

FRANCIS SPEER'S
Breezy "Chat" Column

That whatever you are, be a man. This injunction doesn't apply to the women of Bellefonte.

That speaking in a social way a wall flower at a Bellefonte dance is merely a bud gone to seed.

That some women in Bellefonte are so fond of dress that every time they go out its decoration day.

That the man in Bellefonte who really desires to get some idea of the shortness of life should put a note in bank.

That Ed Gross, the Bellefonte dairyman, says that he saw an excellent article on his milk the other morning. It was cream.

That the physician in Bellefonte who can prevent his patient from smoking and drinking stands a fair chance of having his bill paid.

That every young man in Bellefonte should strive to be an honest man, that he may be sure that there is one less rascal in the town.

That a physician in Bellefonte says that people should entertain only pleasant thoughts while eating. In other words, they should refrain from discussing the meat or grocery bills.

That a well known scientist in Bellefonte now declares that the brain grows larger during sleep. If this is true we know of some people in Bellefonte who ought to buy sleeping powders by the wholesale.

That there is a young fellow in Bellefonte who is shooting off his mouth very promiscuously. He had better put a string to his tongue, which would save him money and from being ridiculed by the people of the community. It's tough luck when a man can't profit by hard experience.

That some people in Bellefonte fancy that new clothes are necessary to all that is necessary to make a woman. If you could peep into the parlors in Bellefonte at midnight and see some of the debauchery practiced you would come to the conclusion that good clothes often cover a multitude of sins.

That when a young lady in Bellefonte is seen with certain young men, ten per cent. of her character has been forfeited. She may be as straight as a die, but outward appearances are often very much against her. A straightlaced girl is very foolish to place herself in such an uncompromising position.

That Clayton Brown, the progressive manager of the scenic, is thinking of installing a large exhaust fan to keep his patrons cool while patronizing that popular place of amusement. Why not employ several of the windy men in Bellefonte to do that and save the electricity. Mr. Brown knows who they are, without naming them.

That they say that Grant Charles, the hustling confectionery agent of Housburg, has an automobile that occasionally jumps a stake and rattle fence and gets in the pasture fields and when the cows are driven home they are found to be perfectly dry. The farms up in that section of the county very likely have to put muzzles on the cows' milk bags.

That the "Poo-poo" gang in Bellefonte should have a hall and chain put on their legs and made to work. There are a number of fellows here who do nothing but beg money and drink whisky. It has almost become an intolerable nuisance, but it would be almost criminal to put these lazy loafers in jail and make the county pay for their keeping. Thus the only thing to do is to attach them to a stone pile by a ball and chain.

That there is a young man in Bellefonte numbered among the 499 who had better make himself scarce around a certain place he has been calling. As the old saying goes, "They're onto him." If he wants to avoid humiliation and a good thrashing the right party will profit by this notice. The parents of the young girl know that his attentions to their daughter are for a bad purpose. He should not monkey with the buzz saw.

That the two Bellefonte married men who were seen following two girls going in the direction of the Nittany furnace the other evening are pretty smooth "geesers," but there are others. They were afterwards seen on the green hills between the Evangelical church and Mrs. Reuben Valentine's home. They are being carefully watched, so that when the proper time comes they will be asked to make an explanation for trespassing on forbidden paths.

That the codfish aristocracy in Bellefonte is composed of people who at one time were practically on their uppers and who are now, when the next meal would come from. Prosperity has favored them in latter years and they now "feel their oats" to the extent that some of their actions and conversation are looked upon as perfectly ridiculous. Who cares for the person in Bellefonte who has a full coffer and an empty brain? Bellefonte has women in it who imagine that money ought to offset character and everything else that's good. A fool with money is a menace to any community.

That it is said that a certain young lady in Bellefonte is reported as saying some real naughty things about the "That man." Now she has to work for a living, just like the rest of us poor, unfortunate mortals who happened to be born with a pewter instead of a gold spoon in our mouths. The advantage she may have over some of her kin is that her face is her fortune, especially if she keeps it well powdered and saturated with flesh food. What this young lady needs is a man, and she'll be fixed. The truth is that the young lady in Bellefonte who has to work for a living has no right to make side remarks about any person. We are not hot.

