appearance early in the morning, coming by train and other conveyances of travel until by noon, there were about two thousand people on the grounds. Everybody was filled with congeniality that made everything pass off in a most delightful way. It being a basket picnic it was not long until the woods was dotted over with pure white linen on which was spread the choicest viands that could be found. Chicken and turkey was in evidence everywhere, thus the preachers and lawyers were in their element. There was enough for everybody, and the stranger within their gates was not permitted to go away hungry. Those who were too timid to accept the gracious invitation of their friends to the feast of good things found no difficulty in having their wants supplied at the meal house. As usual O. D. Eberts, the progressive Martha merchant, was on hand with ice cream, candies and ruit. and he did a rushing business.

ganization of considerable promise, made the woods ring with the sound of the cymbals, drum and other instruments. This was a signal for the crowd to gather around the speakers' stand tor of the Methodist church at Port Matilda. This was followed by an address of welcome by Walter Williams, of Port Matilda, who made his hearers feel that they were not pilgrims and strangers but friends who had come there to renew friendships and to meet friends and kindred. This was happily responded to by Hon. J. C. Meyer, of Bellefonte, who later made another speech. Other addresses were made by Rev. Beryen, of Petersburg ; Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, and Rev. Beech, pastor of the United Brethern church at Port Matilda. They all spoke of the high character of the Williamses and the part they took in the early development of the Bald Eagle Valley.
