Thomas Swires, a well known resident of Central City, Thursday of last week while crossing the railroad bridge on the Bald Eagle creek, was caught by the 9:18 train, the morning mail on its return from Bellefonte. Mr. Swires saw the train when it was too late to save himself and attempted to scale the side of the bridge, when the coach caught him, rolling him between the coach and bridge. He drepped and caught himself on some cross irons on the bridge that saved him from falling into the creek, where he may possibly have been drowned, as he would have been unable to help himself on account of the injuries received from the train. He was picked up and tak-en back to his home at the residence of his son, Allen, in Milesburg. His injuries at first were thought to be faare glad to report to his many friends at this writing that he art

The Sunday school convention held here on Friday evening and Saturday was well attended and all had a pleas-ant and profitable time together. ant and profitable time together.

Much good is sure to come from this effort on the part of Sunday school workers. Many subjects of vital importance were discussed and, I am sure, if those who do not go to Sunday school had been present, that they day school had been present, that they day school had been present, that they would have made a decision to attend. We have many in our town who never go, and they are parents too. How do they expect their children to grow up in the right way, when they are such a poor example of good, religious living themselves? All are in duty bound to attend and see that their children attend. What would this country be without the Sunday school?