That it is said that for several years a young lady in Bellefonte has been in love with a young man, but the reason she is not head over heels in love with him is because of the discouragement she receives from persons who have not an iota of interest in her welfare, farther than to make trouble. He is a young man of excellent habits and his bank account is a testimony to the progressive spirit he has always possessed. The young lady in Bellefonte who hasn't a mind of her own and decision of character enough to make her own choice in matters of this kind should not kick if she would be compelled to die an old maid. In the matrimonial race a young lady should make sure she is right and then listen to nobody. Many a good young man has gone to the "bow-wow" just because some thin-skinned individual came in and killed the hen that would have probably laid the golden egg.

OVER THE COUNTY.

S. H. Hoy, of Benner, purchased a gasoline engine to do the unloading of his hay.

Samuel Markle and wife, of Axemann, spent their Fourth at Lock Haven and had a pleasant time.

The Resides reunion will be held on Saturday, July 30th, at Hunter's Park. All members of this connection are cordially invited.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Black, who have been at home in Housburg during the past twenty-one years, have left for their new home at Derry. The best wishes of their friends in this community go with them.

The Centennial Endeavor Society will hold a social at the home of Samuel D. Eves, two miles from Stormstown, on the eve of July 23rd, 1910. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to come and have a good time. By order of Social Committee.

The members of the Axemann church will hold a festival next Saturday evening, July 16th, nearby the church, for the benefit of the pastor. Ice cream, cake and all the delicacies will be sold. All are cordially invited. Come and bring your friends with you. Haymaking is pretty well over in this county and the crop of hay up to the average, and well housed. Corn since the rain some ten days ago, came right along and as farmers put it, "you could see it growing." All indications are for a fair crop of corn, and jonny cakes and mush and milk enough, and more, to go around.

The summer school for teachers began its six week's session, at Pennsylvania State College, with an attendance of one hundred and twenty-five. The list of educators include, besides the Penn State faculty, Drs. Schaeffer, Brumbaugh, Yocum, Gerwig, Knapp, and Smith and Superintendent Charles Lose, of Williamsport.

Rev. H. A. McKelvey, of Port Matilda, is not only a chicken fancier but a chicken financier. Since the first of March he got 222 eggs from eleven white leghorn hens, as follows: March 221, April 220, May 240, June 241, amounting to 922 eggs. Cost of feed $5.20; a net gain of $19.14. Rev. McKelvey invites competition.

The officers elect of Lady State Rebekah lodge 322, I. O. O. F., at State College, were installed one night recently by Past President Elizabeth Kennedy. Noble grand, Mrs. Kathryn Imboden; vice grand, Mrs. Anna Shreffler; financial secretary, Miss Maud Hoy; recording secretary, Mrs. Minnie Mingle; treasurer, Mrs. Hattie Every.

Acquilla S. Williams, a well known resident of Port Matilda, met with a painful accident, recently. While working on the abutments of a bridge a large stone fell upon his right leg, below the knee. The weight of the stone snapped off the bones near the ankle. Mr. Williams was removed to his home and later was taken to the Philadelphia hospital. He is again at his home.

The other day Edward Fisher, of near Milesburg, caught a polecat and took it to the barn where he put it in an empty feed box. He gave it a little grain and water and left it, expecting it would eat out of the box. On Friday he went to see whether the cat was there and was surprised to find five beautiful white kittens. They are perfectly tame and odorless. Mr. Fisher is now talking of having a polecat farm.

Fire at Clearfield.
The home of ex-Judge Cyrus I. Gordon, at Clearfield, caught fire last week, presumably from a defective stove, practically destroying the roof and doing other damage aggregating about $2,000. Judge Gordon has not been in the heat of health lately.

A FISHERMAN ARRESTED.

Won Out, However, Against The Tyrone Rod and Gun Club.

The big Fill Run, for many years a popular trout fishing resort for the public generally, has been under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tyrone Rod and Gun Club during the past year or two, by virtue of a lease secured from the owner of the land through which the stream passed, and only such persons who had special permission were privileged to fish therein.

