

METROPOLIS OF THE BALD EAGLE VALLEY

Jacob L. DeHaas became manager—and afterward part owner—and continued until his death, a period of about seventeen years. In 1906 it was sold by Mr. Weber, and H. A. Moore, as executors of the DeHaas estate, to Edwin G. Henderson, who conducted it until July 4, 1907, when he rented it to the present proprietor, Charles W. McMurtrie, formerly of Tyrone. As a stopping place for way-farers it has improved from time to time, under such successive management, until at the present time, with steam heat, baths and most excellent cuisine, it is one of the best, price considered, in the central counties.

Five general "country stores" afford abundant trading facilities. E. Weber's Sons continue the business established by the late Charles Weber in 1857, and developed by him into an extensive concern. It is the oldest store in town and the only one continuing so long in the same family. They also deal in coal.

L. H. Thompson is the present owner and manager of the store established by the late "Squire" James Mahaffey many years ago.

Kline and Wolf, composed of Jackson Kline and C. Sumner Wolf, came here from Millheim ten years ago and are firmly established. Miss Bertha Kline assists them in managing the details of the business.

H. A. Kline, a son of Jackson Kline, has recently settled himself in the same line of business on the opposite side of the street, in the old Robert Cooke room.

C. C. Lucas is the successor of Lucas and Bro., who founded the business in 1866, and is assisted in serving his customers by William H. Holter.

The one distinctive grocery in town is that of J. D. Jordan, successor of J. H. Condo; James W. Harvey is his clerk.

We have two restaurants which also sell confectionery and green groceries. One is conducted by Charles Lucas, who began business April, 1906. He has recently added catering to his line and makes ice cream for wholesale.

As an added facility for this part of the business he has put in steam power, and with his surplus steam heats his own rooms and the bank room adjoining; Bernard Ling is his clerk.

The second one is now owned by Peter Robb, Jr., who is assisted in its management by his capable daughter, Miss Minnie. It was established about twelve years ago by E. C. Dietz, and has had, as successive proprietors, George Tipton, E. Weber Thomas and George L. Williams. Peter Robb bought April 1, 1909. Mr. Robb also sells ice cream at wholesale.

We have two successful meat markets, the first of which was established in October, 1902, by Charles A. Walizer, who still conducts it. The other is managed by Allison and Weber, and began business in 1908.

A regular milk route started in 1904 by Joseph L. Dunkle, and still driven by him, furnishes our community with milk every morning, produced by his own well fed and well kept herd.

William H. Bossman, who has been making new shoes and mending worn ones for our people for twenty-three years, sticks to his last and does work which commends itself to all his patrons.

An excellent millinery establishment which attracts custom from not only the ladies of our town but from the prosperous valleys on either side of us, was founded twelve years ago by Miss M. H. Lucas who still manages it, with Miss Josephine Henderson as her competent and affable assistant.

In 1879 Martin Miner came here after an extended experience in New York, and established himself in Moore's drug store as a jeweler and watchmaker. Later he purchased a small building a few doors north of that where he continues his business successfully.

Claude R. Moore served an apprenticeship at the same business with F. P. Blair, of Bellefonte, and after five years of experience in other towns and on the road as a wholesale salesman, he located himself in the business here, in the front of his father's drug store in 1899, and continues in well doing.

J. Will Maves started a monument and marble works here March 3, 1895, in a small building on Black street, which he put up for the purpose. In 1905 he built a large and better adapted one, equipped it with a large travelling crane for handling heavy work, and engine and compressed air plant for doing the cutting, and now conducts it as one of the chief industries of the town. His fine work and excellent business qualities have given the establishment a wide reputation through our own and adjoining states.

No less than three blacksmiths find liberal employment here. The latest to present itself for public patronage is that of W. H. Seft, on north Walnut street, in the corner of Burdine Butler's farm. He began only last Spring and has his full share of business.

Next in point of years of service is D. L. Welsh who located at the corner of Black and Walnut streets in 1890. Mr. Welsh does general work, but his specialty is high class horse shoeing. He learned the trade with his father, the venerable Zara S. Welsh, in the well known old shop at Romola, on Marsh Creek, and is now in turn helped by his son Roland.

The oldest shop in town was built by Joseph Hall and his son Wilbur F., and run by them until 1903, when Wilbur, his father having died some time before, sold it to C. S. Fletcher, who had served time with him as an apprentice. Mr. Fletcher runs a planing mill on the adjoining lot, and is particularly well equipped for doing wagon work. His assistant is his brother, Chauncey F. Fletcher.

