm which he purchased from Mr. Hough.

Norman Keister, son of Thomas Keister, while at play at the sawmill on which his father works in North Millheim, was accidentally caught by a revolving shaft and broke his arm.

General orders were issued from the headquarters of the National Guard in Harrisburg specifying Somerset as the place for the encampment of the Second brigade this summer and the time July 24th to 31st.

The property of the late Daniel Ulrich, deceased in Millheim, was sold at executor's sale to Peter Breen for $725. The adjoining lot, belonging to Mrs. Ulrich, was sold at the same time to O. J. Auman for $160.

Morris Duncan Douglass, son of H. B. Douglass, of Phillipsburg, a student at Mercersburg academy, has taken honors, being salutatorian for the class of 1909. Mercersburg has had many Phillipsburg boys and is a favorite with parents as well as sons.

Harry Allison has arranged to move from Spring Mills to Pine Grove Mills, where he has leased a flouring mill, now owned by a recently organized water company, and will operate the same. Mr. Allison is an experienced miller, and no doubt will be able to build up a good trade at the mill named.

Among the most regular attendants at the Boalsburg Primary school during the past term were Ray Young and Grace Wieland. Both were present every day of the term, and the latter has not missed a day of school for two years and has never been tardy since she started to school four years ago.

The Bellefonte Central Railroad Co. is remodeling the station at State College. The former baggage and express room will be transformed into a neat waiting room. Other needed changes will be made, which, when completed will compare very favorably with waiting rooms along the Pennsylvania railroad lines.

Rev. M. S. Derstine, who was returned by the Methodist Conference to his old appointment at Chatham Run, visited his mother, Mrs. Sarah Derstine, in Centre Hall recently, who is in delicate health. She has attained the age of almost seventy-eight years, and a year or two ago received a serious injury from a fall, and since she has steadily been declining in health.

Miss Gertrude M. Cogan, of Hope-well, Pa., a devoted Christian lady of the Reformed church, and an earnest worker for the W. C. T. U., is working in Centre county. She has visited Millheim, Harrisburg, State College and Unionville, in the past ten days. Her appointments are fixed by Mrs. J. P. Harris, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Clegg, county president of the W. C. T. U. of Phillipsburg.

J. E. Walker, of Rebersburg, was a caller on Monday. Some two years ago a son of Mr. Walker, aged about forty years, was accidentally shot by a hunter, a load of buckshot struck him in the face, cheek and one penetrated his forehead, which latter affected his mind, in consequence of which the overseer's last week took the unfortunate man to the Danville hospital for treatment. Several years previous to the shooting accident, the young man had his one arm taken off between the hand and elbow, by being caught in a corn-breeder.

An Aged Lady.

On the top of Muncy Mountain, in Patton township, Centre county, lives a real daughter of the Revolution in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Evans Reese, daughter of Captain Evans. The lady is now in the ninety-seventh year of her age, and her identity as a woman fully qualified to a pension of eight dollars a month has just been discovered by the Bellefonte Chapter, D. A. R. who have interested themselves in her behalf. The aged lady will also be presented with a gold spoon by the national organization of D. A. R.

Injured in Mines

Melvin Lingie, son of James Lingie, of Blanchard, was caught under a fall of rock from the "roof" of the mine while mining clay in the mines at Bear Swamp Thursday. Six hundred pounds of earth and rock fell and the man was painfully squeezed across the hips and back. The young man had a narrow escape from more serious, if not fatal injury.

The Local Newspaper

One of our valued exchanges contained the following item about the home newspaper which meets our views so fully that we give it space in our columns. It says: "The local newspaper should be found in every home. No child will ever grow up ignorant who can be taught to appreciate the home paper. It is the stepping stone to intelligence in all those matters not to be learned in books. Give your children a foreign paper which contains not one word about any person, place or thing which they ever saw or perhaps ever heard of and how can you expect them to be interested? But let them have the home paper and read of persons they meet, and places with which they are familiar and soon an interest is awakened which increases with every arrival of the local paper. Thus a habit of reading is formed and those children will read the papers all their lives and become intelligent men and women, a credit to their ancestors, strong in their knowledge of the world as it is today."

The fellow who drinks to get rid of his trouble always finds, in time, that his principal trouble is to get a drink.
