LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

St. Cloud, Fla. Jan. 10, 1909. Ed. Centre Democrat:

Thinking perhaps some of the readers of your paper would be pleased to read a short let-ter from the "Old Vet's Colony" at St. Cloud, Fla., I concluded to send you a condensed description of the town, and the general business of its inhabitants.

The town covers about three square There is little or no part of it that has not been improved in part, the best improvements being near the railroad or centre of the town. When I came here on the 4th of Dec. 1909. there were only about 12 to 15 small houses and about as many tents. Now there are upwards of 400 houses and a arge number of tents, and the population 1,500 or 2,000, and it seems to grow right up out of the sand.

As an illustration, I would state that when the St. Cloud hotel burned, another temporary one took its place on an adjoining lot in one and one-half days. The only business here is building, outside of the general store business as is carried on in all other towns, and almost every man you see is either sawing off a piece of lumber or nailing one fast, and I do not think I am fabricating when I say we have car-penters, brick-layers, plasterers and enough here to build another town before spring. The houses that are being built here are mostly one though there are some fair sized bun-galos in course of construction with few completed and parties living in them. The town is principally located in a turpentine forest, the soil only to the cultivation of citrous fruits, and even for that purpose the land needs early fertilization.

From one half to three-fourths of the orange crop is still on the trees in southern Florida, and are selling for 75 cents to $1.00 per box, or about onehalf cent apiece.

Since the new year came in the climate has been all any man could desire, warm and pleasant as June in Central, Pa. The First National Bank of this place is a building of large di-mensions; is contsructed of white and yellow brick, making a fine appear-

As to the health of the inhabitants of the town, it has been fair so far, having had only two deaths, one of them from cancer, the other pneumonia, and two or three cases of fever. While the people up in old Centre county are wearing their overcoats and ear muffs we are sitting on our porches in our shirt sleeves. W. A. HARTSOCK.

School House Burned. On Thursday afternoon the new public school building at Hawk Run was burned to the ground. It had been completed within the last month and was a neat and convenient structure. The lack of water prevented anything being done to save the building. Wittenburg's store was in considerable danger for awhile but fortunately the flames did nothing more than scorch the side of the building.

An editor of a country newspaper in Kansas recently received a "fine" chicken. The farmer quickly looked around and then turning to the saleslady, said: "Why, I didn't hear anything."

Some people, especially young people, have a habit, "just for a joke," of sending or bringing notices to the newspapers of the engagements or marriages of their friends, who as a solution of one of his sermons said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Instantly every man, woman and child, with one exception, rose to their feet. The preacher seated them and said: "Now, every man not paying his debts stand up." Just what rights has a married woman anyhow? The suffragists want to know and so do I. The question becomes definite in view of the evidence recently submitted in a Chicago court room. Paul Gella was ac-cused by his wife of assault, said as-sault consisting of "tearing up the pil-

"We've been married two years, judge, and he didn't say a word the first winter," interrupted the complainant. "His love for me is dead."

It was right up to Judge Crowe, and on behalf of the woman I protest against his decision. He discharged the defendant, holding that a man ought to submit to these arctic embraces for one year, but after that time they were barred by the statute of limitations. Again I say I protest against the judge—it's no use for me to protest to my wife.

Couldn't Tell the Truth.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, was illustrating the habit of exaggeration, which he thinks is the result of an unduly active imagination.

"I know of a little girl who really couldn't adhere to the truth," he said, a "and she was the cause of much anxiety to her parents. One day the mother overheard her daughter arguing with a little boy about their respective ages.

"I am older than you,' he said, "cause my birthday comes first, in May, and yours don't come till September.'

"Of course your birthday comes first, is cause you came down first. I remember looking at the angels when they were making you.'

"The mother instantly summoned her daughter. "It's breaking mother's heart to hear you tell such awful stories,' she said. Don't you remember what happened to Ananias and Sapphira?"

"Oh, yes, mama, I know. They were struck dead for lying. I saw them carried into the corner drug store.

nte. The borough of Bellefonte for the build-The borough of Bellefonte for the building, equipment and accommodation of the public schools decided to increase the indebtedness of the said school district in the sum of $32,000,00 represented by the series of bonds first above mentioned. This they did by a resolution of the board of school directors passed March 29th, 1909. At this time the school district had an existing indebtedness of $20,000,00, which was the balance of a debt incurred prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1874. Although this balance, plus the debt proposed to be incurred, exceeded two per cent. of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the school district, viz; $1,643,361,00, we are of the opinion that under the case of Wheeler vs. Philadelphia, 77 Pa., 338, and Pike county vs. Roland, 94 Pa., 238, that they had a right to do this without the assent of the electors, inasmuch as the proposed increase by the school authorities was less than two per cent. of the assessed valuation of taxable property within the school district."

taxable property within the school district."

While it is true this later opinion was given after the bonds had been delivered to Mr. Olmsted, and the money received by the district, it nevertheless supported the correctness of the actions and conclusions of the board.

After all this had been done Messrs. Townsend, Elliott & Townsend, in making further investigation, concluded that the qualities of the old debt did not remain, but that from the manner in which it had been refunded, (this being the third time.) it became a new debt, and as such it was a debt the district had incurred since the adoption of the constitution of 1874, and therefore the board could not create so large an indebtedness as was provided for in the resolution of March 29th, 1909, without the consent of the electors of the district.

The loan had, however, been authorized and the indebtedness created for a perfectly lawful purpose, the bonds had gone out, and the district had their value; and had already expended the most of it in the erection and construction of the new school building. There is only one thing to do to save the honor and credit of the school district, and that is to submit the question to the electors of the district in such manner as the law

The Act of Assembly approved June 10th, 1897.

The Act of Assembly approved June 10th, 18 in its first section provides that,

"Whenever any school district in any borough or township of this Commonwealth shall have heretofore created an indebtedness for a lawful purpose by an action of the legal and proper officers thereof, such indebtedness, being within the constitutional limits of seven per centum, and in excess of the per centum of the last assessed valuation of such school district, and not having first obtained the assent of the electors thereof in favor of increasing such indebtedness as provided by law, it shall be lawful for the proper officers of such school district to cause to be submitted to the electors of such district to cause to be submitted to the electors of such district the question of validating and giving bind force to such indebted ness, theretofore attempted to be created."

Other provisions of the act provide how, this shall be done.

The purpose for which the loan was made was entirely lawful, and the action of the board was taken under the conviction that the board had the clear, legal right to create the indebtedness the clear, legal right to create the indebtedness and to issue the bonds.

Any objection to the debt contracted can be removed and the debt made valid by the electors of the district in declaring in favor of the debt as already increased without any cost to the district except the publication of notice of the election to be held on the 15th day of February, 1910. By doing so the debt of the district will not be increased a dollar over what it now is, counting both loans with the old debt. While the building has not been completed as rapidly as was originally contemplated all can readily see that the district will not only have a beautiful, but as substantial a building as can be found within the State, and that for a sum not exceeding in amount $55,000.00.

The board, or any member of it, and especially the building committee, stands ready to give any information about the loan or the building that information about the loan or the building that is in their power to give.

The question of ratifying and making clearly valid the indebtedness of the district to the extent of $32,000.90 is submitted to the candid, sober judgment of the electors of the district, with the assurance that they will not allow the fair name of the district to be stained by the repudiation of an honest debt for which they have received full consideration.