A general foundry and machine business was established here by John E. Wetzel, under the name of the Empire Iron Works, in the Spring of 1884, and has since been in successful operation. The recent death of Mr. Wetzel left the business in the hands of Mrs. Wetzel as administratrix of his estate, and her two sons, Henry and William, who had been their father's assistants and acquired a good working knowledge of it. In these days of the domination of farm machinery this is a great convenience to the farming communities which lie on all sides of us.

agement, both of which rest in the owner, Frederick S. Dunham. A. A. Schenck learned the trade of tinsmith under B. F. Troxall, and in 1880 set up for himself in the old Lucas store room adjoining the railroad, now occupied by Miss Lucas as a millinery store. In 1884 he bought the old tin and stove establishment of John Diehl on the opposite side of the street, building and lot included, and moved into it. Here he is still to be found, having enlarged and developed the business into a general tin, hardware and plumbing establishment of fine proportions and prosperity.

Ira C. Johnson follows the business of his father, who was long a successful wagonmaker in Jacksonville, where Ira learned the trade with him, and where he married and succeeded his father in business. In the Spring of 1886 he came over here and rented the place built for a wagon shop by Henry Grove, now the postoffice, and worked there while continuing to live in Jacksonville, driving over and back every day. In December, 1905, he brought his family here and continues his work, having moved to the former marble shop of J. Will Maves on Black street, December 18, 1905.

The first drug store in Howard was founded October 5, 1874, by H. A. Moore, in the room in which he still conducts it, and which was built for him by his father, Agnew Moore, who then lived in Bellefonte, but moved to Missoula, in 1878, where he died in 1894. Mr. Moore acquired a thorough training in pharmacy with the late Charles Elise, of Milesburg, and is assisted in the business by his son, Chester A.

The second was started in a new building which he erected for the double purpose of office and store room, on Black street, in 1900, by Dr. O. W. McEntire. Dr. M. is a skilled M. D. as well as a pharmacist, an alumnus of the Georgetown, D. C., Medical University, and of the Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, and began the practice of medicine here in 1891. He still acceptably practices medicine and conducts the drug business.

Dr. Walter I. Kurtz, a native of Williamsport, a graduate of the fine High Schools and a medical student of the University of that city, and an alumnus of the Medico-Chirurgical College, of Philadelphia, came here in 1901. Immediately after the death of lamented Dr. Hensley, rented his office, bought his horses and equipment, and took up his practice. Not long after he married the Dr.'s third daughter, Miss Annie, and is the other one of our two successful and popular physicians.

Dr. C. M. Fox is our only veterinarian, and his successful practice tends far and wide in the farming community by which we are surrounded.

The First National Bank began business Oct. 15, 1903, with a capital of $25,000, and on Nov. 15, 1909, a period of one year and one month, declared the first semi-annual dividend of two per cent, payable Jan. 1, 1910, maintaining a balance in "surplus and undivided profits" of more than $2,000. The directors are Joseph Diehl, W. J. Kurtz, C. E. Yearick, W. H. Neff, J. Will Maves, S. H. Bennison, son and A. Weber, vice president; president, A. Weber, cashier, H. F. Jenkins, assistant cashier.

William H. Neff started cabinet making and undertaking in 1854, in the property which he still occupies. In 1904, just half a century later, he associated with him Lot H. Neff, with whom he added the name of Wm. H. Neff and Son and added painting and paper hanging to the business. He is also assisted by another son, William M. Neff, who has had large experience in cabinet making in other towns, and has become an expert in fine work.

Another firm of undertakers is that of H. C. Holter and Joseph H. Schenck, under the title of H. C. Holter & Co. These gentlemen are also builders and contractors of high class, and do something in the line of furniture.

Z. T. Weirick established himself here in cabinet making in 1886, having served his time with his uncle, Maj. John Moyer, near Rebersburg, and later added papering and painting. Mr. Weirick has attained a high degree of skill in cabinet making and does some difficult work for out of town customers. The altar work and pulpit furnishings of both the Christian Chapel and Reformed church are of his handiwork, and testimonials of his skill.

Charles M. Confer is a painter and paperhanger exclusively, and of a high degree of skill. He took his preparatory course with Wm. H. Neff & Son, and after that took a post graduate course as a journeyman in Altoona.

