BUFFALO RUN.

The farmers are about ready for corn-husking. Frank Gates is kept very busy in this valley at the present time threshing the grain; it is a good crop.

Some unknown person on last Wednesday afternoon entered the home of Miss Annie Gray, while she was away, and tried to cut their way through the doors inside of the house. Nothing was taken.

Very few turkeys were killed by our hunters. Robert Naylor and Walter Stine were the only persons to get any. While turkeys were very plenty they were slaughtered by people who came here from other counties; and from the amount of whiskey and beer bottles found with the label of their own town on the bottles, they were not of the best class of people to have as visitors. Any person is unfit to be in the woods with a gun who is drinking, and if they return another season to hunt, they will find the land in this section posted according to law.

Carroll Furst and Orvis Pennington, while hunting coons on Saturday night, thought they had a coon up a tree; one of them went up and shook it off when it came down the dogs killed it and proved to be a large wild cat.

Mr. Wolford, who has been working for F. H. Clemson, for the last two years, moved on Thursday to Bellefonte.

Many of our people attended the funeral of Mrs. Baudis at Benore on last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Huey attended the funeral of Mrs. Huey's mother, Mrs. Gill of Windburn, on last Tuesday.

AARONSBURG.

One of our aged ladies, Mrs. J. G. Meyer, spent a few weeks with her nephew, James Strohm, at Centre Hall. Coming home she stopped off at Coburn where she visited a few days with her many friends and came home well pleased with her trip.

One of our boss carpenters left last Monday again, after spending one week with his family here. Tom Hull thinks State College is all right. Kreider Frank moved his family for the winter to Millfin county. Their many friends and neighbors are sorry to see them leave the town.

Jim Swabb, of Tusseyville, was seen in our street one day last week; when he left he took or bought H. Cruises $50 dandy cow.

Mr. and Mrs. Shull and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hosterman and children, of Millheim, spent the Sabbath with their son-in-law, John Haines.

On Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, the stork left a baby boy at merchant John W. Krape's; both mother and babe are doing nicely.

Gilard Eisenhaur and daughter Mary Weaver and daughter Sara, left on Wednesday morning for Akron, Ohio, where the lady's husband is employed, hence that will be their future home; also, the former gentleman's son, Clarence E., is now employed in Bellefonte at Joseph's store.

LEMONT.

Samuel Hazel attended the horse show at State College, last Wednesday, and he says that he feels much better, but must keep himself quiet. It is hoped that he will soon be able to go about his work again.

The contractors are busy at the Ames place. They had to go down fifteen feet to strike rock, so that the contract called for, so instead of needing 150 tons of crushed stone they will need 250 tons, besides sand and cement.

Arani Grove returned to Reding Hill after enjoying a two weeks' vacation at home.

The students returned Monday from Philadelphia, where they had gone to play a game of ball with the University of Penna.

While coming home from church on Sunday your correspondent had the pleasure of seeing a flock of 20 or 25 partridges, the largest flock seen in these parts for many years.

Chas. Getz is away working for the telephone company.

Snow birds can be seen flying around, the last two or three weeks.

Mrs. Frank Osman returned from the West, Friday where she spent a month visiting among old friends.

Mrs. Jennie Norris and children visited at the home of Henry Norris, Buffalo Run, Sunday.

BOALSBURG.

Misses Annie Loehr and Anna Weber enjoyed last week with friends at Altoona and Huntingdon.

Mrs. John Luch, Mrs. W. H. Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jacobs, attended the Jacobs' reunion at Bellefonte, last week.

Rev. Charles Stover, of Meyersdale, has accepted a call from the Reformed church here and will commence his pastoral work the beginning of December.

Mrs. Emma Stuart and son David, of Bellview, spent several days last week at the W. H. Stuart home.

E. H. Williams and Thomas Allen have been on the sick list the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas are the happy parents of a nice little son who arrived last Sunday evening.

CURTIN.

Mrs. Hare, of Altoona, is visiting Mrs. Edward Harper.

RUNVILLE.

Eve Lucas and wife, of Altoona, are guests of Mrs. Lucas' father, Charles Lucas. The many friends of Mrs. Lucas are glad to hear of his recuperation in health, and wish him much success in the future.

Rev. Dean and wife have arrived in our village and have taken charge of the work. Now co-operate with a true heart for the next conference year.

Game is reported very scarce on the mountains except "dears" and you may be able to see them anywhere in this U. S. So say the hunters.

