EDITORIAL.

SELF-respecting republican papers denounce the late legislature as having been the worst in the history of the state. Amen—so we all say.

The Turks have taken Constantinople. The young Turks have risen in rebellion against the Sultan and have him a prisoner in the palace. There is not much sympathy for the Sultan in the outside world, and the rebellion shows that after his long reign his people will have a change.

The late legislature appropriated some twenty millions more than the revenues. It mostly went for new offices, higher salaries, the Harrisburg capitol park enlargement, which will turn out another great capitol job for big steals, the new state road from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, and raising of salaries, et cetera un-so-weiter—but in none of it can you find a cent for pension to the deserving veterans of the civil war.

IN ANOTHER column of this issue will be found the ad. of the Howard Canning Company, announcing that it will not do any canning this summer on account of over half of last year's goods remaining on hand unsold. The announcement further states that such is the predicament with other canning establishments over the country—having one-half of last season's goods unsold. This is not lovely news for the farmers within the Howard Co's territory who found a profitable market for all kinds of vegetables and garden truck, at the cannery. The large farmer down to the quarter acre truck tiller, will feel this temporary closing of the cannery—not only will this affect the Howard district, but over the country generally. The Howard Cannery put out excellent goods, but the unfortunate depression that has existed for over two years, forces economy and a consequent falling off of sales, as consumers must deprive their tables and dinner pails, to a great extent, of canned goods. We learn from this that misrule in public affairs is making itself felt in a new and unexpected line of industry. The toiling masses are under dire suffering—employ is at a lower stage than at any time in the history of the country, and the outlook ahead not at all bright. The promised "prosperity" has fallen to the few, and impoverishment has befallen the masses with starvation at the door of many toilers.

AFTER PENROSE'S SCALP.

A row is on in Pennsylvania State politics which threatens to change the whole State political map. Mayor Wm. A. Magee, of Pittsburg, who was recently elected, after some very vigorous opposition on the part of H. C. Frick, has declared himself against the reign of Senator Boies Penrose in the State, principally because he accuses Penrose of having done the work for Frick in the last election.

In spite of orders issued by Penrose to keep off, with the accompanying hint that the next governorship may be his for the asking, Mayor Magee has announced to his friends that he is from this time a candidate to succeed George T. Oliver in the United States Senate when the latter's term expires in 1911.

Furthermore, the young Mayor allows his friends to believe that he is going after the power which has so long been swayed in Pennsylvania by Penrose, that his purpose is to unseat him from the State leadership and prevent his return to the Senate at the end of present term.

Magee was bitterly opposed by Frick for the present office and it is claimed that $100,000 of Frick's money was burned up in the useless fight.

UNIONVILLE.

The clouds that for five weeks hung over our town, have been dispelled and bright sunshine prevails, all because Mrs. Sadie Emerick has returned from her Pittsburgh visit. The report that she had lost her speech was unfounded—she can talk as well as ever. Her first act, after her return, was to subscribe for the Centre Democrat. She just couldn't help it.

Jack Stuckey, one of the trio of operators in this town, was so badly injured while practicing with a base ball, one day last week, that he had to be taken to his home at Everett, Pa. Howard Peters accompanied him, and Mrs. Weaver, an estimable old lady, of Millheim, visited her daughter, Mrs. Martin Hogan, leaving for her home on Monday.

Joe Brugger returned to the Medico Chi hospital last week, where, on Wednesday, he underwent a severe operation in having his arm at the shoulder put back in its place. The doctors made an incision and removed a piece of broken bone from the socket and put the arm in place, and they are very sanguine that his arm will eventually be all right. He withstood the operation bravely but left him very weak and at last report he was suffering considerable pain in his arm and shoulder. He was injured about seven months ago by falling off a load of apples.

Joseph Davidson was badly injured by a pile of posts, or props, falling on him. He tried to pry one of the posts from near the bottom of the pile which loosened the top which rolled on him. It was at first thought he was fatally injured, and his daughter, who is a clerk in a large department store in Altoona, was telegraphed for, but we are glad to learn from latest reports, that he will recover from his injuries.

Many improvements are on the way in our beautiful city. Charles Eckenroth, who has purchased the J. H. Shipley property, has built a 3-foot wall in front of his house, and is terracing the yard and will build a porch of modern design in front and on one side, and cap the climax by giving the whole a beautiful robe of paint, after which his home will be transformed into a thing of beauty, which is a joy forever. Mrs. Carrie Lucas, who has purchased the Wm. Idings property, has remodelled the interior, built a pantry on rear porch, and a large modern porch in front and south side, and will give the whole several coats of paint, will put down a concrete pavement, repair the stable, put up a new fence all around the garden part, so that the place will not have the slightest resemblance of what it had been. D. Buck has relaid his stone pavement and is putting a new roof on his handsome residence. Billy Solt has his handsome cage completed ready for the painters. Bart Stere has put a new roof on his summer home. Howard and Tid Holtzworth put a new roof on their porch. Billy Parsons is negotiating for a carload of Portland cement to be used in making concrete pavements, to be divided among the following persons: Wm. B. Parsons, Wm. A. Peters, Chas. R. Eckenroth, John P. Harris, Jr., Daniel Hall, J. C. Smith, T. T. Barton (Maybe) and (perhaps) J. school board and town council, and a number of others whose names I cannot recall. Take notice that Milesburg and Julian won't be in it with our city "when the green leaves come again."

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall, on conviction thereof be subjected to a fine of ten dollars for each fish so captured over and above the number herein allowed.