The Howard Brick Co. organized in 1903 and began making a high grade quality of dark red building brick from the red shale found in great quantities on the north side of the Bald Eagle mountains, near the works. The exceedingly fine quality of their product has already won for them an enviable reputation. They are capitalized at $50,000, the majority of the stock being owned in the immediate neighborhood, and the works, with a capacity of 25,000 per day, are managed and controlled entirely by our own citizens. The officers are: John Weber, president; Abram Weber, treasurer; and H. A. Moore, secretary and manager, and these gentlemen constitute the directors. Chester A. Moore is the efficient accountant.

W. T. Leathers & Son is the old firm name yet used by the widow and son of the late William T. Leathers in the management and sale of the Excelsior Graphite Paint, which has made for itself a reputation everywhere throughout the State. Frederick Leathers is the manager of the business.

In addition to this, Frederick, with his brothers George H., Alfred Cookman, and Jessie T., constitute the house of Leathers Brothers, who have their headquarters here, and whose business is real estate brokerage, extending over several of the Middle States, and in which they are achieving a fine success. Just now they have a very large deal on in Northumberland, Pa., and another in W. Va. Though they have intimate knowledge of many large and small towns in these states, they believe that Howard is the best they know to live in, and in support of that they now have two houses here and are preparing to build a third.

Our saddle, harness and general horse equipping establishment was founded in 1870 by John Stitzer, whose excellent work is well remembered by all his customers. He began in a modest way in the room over what is now the post office, remaining there one year and then moved to the room which are now occupied by Charles Lucas' restaurant. At his death in 1884, the store was sold to the Hon. James Schofield, who ran it as a branch of his extensive establishment in Bellefonte for a few months, and on Dec. 1, 1884, it passed into the hands of Ira Packer, who died in 1898. It was then purchased by the present proprietor, Thomas A. Fletcher. Mr. Fletcher has mastered both the business and mechanical sides of the business, adding, year by year, to the fine reputation and good will gained for the shop by his predecessor. Last year he bought the old Samuel Diehly house on Main street, just around the corner from Walnut, and has added to, remodeled, repainted and refurnished it, making it a most desirable home and business place under one roof.

The Howard Tool & Iron Company is the name under which the old rolling mill, which was in days gone by an adjunct of the Howard Furnace, is now operating and making a superior article of garden rakes, hoes, hatchets and more largely brake rods, ends, with special machinery patented by the late W. R. Jenkins, formerly largely interested in the plant. The managers are Harry E. Jenkins and Balsem Weber, and they employ from twenty to twenty-five workmen.

Two good livery stables furnish convenient and reliable service, and make this an objective point for getting out into the smaller towns in our adjacent valleys. Each is fairly well equipped for turning out a rig with from one to four horses, to most any reasonable demand. John Robb, near the station, began business as a successor to former sheriff, Robt Cook, in 1901, and William Thompson, near the postoffice, started in the same year. A legitimate and not unfriendly rivalry has existed during this time, and secured in the eyes of the patrons of Walter H. Bueck, manager of the Millheim in 1904, rented a suite of rooms in the second story of Jackson Kline's building, and began to make, repair and clean men's clothes, and has firmly established himself in a business which is profitable, and the men of the town find it a pleasant and convenient feature.

Of our popular barbers, John H. Wagner is the first in point of time, having begun work in 1889. Isaac R. Williams has been serving his quota of the public since 1900, and William C. Shay, who started in only a year or so, is getting his share of the patronage.

Not to be behind our sister towns, we have a recently erected electric lighting plant, owned by Wm. H. Long. A dynamo, with sufficient power to carry about one thousand sixteen candle lamps, is situated in the store in the flouring mill, and is operated every evening until late bedtime, and for an hour or two before daylight each morning. Up to this time several of the stores, churches, shops, and dwelling houses, thirty-five in number, are lighted in this way, and other light-making arrangements to install it. In all, about two hundred lamps are in use.

The Howard Handle & Spoke Company was organized, and the factory yet standing and operated, was built in 1884 by K. G. Shultz and B. Poulsoch, and is young from Warren, Pa., where they had worked together in what was then the only establishment of the kind in the state, this being the second. After some years of successful business operation the firm separated. Shultz retaining the old factory and business, and Poulsoch building a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down. On July 1, 1893, Shultz entered into a partnership with W. Rothrock Gardner, (having previously consigned to the hotel) a new plant nearly in the rear of the hotel, which was afterwards, converted into a creamery by D. R. Wilson, and finally burned down