Claud Johnson and Mr. McQuillen, of Wallacetown, comprised part of the hunting party this month.

Mrs. Beulah Kunes, an old lady of our village, was taken suddenly sick on Thursday of last week. Symptoms were a slight paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Joseph Rodgers, of Osceola, and Mrs. Annie Witherite, of Bellefonte, were guests of Lydia Witherite during the week.

Mrs. William Watson is visiting with her husband in Snow Shoe.

Tacy Lucas, who has been in Altoona for the past two months, came home on Wednesday morning of last week, and on Thursday departed for Snow Shoe for a visit with her brother.

A hunting party composed of the Messrs: Edward Zimmerman, Lewis Wakefield, Lewis Shields, Harry Stiver, of Johnstown, Claude Lucas, of Snow Shoe, Arthur Shank, of Pitscain, were guests of James Lucas and family last week. All report having had a good time.

JACKSONVILLE.

Mrs. Lizzie Smith, of near Mechanicsburg, is visiting her daughter's, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kling.

Rev. Wallace, of Danville, is visiting his brother-in-law, Rev. I. S. Frain and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Bellefonte, are visiting relatives here.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Hoy, recently; also a son to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Orr.

Willard Harter is on the sick list. Harvey Yearick and wife have returned home. Mrs. Yearick was caring for her mother, Mrs. Enos Ertley.

Rev. Wallace who was one time pastor of the United Evangelical church at this place, conducted the preaching services on Monday evening. The series of meetings still continue in the United Evangelical church. All are invited.

FIEDLER.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral of Wm. Homer, Mr. and Mrs. Lank Musser, of Zion, George Shull of Houseville, commissioner John Dunlap and son, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Annie Yearick and son from Sunbury.

Among the sick in this vicinity are Edward Burd, son of Wm Burd, suffering from dropsy, and Annie Harter, Martha Bower and Wesley Smith.

R. E. Hinds has again returned to Harter W. Va. after spending a month with his family.

Perr Smith and family spent Sunday at the home of J. D. Stover.

Farmers are all busy husking corn which is an unusually good crop.

Kills a Murderer.

A merciless murderer is Appendixitis with many victims. But Dr. King's New Life Pills kill it by prevention. They gently stimulate stomach, liver and bowels, preventing that clogging that invites appendixitis, curing Constipation, Headache, Biliouness, Chills, 25c. at Green's Pharmacy Co.

Two New Buildings.

A reporter of the Centre Democrat took a ride down over the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania this week and found considerable business going on at Mill Hill. The frame work of the new joint station of the New York Central and Central R. R. of Pennsylvania railroads is up and before the extreme cold weather sets in it will be ready for occupancy.

A concrete walk will be made to it from the tracks of the Central railroad of Pennsylvania. This will be covered with a shed roof which will be greatly appreciated by the patrons, as in winter they experienced much trouble in getting to the depot. The new arrangement will be a great one to the travelling public.

The milk condensery has an immense brick building and when completed will be a large concern giving employment to a large number of men and women. To keep an industry like that going it will require a great quantity of milk each day, and it is probable that this section of Centre county will be thoroughly drained. The fact is, to make a condensery a success, the farmers must keep more cows.

The John Dixon Case.

In the suit brought by John Dixon against Snyder township, Blair county to recover damages for the death of his horse and injuries to his buggy, due to the animal becoming frightened and running away because the township's road engine was approaching at a high rate of speed on the public highway, the jury awarded the plaintiff a verdict for $295. The act of assembly of 1885 requires the owner of a road engine to stop his machine before any team arrives within 300 feet. The plaintiff alleged that the distance between the horse and engine was less than the prohibited 300 feet, and the defense was that the distance was greater than 300 feet.

It's The World's Best.

No one has ever made a salve, ointment or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the one perfect healer of Cuts, Corns, Burns, Bruises, Sores, Scalds, Bolls, Ulcers, Eczema, Salt Rheum, For Sore Eyes, Cold Sores, Chapped Hands, or Sprains. It's supreme. Infallible for Piles. Only 25c. at Green's Pharmacy Co.

Bucketshop Cases.

Judge Fuller granted to District Attorney Valentine, of Luzerne, permission to ask the next grand jury for the indictments of Fred J. Remsen and Thomas O'Connor, who are charged with running a bucket-shop in Wilkes-Barre and defrauding J. M. Hoffenstein out of $10,000.

