ZION.

Plenty of snow and ice, fine winter weather and good sleighing-every-body enjoying themselves.

F. M. Sharer took a sled load of his neighbors down to Holloway Hoy's, below Hublersburg, on Tuesday even-ing; they were a jolly good crowd and enjoyed themselves very much.

A sled load of young folks from hereabouts and Hecla were over to Samuel Hoy's on Thursday evening: it goes without saying they had a good, jolly time.

C. F. Hoy's children, who had scarlet fever, are all up and about, but are still under quarantine. Wm. T. Gross is on the sick list; we have not learned the nature of his

Frank Barnes, our jovial all-round butcher, gave an exhibition of his marksmanship a few days ago at J. S. Royer's. Joel had a beef to kill and Frank was called for the job. He was a big fellow and Joe cautioned him about making a good job of the first shot; so he, Frank, took aim and let her fly. But the bull shook his head and refused to drop. The other fellows, three in number, crawled on the fence and held their breath, expecting Mr. Beef to stampede, but he didn't. So Frank gave him another shot, but he refused to go down. Frank got nervous, and the fellows on the fence got shaky. Frank says, "I'll fetch him this time," so pop goes the third shot, but Mr. Beef blew his nose and shook his head as much as to say, "Frank's no good," and Frank says "that beats Then Joel went to the house and we suppose took a nerve tonic, got his gun, came boldly out to the barn, braced himself, let her fly, and down came Mr. Beef. It is needless o say that the other fellows came down from their roost much relieved, but

J. G. Royer, our postmaster, and farmer, got a car load of lime last week for his farms.

SNOW SHOE.

Oh, you sleighride! Last week we did some knocking With our tiny pen

And with your permission We'll try and knock again. Some people they got grouchy, And laid in their complaints, But, dear Democrat reader,

We weren't all born saints. There's old pal "Dundy" Gilliland Thought he'd go a flirtin(g) And wended his way toward The little town called Curtin.

Our friend Lewis Boyce, Who works for his uncle John, Tells us by the smile on his face He is coming right along.

The teacher, Miss Hunter, Though few are kinder: If her name is hunter Seems a very poor finder.

There's painter, Frank Shope The one we do adore(a) Still goes to see his friend I think her name is Nora. Little Henry Kesling

Is in the swim again. I wish you would remember Little boys make men. Now that boy John Musser

Does not take the lanes, But goes right up the front street To see Miss Elsie Haynes. Upon thorough investigation, We find Bob Budinger in love

And he talks and talks while sleeping And says "Lou you turtle dove." There are others just like Bobbie And I think I'll name a few They are Holt, Swartz and Brownie

And James Kelley too.-There is "Gigg," Clarence Thompson, A clerk in his father's store; Used to go over to Leather's

But he don't go there any more. 'Mustard," Ary Shope, Still goes home with Fay; His mother still is thinking He'll be a man some day. Lawrence and Oscar Shank,

Both of some renown, Often visit the same house In the upper end of town. When Philip Shaw goes calling He takes a piece of chalk, To measure how far he squeezes,

And not to measure his walk. 'Rusty.." James Redding. Although your hair is red

Don't talk so loud to Maria Or John Confer will kill you dead. James Uzzell is home again, after a successful operation in the Lock Haven hospital for appendicitis. A folly sled load of boys and girls, from Milesburg, visited the home of E. A. Swartz on Thursday night. After lunch and a good time all returned home none the worse for theff trip.

The school teachers are taking adrantage of the good sleighing and are taking their scholars for a ride which only shows the interest taken in the scholars by their teachers.
