A DISAPPOINTMENT.

Aman must be deaf, dumb blind and absolutely ignorant if the prolonged wrangle at Washington, over the new tariff does not satisfy him that the measure has been shaped for the benefit of those who manufacture, and at the expense of the consumer.

In the last campaign Taft vehemently declared to the American people that if elected there would be an immediate session to consider the tariff and that the revision would be downward.

The bill is now in the Senate for final consideration and the vote may be taken today. There is great dissatisfaction there and at times there is grave doubt as to its passage.

We repeat—we believe a man must be deaf, dumb, blind and ignorant who does not realize (though he need not admit it) that the revision of the new tariff bill has been a violation of campaign pledges and against the best interests of the masses.
