Thus the rare tapestries, statuary and paintings housed in the gallery were left homeless and the opportunity of the municipality to convert the building with its collections into a public institution was lost. All the art objects in the famous collection, the result of years of effort by the late multimillionaire. must be removed from the gallery by Feb. 5. They will be placed in the Yerkes residence, adjoining, in East Sixty-eight street, and, though there is a possibility that this residence may yet be utilized by the city as a permanent home for the collection, it is said to be a remote one. The sale did not include the contents of the gallery.

The grand stairway forming the principal entrance to the gallery is a most imposing and artistic architectural creation, and in front of it was placed a $60,000 rug. On either side were rare pieces of sculpture.

One of the notable pieces in the collection was the famous $40,000 bed. Among the paintings are works by members of the early English, Flem-

In the center of the rear wall was placed Mr. French's latest important work, the Melvin memorial, entitled, "Mourning Victory." an achievement that has been compared favorably with his now famous "Death and the Sculptor." In the center of this unusual gallery was a fountain with a fountain group by ish and Dutch schools as well as can. Isidore Konti, and in front of it was the rather remarkable figure by Fernando Miranda, entitled, "Primitive Marksman." This certainly had not only the open air, but the primitive, even primeval spirit, the man here represented, on his back with upraised feet, supporting his bow and aiming an arrow at the sun, being a creature who might well have lived in the glacial epoch so far as thoughts of civilization were concerned. The fountain group by Mr. Kontl, showing a mother holding her child and bending over as If to dip it in the flowing water, is a very chaste and beautiful creation. worthy of an artist whose work at several expositions has contributed so much to popular education along the lines of art.

> The centenary of the birth of Edgar Allan Poe on Jan, 19 gives special interest to the bronze bust of Poe by Edmond T. Quinn shown in the sculptural division of the academy exhibition. It has been spoken of as one of the most effective sculptural likenesses of the poet yet produced and interprets his artistic temperament as only a true artist appreciating the achievements of a member of another creative profession could do. An interesting contrast might be instituted between it and the Poe bust by Zolnay in the possession of the University of Virginia. Mr. Quinn's Poe is one which exerts a fascination much like that which the poet himself must have exercised over those who were able to appreciate his genius. The bust was purchased by the Bronx Society of Arts and Sciences for the monument dedicated by it in Poe park, Fordham, on the day of the
