The army record of Henry Martyn Hoyt had much to do with his election as chief executive of the state. Born of English parentage in 1830 at Kingston, he was graduated in 1849 at Williams college. He turned his attention to the study of law and in 1853 was admitted to the bar in Luzerne county. Upon the outbreak of the civil war he raised a regiment, the Fiftysecond Pennsylvania volunteers, and was commissioned lieutenant colonel. Two years later he was made colonel. At the close of the war he was brevetted brigadier general. In 1875 he was made chairman of the Republican state committee. He was elected governor in 1878 upon a "sound money" issue. He served one term of four years, his being the first administration under the constitution of 1873, which provided that the term of governor should be four years and that a governor could not succeed himself to
