On Monday, December 26, legal Christmas day, a matinee for ladies and children at 10 and 20 cents; bargain prices and a treat for everybody. Monday night a famous play with plenty of fine specialties. This company is one of the most popular on the road. Don't forget Monday afternoon and night-10, 20 and 30 cents.

-Montgomery Bair, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bair, and John Smith, son of Mrs. Mary Smith, both of aré studying pharmacy Philadelphia, are expected to arrive home on Christmas morning to spend the holiday tenson with their re-spective parents. The boys are climb-ing steadily to the top in their chosen professions, and we would not be sur-prised to some day see displayed on a neat signboard in Bellefonte: "Smith & Bair, Druggists,'

-W. R. Harp left on Wednesday for Hagerstown, Md., to spend a few weeks at his home there, after which he will go to New York State, locating somewhere near Binghampton. Mr Harp, since coming to Bellefonte has made many warm friends who are oath to see him go. He has been agent for a Bible Society, his territory cuvering all of Pennsylvania, and as such has been very successful. While here he organized and was leader of a large choir, in the Lutheran church, which has been noted for its excellence, and many demands made for it's services. Mr. Harp himself is a sing-er of considerable ability, and a most affable gentleman.

-If Robert Sechler, the mail agent on the Lewisburg train, eats roast pork at his Christmas dinner instead of turkey, it is not through choice, but all because of a little incident which happened at his Spring street home a week or more ago. Robert had some nice hams and shoulders at his house, which he wished to smoke and lay away for winter's use. One day recently he rigged up a wire contrivance in his cellar and hung it on the joists. On the ends of the wires he suspended the aforesaid hams and shoulders and built a slow fire beneath. With visions of pice big slices of smoked ham every morncooked.