Recently Patrick McDermott, of Osceola, fished the stream without consent of the Tyrone Rod and Gun Club. He was placed under arrest by the club, and his hearing fixed for last Thursday at Port Matilda. The citizens of Osceola became very indignant over McDermott's arrest, and raised a large purse to defend him, even in the highest courts if necessary.

At the hearing the club made the statement that no trout had been placed in the stream under state direction, but at the expense of the members of the club. McDermott and his friends went to the hearing "loaded," and when letters were produced from State Commissioner Mehan showing that he had furnished certain members of the club trout placed in the stream, and defining the law in the matter, there was nothing for the justice of the peace to do but decide the case against the members of the Rod and Gun Club, and who were also made responsible for the costs.—Phillipsburg Journal.

LEWISBURG MAN TO FLY.

Will Make Trials on Fair Grounds in Own Machine Next Week.

John Cromley, a resident of Lewisburg, will attempt to navigate the air in an aeroplane made by himself on the fair ground here next Saturday afternoon 16. This announcement it attracting great interest throughout this section and it is probable that a big crowd will be on hand to see the attempts of the young aviator. Cromley expects to make his flight after the manner of a kite, being pulled along by an automobile, until he gains the proper momentum to soar up into the air.—Journal.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

The 25th Annual Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Centre County met in session in the M. E. church at Howard, June 29th and 30th. Delegates were present from the different unions in the county. Reports from the different unions show unanticipated growth and activity, not only in membership but along all lines of work.

The Silver Medal Contest in the evening of the 29th was a brilliant success. The following were the contestants: Misses Eve Neff, Howard; Florence Hawkins, Laura Bryon, of Phillipsburg; Martha Barnhart, Bellefonte; Margaret Zimmerman, Milesburg; Margaret F. Glossner, Blanchard; and Master George Foreman of Howard. The subjects were well chosen, and each showed great ability in delivery of the same.

A large audience assembled to hear the orations and showed their appreciation by paiseworthy remarks and a liberal collection. The ladies and gentlemen of the choir gave several selections, which were very well rendered. The presentation speech was made by Rev. Taylor of Howard. Miss Martha Barnhart of Bellefonte, was awarded the medal. Souvenirs (The Story of France E. Willard) were given to each of the other contestants.

The session of Thursday had a full quota of members present and the different parts of the work were well discussed.

In addition to the state resolutions other resolutions were presented and adopted. Special mention was made of the faithful and earnest work of the dear ones of our ranks who have passed over the borderland since our last convention: Mrs. Laura E. Clark, Blanchard; Mrs. Mary E. Leathers, Howard; Mrs. Dr. Schuyler, Centre Hall; Mrs. James Forcey, Phillipsburg; Mrs. Jane Welsh, Bellefonte; Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson, Bellefonte; Mrs. N. J. Holtzworth, Bellefonte. The following resolutions were adopted: "Inasmuch as it hath pleased God to remove from us the above mentioned, and taken them to be with Him, which is far better; that, although, deeply mourning our loss we bow in humble submission to His divine will."

USED UNIVERSALLY

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

WHEN Cortright Metal Shingles were first introduced (24 years ago) you had some excuse for being sceptical. But now— If you are sceptical it can only be because you do not know the facts in the case. They are used today from the Atlantic to the Pacific for all kinds of buildings, under all conditions. They are fireproof, stormproof; never leak and last as long as the building itself without needing repairs. For further detailed information apply to Local Contractors or Roofers or CORTRIGHT METAL ROOFING CO. Philadelphia, Pa.

Will Watch Experiment.

Several farmers in the vicinity of Beech Creek are experimenting with broom corn and have planted enough, if it grows and matures, to supply their own use when made into brooms.

The high price of brooms prompted them to try to raise some of the now expensive article. With what success it can be done will be watched with interest.

Ready Money

Jay Gould, the noted financier, once said, "One hundred dollars in the right place at the right time will earn as much as one man steadily employed."

This is a great truth in financial matters that must sink deeply in your conscience. But the question is: "How shall I acquire the first one hundred dollars so as to invest it?" And the answer is: "By depositing part or your earnings profitably." For most any wage earner by industry, thrift and economy, can accumulate one or two hundred dollars, and no better place to do this can be found than in an interest account at this bank.

Your money is always ready for you when you want it, and earns three per cent. interest while deposited.
