—Jake Gross, the tailor, has been looking as if he had been doing sentinel work at night with that new baby boy in his arms. However, Jake has gone through the trying ordeal of the baby in one arm and the paragonic bottle in the other hand, and that's the reason he says Harry Taylor's troubles are just beginning.
—The plant of the Yeager Swing Factory will be sold on Wednesday, October 13th. Receiver Claud Cook says if it can be sold for what it is worth the creditors will get every dollar that is coming to them. The plant is a large one, well equipped with modern machinery for the making of swings, taboretts, etc., and if properly conducted should prove a paying industry.
—Deputy sheriff J. B. Strohm, who some weeks ago broke a leg above the ankle, in an effort to capture a runaway prisoner, in consequence of which he was confined to his home at Centre Hall, appeared in the sheriff's office with crutches on Monday morning having arrived by the 9 a. m. train. Hope deputy Jim will soon be able to discard his crutches and get after the rascals afoot.
—Former Senator S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven, who is well known in Bellefonte, has just celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday anniversary with a dinner at the Country Club to his wife, sons, daughters and grandchildren. Senator Peale paid tribute to the long years past in these poetic words: "Good-bye! good-bye to the seventies, and all their aggressive years, with all their joys and pleasantries and all their cares and fears."
—"Onward" is the motto at the scenic of which T. Clayton Brown and wife are taking so much interest in having it run in an up-to-date style. They are sparing no pains to make it attractive and interesting to their patrons, and their labors have not been in vain. Every night the hall is crowded with an intelligent class of people which is strong testimony that things are being run about right. Miss Long, of Tyrone, has been employed to preside at the piano which means there will be first class instrumental music right along. She is an expert in manipulating the keys of the piano, thus her playing is giving satisfaction. It is hardly necessary to speak of the pictures because they are the very best. There are none better.