Compare the combined purchasing power of three thousand merchants with that of a single merchant. This illustrates the advantage enjoyed by a druggist operating a National Cigar Stand over the ordinary method of buying and selling cigars. Three thousand of the biggest druggists in the United States have banded together in an aggressive cigar campaign. The organization is represented in Bellefonte by Green's Pharmacy Co. Compare the smoking quality of Official Seal, sold on Saturday and Sunday at 5c. straight, with brands offered by other dealers at corresponding price. The experiment will pay you well.

TENER'S SWINDLE IN WILLIAMSPORT

FIVE REPUBLICANS, ALL BANK DIRECTORS, APPROACHED.

GROOKS FAILED IN SCHEME

The Name of Tener Was Used as a Lode by Which to Attract Capital—Bribes Offered Bank Directors—None of Them Bit.

As a sample how John K. Tener's fraudulent corporation conducted its operations to swindle innocent people of their hard-earned savings, we clip the following from the Williamsport Sun of a recent date, where a bunch of their crooks located to conduct a "clean up" in that community. The "Sun" says:

The absorbing topic of political interest today is the charge now being openly made, connecting the name of John K. Tener, Republican candidate for the high office of governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with an ordinary get-rich-quick concern, in which his name was used as the stool pigeon to entrap others within reach of their swindling operations. And it turns out that the story does not lack local color or local corroboration, for an attempt was made within the past two months to inveigle Williamsporters in large numbers into the same concern, and by methods which are characteristic of the entire program of the promoters. In their operations here the name of John K. Tener was used for all it was worth, and by a strange coincidence all the parties approached were Republicans, among whom naturally that name was supposed to be one to conjure with.

Tener's Name on Literature. "Just about August 1 of this year a dapper gentleman with a blond moustache, by name Linwood Haines, of Haines & Co. Ironworkers, Daily Building, No. 1218 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, drifted into Williamsport with a private secretary, advertising manager and a suit case full of literature containing glowing bit of general description of Astoria, Oregon, and its environs for 100 miles. At all this literature the name of Tener appeared, either as first on its list of directors or as president of the National Public Utilities corporation, in which event it was usually crossed out and the name of W. L. Christian substituted, but the verbal explanation was always ready that the candidate, because of his candidacy, had gotten out of the presidency, but retained his interest in the company and remained on the directorate. The literature contained beautiful pictures of the developed and undeveloped northwest. There were pictures of logs ten feet through to interest the lumberman; immense crops to attract the agriculturist; engravings of seaside resorts, railroads and what not until the reader was lost in the midst of an iridescent dream.

The Local Propagation. "Appointments were quickly made with some of our prominent people, one of whom today told the Sun the details of the local scheme as here given: Five men of large financial standing in the community were to form a local branch of the National Public Utilities corporation, and take each ten units or shares, paying into the treasury the price of each unit, viz: $495, or a total of $4,950, making a grand total of $24,750. Incidentally with each unit there was to go one alleged building lot in the city of Astoria, Oregon, "of the undoubted value of $150," which was a pure bonus. All the people approached here were bank directors and prominent financially. When they were told to go into the scheme, the public in a campaign which was to take in all who would bite at the glittering bait, seemingly guaranteed to be good by the high-class of the local names. But these outsiders were not to be in on the same footing as the financials. The feature relied upon to attract their cupidity was a secret agreement whereby they were to be repaid their original investment with six per cent interest, if they desired it, and then were to receive $19,000 in the common stock of the corporation without any consideration further than the use that would have already been made of their name.

Local Men Wouldn't Bite. "To the credit of our local men, and at least five of them were approached, they declined to go into the scheme, or allow this shady use of their names and credit for the purpose and in this respect anyone of them has proved his fitness as a business man and man of honor in strong contrast to the man whom they will have to cast their votes for if they stick to their party ticket. Mr. Haines and his retinue spent nearly ten days in this city before he realized that the nets here were empty, and then dropped out of sight."

Among the hundreds of innocent victims who were swindled there is quite a bunch up at Altoona. The bulk are in the eastern part of Pennsylvania.

Think of it, the assets of this corporation were only an option on a charter of a worthless survey for a little railroad out in Oregon that was rejected as impracticable. Still worse, Tener's company never owned even the option. Had not purchased that. It is doubtful if the actual assets of this fraudulent corporation conceived to swindle innocent people, amounted to 30 cents.

How can a strictly honest man conscientiously support such a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania?

