Following the defeat of Cannon and the monster political upheaval in the Massachusetts congressional election, comes another remarkable incident. Woodrow Wilson, the eminent author and scholar, now President of Prince-University, in viewing the trend of of the times, recently made a declara-tion that has attracted attention far and wide. Here it is: Tide is Turning. "The political tide is now turning Democratic and the day when the Democratic party must take charge of this country's affairs is almost at hand," were the declarations made by Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, in a speech at the Democratic dinner in Elizabeth, N. J., on the 29th. Mr. Wilson outlined the character of legislation which the Democrats should give the country to meet the present economic prob-lems. In this connection he said:

"I do not mean, of course to be guilty of the egotism and audacity of putting forth a program of specific measures, but I do think it possible to state the character we should wish to give to legislation.

Regulation Not Direct Management.