Reaching the Top in any calling of life, demands a vigorous body and a keen brain. Without health there is no success. But Electric Bitters is the greatest Health Builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, purifies and enriches the blood, tones and invigorates the whole system and enables you to stand the wear and tear of your daily work. "After months of suffering from kidney trouble," writes W. M. Smerman, of Cushing, Me., "three bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." 50c. at Green's Pharmacy Co.

It is more blessed to give than to receive—advise. People should avoid banks if they are susceptible to drafts.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

Arthur Moore, of Tyrone Forge, Accidentally Shot by a Friend.

The Tyrone Herald of October 20th, says:

"One of the most distressing tragedies that have been enacted in this community in years, occurred on Wednesday about 5:30 o'clock in the hollow leading to the Plummer farm east of Tyrone, when Arthur Moore, a resident of Tyrone Forge, was accidentally shot and instantly killed by his boson friend and companion and next door neighbor, Fred Shively. Arthur Moore had been to the mountains during the morning hours and returned about dinner time. Luck was against him as no game was in sight. He took the borrowed gun home and decided to rest the balance of the day. Shortly after dinner Fred Shively and William Switzer appeared on the scene, and the three boys, with only one gun, started for Plummer's hollow, where it was rumored turkeys were seen a short time before. The boys proceeded into the hills and were unsuccessful, as nothing crossed their trail, and as darkness was coming on they hurried out of the woods and were walking at a fast clip to the main road that leads to the Forge. A short distance up the mountain from the tanks the Pennsylvania railroad, near what is known as the storage dam or reservoir, Moore and Switzer were walking abreast along the road with Shively following Moore about five steps in the rear. Neither Moore or Switzer had a gun and as they walked along Moore turned his head to pass a laughing joke to his friend Shively in regards to some work being done at the forge, where the boys were employed, when the trigger on Shively's gun caught in a torn pocket and as quick as a flash an explosion occurred and Moore toppled over dead. The No. 4 shot entered the left lower side of Moore's mouth and forced its way on through into the brain. The gun was so close to Moore's face that the wads were forced through the skull, while his clothing was burnt with powder.

Horried at what occurred Shively yelled to Switzer who was then making steps towards his home, to bring help. Dr. W. S. Musser was in the vicinity and with young Shively's father rushed the scene first, to find Moore dead and his young friend, whose gun had committed the deed, almost broken hearted over the affair. Between his sobs he managed to tell how the sad affair happened. The body was rolled in a blanket and brought to the undertaker's establishment.

The young men, Shively and Switzer, came to Tyrone and went to Justice of the Peace George C. Davidson, and made statements to the effect that the three young men were on their way home to be out of the woods before dark. Moore and Switzer were walking abreast in the lead and Shively stated that he was swinging his gun at arms' length and walking at a rapid pace when Moore turned ed his head to say something and the hammer of his gun caught in his coat pocket and exploded the cartridge, killing his friend Moore.

John Arthur Moore was a son of Moses and Ida Moore. He was born at Pennsylvania Furnace December 2, 1885, and was aged 23 years, 9 months and 25 days. Surviving to mourn his death are his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Boyd, of Tyrone; Clarence and Homer at home; Mrs. Edward McKinley, of Bellwood; Bernice, Ora and Eva, at home. The funeral occurred on Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

Farmer Has Hydrophobia. Hugh Carter, a farmer residing near Altoona, was admitted to the Lewis-town hospital suffering from hydrophobia. More than a month ago a rabid dog bit a pet on the carter farm. The dog as well as all animals about the place were killed. A few days ago two milk cows were taken ill, and in administering medicine Carter's hand was lacerated upon a tooth of one of the cows. Both animals developed unmistakable symptoms of rabies and went bawling and snarling about the pasture until killed to put them out of their misery.

When a citizen of Wilkes-Barre spits on the sidewalk, is caught in the act and is too poor to pay the fine, he is hired out to the agent of the town's United Charities, who compels him to saw wood.

Nature makes the cures after all. Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out. Things get started in the wrong direction. Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with hypophosphites can do just this.

It strengthens the nerves, feeds famished tissues, and makes rich blood.

"Two bottles Cured My Rheumatism"

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for about two years, and have used many liniments and patent medicines which gave me no relief. A lady friend of mine told me she had used your Liniment and found relief at once. I got two bottles and they cured me. I think it is the best Liniment a person can have in the house. I shall always keep a bottle in my house as long as I can get it."—Mrs. E. R. WALLACE, Morrilton, Va.

Another Letter.

Mrs. JAMES McCRAW, of 1216 Mandeville St., New Orleans, La., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing to you that I had a pain in my arm for five years, and I used
